Dell Technologies offerings include servers and networking, storage, cloud solutions, desktops, notebooks, services, software, branded peripherals, and third-party software and peripherals. References in these Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements to the â€œCompanyâ€ or â€œDell Technologiesâ€ mean Dell Technologies Inc. individually and together with its consolidated subsidiaries. Basis of Presentation â€” The accompanying unaudited Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements should be read in conjunction with the audited Consolidated Financial Statements and accompanying Notes filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (â€œSECâ€) in the Companyâ€™s Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended FebruaryÂ 2, 2024. These Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (â€œGAAPâ€). In the opinion of management, the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements reflect all adjustments of a normal recurring nature considered necessary to fairly state the financial position of the Company as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024 and the results of its operations, corresponding comprehensive income, changes in stockholdersâ€™ equity (deficit) for the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, and its cash flows for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023.The preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements and the accompanying Notes. Actual results could differ materially from those estimates. The results of its operations, corresponding comprehensive income, and changes in stockholdersâ€™ equity (deficit) for the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, and its cash flows for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023 are not necessarily indicative of the results to be expected for the full fiscal year or for any other fiscal period.The Companyâ€™s fiscal year is the 52- or 53-week period ending on the Friday nearest January 31. Both the fiscal year ended FebruaryÂ 2, 2024 (â€œFiscal 2024â€) and the fiscal year ending JanuaryÂ 31, 2025 (â€œFiscal 2025â€) are 52-week periods. Principles of Consolidation â€” These Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements include the accounts of Dell Technologies Inc., its wholly-owned subsidiaries, and the accounts of SecureWorks Corp. (â€œSecureworksâ€), which is majority-owned by Dell Technologies. All intercompany transactions have been eliminated.The Company also consolidates Variable Interest Entities ("VIEs") where it has been determined that the Company is the primary beneficiary of the applicable entitiesâ€™ operations. For each VIE, the primary beneficiary is the party that has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance and the obligation to absorb losses or the right to receive benefits of the VIE that could potentially be significant to such VIE. In evaluating whether the Company is the primary beneficiary of each entity, the Company evaluates its power to direct the most significant activities of the VIE by considering the purpose and design of each entity and the risks each entity was designed to create and pass through to its respective variable interest holders. The Company also evaluates its economic interests in each of the VIEs. See Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for more information regarding consolidated VIEs.Secureworks â€” As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, the Company held approximately 78.7% and 81.0%, respectively, of the outstanding equity interest in Secureworks. The portion of the results of operations of Secureworks allocable to its other owners is shown as net loss attributable to non-controlling interests in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income, as an adjustment to net income attributable to Dell Technologies stockholders. The non-controlling interestsâ€™ share of equity in Secureworks is reflected as non-controlling interests in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position and was $95 million as of both NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024.On October 21, 2024, Secureworks announced that it has entered into a definitive agreement pursuant to which Sophos Inc., an affiliate of Thoma Bravo, L.P., a private equity and growth capital firm, will acquire Secureworks in an all-cash transaction for approximately $0.9Â billion, subject to certain closing adjustments. The transaction is expected to close in early 2025, subject to customary closing conditions.11Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)In accordance with applicable accounting guidance, the Company concluded that Secureworksâ€™ assets and liabilities have met the criteria to be classified as held-for-sale as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024. The Company reclassified the related assets and liabilities as Current assets held for sale and Current liabilities held for sale, respectively, in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024. The following table presents the major classes of assets and liabilities as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 related to Secureworks, which were classified as held for sale as of the date indicated:November 1, 2024(in millions)ASSETSCurrent assets:Cash and cash equivalents$53Â Accounts receivable, net47Â Other current assets15Â Total current assets115Â Goodwill427Â Intangible assets, net63Â Other non-current assets57Â Total assets$662Â LIABILITIESCurrent liabilities:Accrued and other$58Â Short-term deferred revenue125Â Total current liabilities183Â Other non-current liabilities28Â Total liabilities$211Â The sale of Secureworks does not meet the criteria for discontinued operations reporting, and as a result its operating results and cash flows are not separately stated as a discontinued operation in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements. As Secureworks does not meet the requirements for a reportable segment, its operating results are included within Other businesses.Other Events â€” On October 4, 2023, the Company established a new consumer revolving financing program with Comenity Capital Bank, a subsidiary of Bread Financial Holdings, Inc. (â€œBreadâ€), under which transactions are originated, owned, serviced, and collected by Bread. Under the agreement, the Company also sold its U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio for total cash consideration of approximately $390 million, resulting in an immaterial gain recognized within the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income. The Company has no continuing involvement with these receivables, which are serviced by Bread.Recently Issued Accounting PronouncementsExpense Disaggregation Disclosures â€” In November 2024, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (â€œFASBâ€) issued guidance to improve disclosures about a public entityâ€™s expenses by requiring disclosure of additional information about the types of expenses commonly presented in the financial statements on an annual and interim basis. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2026, with early adoption permitted. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2023, with early adoption permitted. Upon adoption, the guidance is required to be applied retrospectively to all prior periods presented in the financial statements. Adoption of this new guidance will result in increased disclosures in the Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements.13Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 2Â â€” FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENTSThe following table presents the Companyâ€™s hierarchy for its assets and liabilities measured at fair value on a recurring basis as of the dates indicated:Â November 1, 2024February 2, 2024Â Level 1Level 2Level 3TotalLevel 1Level 2Level 3TotalÂ Quoted Prices in Active Markets for Identical AssetsSignificant Other Observable InputsSignificant Unobservable InputsÂ Quoted Prices in Active Markets for Identical AssetsSignificant Other Observable InputsSignificant Unobservable InputsÂ Â (in millions)Assets:Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Money market funds$2,011Â $â€”Â $â€”Â $2,011Â $3,170Â $â€”Â $â€”Â $3,170Â Marketable equity and other securities6Â â€”Â â€”Â 6Â 10Â â€”Â â€”Â 10Â Derivative instrumentsâ€”Â 124Â â€”Â 124Â â€”Â 104Â â€”Â 104Â Total assets$2,017Â $124Â $â€”Â $2,141Â $3,180Â $104Â $â€”Â $3,284Â Liabilities:Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Derivative instruments$â€”Â $101Â $â€”Â $101Â $â€”Â $84Â $â€”Â $84Â Total liabilities$â€”Â $101Â $â€”Â $101Â $â€”Â $84Â $â€”Â $84Â The following section describes the valuation methodologies the Company uses to measure financial instruments at fair value.Money Market Funds â€” The Companyâ€™s investment in money market funds that are classified as cash equivalents hold underlying investments with a weighted average maturity of 90 days or less and are recognized at fair value. The valuations of these securities are based on quoted prices in active markets for identical assets, when available, or pricing models whereby all significant inputs are observable or can be derived from, or corroborated by, observable market data. The Company reviews security pricing and assesses money market fund liquidity on a quarterly basis. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Companyâ€™s portfolio had no material exposure to money market funds with a fluctuating net asset value. Marketable Equity and Other Securities â€” The Companyâ€™s investments in equity and other securities that are measured at fair value on a recurring basis consist of strategic investments in publicly-traded companies. The valuation of these securities is based on quoted prices in active markets.Derivative Instruments â€” The Companyâ€™s derivative financial instruments consist primarily of foreign currency forward and purchased option contracts and interest rate swaps. The fair value of the portfolio is determined using valuation models based on market observable inputs, including interest rate curves, forward and spot prices for currencies, and implied volatilities. Credit risk is also factored into the fair value calculation of the Companyâ€™s derivative financial instrument portfolio. See Note 7 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for a description of the Companyâ€™s derivative financial instrument activities.Deferred Compensation Plans â€” The Company offers deferred compensation plans for eligible employees which allow participants to defer a portion of their compensation. Assets and liabilities associated with the plans are measured at fair value using Level 1 inputs. Assets were the same as liabilities associated with the plans at approximately $243 million and $214 million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, respectively, and are included in other assets and other liabilities on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position. The net impact on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income is not material since changes in the fair value of the assets substantially offset changes in the fair value of the liabilities. As such, assets and liabilities associated with these plans have not been included in the recurring fair value table above.14Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)Assets and Liabilities Measured at Fair Value on a Nonrecurring Basis â€” Certain assets are measured at fair value on a nonrecurring basis and therefore are not included in the recurring fair value table above. These assets consist primarily of financial assets such as the Companyâ€™s fixed income debt securities and strategic investments in non-marketable equity and other securities and non-financial assets such as goodwill and intangible assets. Fixed income debt securities are recorded at amortized cost and approximate fair value. The fair value of fixed income debt securities is determined based on observable market prices in a less active market or based on valuation methodologies using observable inputs. If measured at fair value in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position, these securities would generally be classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. See Note 3 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s fixed income debt securities.Strategic investments in non-marketable equity and other securities and certain non-financial assets such as goodwill and intangibles are measured at fair value only if they are deemed to be impaired or when there is an adjustment from observable price changes in the current period. If measured at fair value in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position, these securities would generally be classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy. See Note 3 and Note 8 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s investments and goodwill and intangible assets, respectively.Carrying Value and Estimated Fair Value of Outstanding Debt â€” The following table presents the carrying value and estimated fair value of the Companyâ€™s outstanding debt as described in Note 6 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, including the current portion, as of the dates indicated:November 1, 2024February 2, 2024Carrying ValueFair ValueCarrying ValueFair Value(in billions)Senior Notes$15.0Â $15.1Â $15.5Â $15.8Â Legacy Notes$0.9Â $1.0Â $0.9Â $1.0Â DFS Debt$9.2Â $8.9Â $9.5Â $9.1Â The fair values of the outstanding debt shown in the table above were determined based on observable market prices in a less active market or based on valuation methodologies using observable inputs and were categorized as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy.15Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 3 â€” INVESTMENTSThe Company has strategic investments in equity and other securities as well as investments in fixed income debt securities. All equity and other securities as well as long-term fixed income debt securities are recorded as long-term investments while short-term fixed income debt securities are recorded as other current assets in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position. Total investments were $1.4 billion as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and $1.6 billion as of FebruaryÂ 2, 2024.Equity and Other SecuritiesEquity and other securities include strategic investments in marketable and non-marketable securities. Investments in marketable securities are measured at fair value on a recurring basis. Investments in non-marketable equity and other securities represent early-stage companies without readily determinable fair values. The Company has elected to apply the measurement alternative for non-marketable securities. Under the alternative, the Company measures investments without readily determinable fair values at cost, less impairment, adjusted for observable price changes. The Company makes a separate election to use the alternative for each eligible investment and is required to reassess at each reporting period whether an investment qualifies for the alternative. In evaluating these investments for impairment or observable price changes, the Company uses inputs including pre- and post-money valuations of recent financing events and the impact of those events on its fully diluted ownership percentages, as well as other available information regarding the issuerâ€™s historical and forecasted performance.Carrying Value of Equity and Other SecuritiesThe following table presents the cost, cumulative unrealized gains, cumulative unrealized losses, and carrying value of the Company's strategic investments in marketable and non-marketable equity and other securities as of the dates indicated: November 1, 2024February 2, 2024CostUnrealized GainUnrealized LossCarrying ValueCostUnrealized GainUnrealized LossCarrying Value(in millions)Marketable$12Â $26Â (32)6Â $12Â $24Â (26)10Â Non-marketable702Â 863Â (260)1,305Â 732Â 1,015Â (454)1,293Â Total equity and other securities$714Â $889Â (292)1,311Â $744Â $1,039Â (480)1,303Â 16Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)Gains and Losses on Equity and Other SecuritiesThe following table presents unrealized gains and losses on marketable and non-marketable equity and other securities for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023(in millions)Marketable securities:Unrealized gain$3Â $â€”Â $3Â $1Â Unrealized lossâ€”Â â€”Â (6)(23)Net unrealized gain (loss)3Â â€”Â (3)(22)Non-marketable securities:Unrealized gain7Â 6Â 7Â 15Â Unrealized lossâ€”Â (3)(31)(49)Net unrealized gain (loss) (a) (b)7Â 3Â (24)(34)Net unrealized gain (loss) on equity and other securities$10Â $3Â (27)(56)_____(a)Â Â Â Â For the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, net gains on non-marketable securities are primarily due to upward adjustments for observable price changes. Fixed Income Debt Securities As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, the Company held fixed income debt securities of $61Â million and $301Â million, respectively, which it intends to hold to maturity. These investments are recorded at amortized cost and approximate fair value. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company held $60Â million in fixed income debt securities which will mature within one year and $1Â million in fixed income debt securities which will mature within five years.17Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 4Â â€” FINANCIAL SERVICESThe Company offers or arranges various financing options and alternative payment structures for its customers globally. Alternative payment structures consist of various flexible consumption models, including utility, subscription, and as-a-Service models. Financing options are offered to the Companyâ€™s customers primarily through Dell Financial Services and its affiliates (â€œDFSâ€). The Company also arranges financing for some of its customers in various countries where DFS does not currently operate as a captive enterprise. The key activities of DFS include originating, collecting, and servicing customer financing arrangements primarily related to the purchase or use of Dell Technologies products and services. In some cases, DFS also offers financing for the purchase of third-party technology products that complement the Dell Technologies portfolio of products and services. New financing originations were $1.6 billion and $1.8 billion for the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively, and $5.9 billion and $6.0 billion for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively.The Companyâ€™s lease and loan arrangements with customers are aggregated primarily into the following categories:Fixed-term leases and loans â€” The Company enters into financing arrangements with customers who seek lease financing for equipment. DFS leases are generally classified as sales-type leases or operating leases. Leases with business customers have fixed terms of generally two to four years. The Company also offers fixed-term loans to qualified small businesses, large commercial accounts, governmental organizations, educational entities, and certain individual consumer customers. These loans are repaid in equal payments including interest and have defined terms of generally three to five years. The fair value of the fixed-term loan portfolio is determined using market observable inputs.Â The carrying value of these loans approximates fair value.Revolving loans â€” The Company primarily offers revolving loans to small and medium-sized commercial customers. Revolving loans provide qualified customers with a revolving credit line for the purchase of products and services offered by Dell Technologies. Revolving loans in the United States bear interest at a variable annual percentage rate that is tied to the prime rate. Based on historical payment patterns, revolving loan transactions are typically repaid within twelve months on average. Due to the short-term nature of the revolving loan portfolio, the carrying value of the portfolio approximates fair value.Prior to the sale of the U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio on October 4, 2023, described in Note 1 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, the Company offered private label credit financing under the Dell Preferred Account (â€œDPAâ€) program. The DPA product was primarily offered to individual consumer customers. During the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company discontinued remaining offerings under the revolving loan portfolio. The Company will support existing customer arrangements as well as transition these customers to fixed-term offerings. Flexible consumption models, as defined above, further enable the Company to offer its customers the option to pay over time to provide them with financial and operational flexibility. Such models may result in identification of embedded lease arrangements that lead to the recognition of operating or sales-type leases.18Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)Financing ReceivablesThe following table presents the components of the Companyâ€™s financing receivables segregated by portfolio segment as of the dates indicated:Â November 1, 2024February 2, 2024RevolvingFixed-termTotalRevolvingFixed-termTotalÂ (in millions)Financing receivables, net:Â Â Customer receivables, gross (a)$126Â $10,699Â $10,825Â $173Â $10,360Â $10,533Â Allowances for losses(7)(137)(144)(9)(161)(170)Customer receivables, net119Â 10,562Â 10,681Â 164Â 10,199Â 10,363Â Residual interestâ€”Â 169Â 169Â â€”Â 157Â 157Â Financing receivables, net$119Â $10,731Â $10,850Â $164Â $10,356Â $10,520Â Short-term$119Â $4,882Â $5,001Â $164Â $4,479Â $4,643Â Long-term$â€”Â $5,849Â $5,849Â $â€”Â $5,877Â $5,877Â _____(a)Â Â Â Â Customer receivables, gross include amounts due from customers under revolving loans, fixed-term loans, fixed-term leases, and accrued interest.The following tables present the changes in allowance for financing receivable losses for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023RevolvingFixed-termTotalRevolvingFixed-termTotal(in millions)Allowance for financing receivable losses:Balances at beginning of period$8Â $158Â $166Â $9Â $140Â $149Â Charge-offs, net of recoveries(3)(35)(38)(4)(3)(7)Provision charged to income statement2Â 14Â 16Â 4Â 7Â 11Â Balances at end of period$7Â $137Â $144Â $9Â $144Â $153Â Nine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023RevolvingFixed-termTotalRevolvingFixed-termTotal(in millions)Allowance for financing receivable losses:Balances at beginning of period$9Â $161Â $170Â $88Â $113Â $201Â Charge-offs, net of recoveries(9)(56)(65)(37)(5)(42)Provision charged to income statement7Â 32Â 39Â 32Â 36Â 68Â Other (a)â€”Â â€”Â â€”Â (74)â€”Â (74)Balances at end of period$7Â $137Â $144Â $9Â $144Â $153Â _____(a)Â Â Â Â Other represents the derecognition of the allowance for financing receivable losses related to the sale of the U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio described in Note 1 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements. 19Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)The Company recognizes an allowance for financing receivable losses, including both the lease receivable and unguaranteed residual, in an amount equal to the expected losses net of recoveries. The allowance for financing receivable losses on the lease receivable is determined based on various factors, including lifetime expected losses determined using macroeconomic forecast assumptions and management judgments applicable to and through the expected life of the portfolios as well as past due receivables, receivable type, and customer risk profile. The Company continues to monitor broader economic indicators and their potential impact on future credit loss performance. Aging is also impacted by the timing of the Companyâ€™s fiscal period end date relative to calendar month-end customer payment due dates.Â As a result of these factors, fluctuations in aging from period to period do not necessarily indicate a material change in the collectibility of the portfolio.Fixed-term customer receivables are placed on non-accrual status if principal or interest is past due and considered delinquent, or if there is concern about the collectibility of a specific customer receivable. The receivables identified as doubtful for collectibility may be classified as current for aging purposes. Aged revolving portfolio customer receivables identified as delinquent are charged off.20Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)Credit QualityThe following tables present customer receivables, gross, including accrued interest, by credit quality indicator, segregated by class, as of the dates indicated: November 1, 2024Fixed-term â€” Fiscal Year of Origination20252024202320222021Years PriorRevolvingTotal(in millions)Higher$1,555Â $2,440Â $1,560Â $515Â $158Â $14Â $25Â $6,267Â Mid733Â 710Â 432Â 122Â 22Â 5Â 37Â 2,061Â Lower1,505Â 465Â 314Â 88Â 58Â 3Â 64Â 2,497Â Total$3,793Â $3,615Â 2, 2024Fixed-term â€” Fiscal Year of Origination20242023202220212020Years PriorRevolvingTotal(in millions)Higher$3,261Â $1,979Â $833Â $345Â $64Â $â€”Â $47Â $6,529Â Mid1,111Â 911Â 290Â 86Â 19Â â€”Â 50Â 2,467Â Lower703Â 469Â 187Â 80Â 21Â 1Â 76Â 1,537Â Total$5,075Â $3,359Â categories shown in the tables above segregate customer receivables based on the relative degrees of credit risk. The asset-based financing facility consists of two tranches, with effective dates through JulyÂ 7, 2025 and JulyÂ 7, 2026, respectively. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the total debt capacity related to the asset-based financing facility was $5.0 billion. The debt has a variable interest rate, and the duration of the debt is based on the terms of the underlying lease and loan payment streams. The Company enters into interest rate swap agreements to economically convert a portion of this debt from a floating rate to a fixed rate. See Note 7 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s interest rate swaps.23Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)The asset-based financing facility contains standard structural features related to the performance of the funded receivables, which include defined credit losses, delinquencies, average credit scores, and minimum collection requirements. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, these criteria were met.Fixed-Term Securitization Offerings â€” The Company periodically issues asset-backed debt securities under fixed-term securitization programs to private investors. The asset-backed debt securities are collateralized solely by the U.S. fixed-term lease and loan payments and associated equipment, which are held by Special Purpose Entities (â€œSPEsâ€), as discussed below. The interest rate on these securities is fixed and ranges from 4.14% to 6.80% per annum as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, and the duration of these securities is based on the terms of the underlying lease and loan payment streams.DFS International DebtSecuritization Facility â€” The Company maintains a securitization facility in Europe for fixed-term leases and loans. This facility is effective through DecemberÂ 23, 2024 and had a total debt capacity of $871Â million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024. The securitization facility contains standard structural features related to the performance of the securitized receivables, which include defined credit losses, delinquencies, average credit scores, and minimum collection requirements. In the event one or more of these criteria are not met and the Company is unable to restructure the program, no further funding of receivables will be permitted and the timing of the Companyâ€™s expected cash flows from over-collateralization will be delayed. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, these criteria were met.Other Borrowings â€” In connection with the Companyâ€™s international financing operations, the Company has entered into revolving structured financing debt programs related to its fixed-term lease and loan products sold in Canada, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, the Middle East, and Singapore. The debt under these programs has a variable interest rate. The duration of the debt in Canada, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, and the Middle East is based on the terms of the underlying lease and loan payment streams. These facilities are collateralized solely by the lease and loan payments and associated equipment in their respective region or country. The Canadian facility had a total debt capacity of $323 million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and is effective through JanuaryÂ 16, 2025. The European facility had a total debt capacity of $544 million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and is effective through DecemberÂ 14, 2026. The SPEs are bankruptcy-remote legal entities with separate assets and liabilities. The purpose of the SPEs is to facilitate the funding of customer lease and loan payments and associated equipment in the capital markets.Some of the SPEs have entered into financing arrangements with multi-seller conduits that, in turn, issue asset-backed debt securities in the capital markets. DFS debt outstanding held by the consolidated VIEs is collateralized by the lease and loan payments and associated equipment. The Companyâ€™s risk of loss related to securitized receivables is limited to the amount by which the Companyâ€™s right to receive collections for assets securitized exceeds the amount required to pay interest, principal, and fees and expenses related to the asset-backed securities. The Company provides credit enhancement to the securitization in the form of over-collateralization.The following table presents the assets and liabilities held by the consolidated VIEs as of the dates indicated, which are included in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position:Â November 1, 2024February 2, 2024Â (in millions)Assets held by consolidated VIEsOther current assets$123Â $136Â Financing receivables, net of allowanceShort-term$3,354Â $3,314Â Long-term$2,989Â $2,747Â Property, plant, and equipment, net$1,022Â $1,081Â Liabilities held by consolidated VIEsDebt, net of unamortized debt issuance costsShort-term$4,888Â $4,450Â Long-term$1,838Â $2,184Â Lease and loan payments and associated equipment transferred via securitization through SPEs were $1.0 billion and $1.1 billion for the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively, and $3.0 billion and $3.7 billion for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively.Customer Receivables SalesTo manage certain concentrations of customer credit exposure, the Company may sell selected fixed-term customer receivables to unrelated third parties on a periodic basis, without recourse. The Legacy Notesâ€™ maturities range from 2028 through 2040. Interest rates on these borrowings are fixed, ranging from 5.40% to 7.10%, and interest is payable semiannually.DFS Debt â€” See Note 4 and Note 7 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, respectively, for discussion of DFS debt and the interest rate swap agreements that hedge a portion of that debt.Revolving Credit Facility â€” The Companyâ€™s revolving credit facility provides the Company with revolving commitments in an aggregate principal amount of $6.0Â billion for general corporate purposes and includes a letter of credit sub-facility of up to $0.5Â billion and a swing-line loan sub-facility of up to $0.5Â billion. The revolving credit facility also allows the Company to obtain incremental additional commitments on one or more occasions in minimum amounts of $10Â million. Borrowings under the revolving credit facility bear interest at a rate per annum equal to an applicable margin plus, at the borrowersâ€™ option, either (a) the specified adjusted term Secured Overnight Financing Rate (â€œSOFRâ€) or (b) a base rate. The margin applicable to SOFR and base rate borrowings varies based upon the Companyâ€™s existing credit ratings. The base rate is calculated based upon the greatest of the specified prime rate, the specified federal reserve bank rate, or SOFR plus 1%. The borrowers may voluntarily repay outstanding loans at any time without premium or penalty, other than customary breakage costs. The facility matures on November 1, 2027. 28Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company had no outstanding borrowings under the revolving credit facility.Commercial Paper Program â€” The Company maintains a commercial paper program under which the Company may issue unsecured notes in a maximum aggregate face amount of $5.0Â billion outstanding at any time, with maturities up to 397 days from the date of issuance. The notes are sold on customary terms in the U.S. commercial paper market on a private placement basis. The proceeds of the notes are used for general corporate purposes. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company had no outstanding issuances under the commercial paper program.The Company may purchase, redeem, prepay, refinance, or otherwise retire any amount of outstanding indebtedness under the terms of such indebtedness at any time and from time to time, in open market or negotiated transactions with the holders of such indebtedness or otherwise, as considered appropriate in light of market conditions and other relevant factors.Covenants â€” The credit agreement governing the revolving credit facility and the indentures governing the Senior Notes and the Legacy Notes impose various limitations, subject to exceptions, on creating certain liens and entering into sale and lease-back transactions. The foregoing credit agreement and indentures contain customary events of default, and the revolving credit facility is subject to an interest coverage ratio covenant that is tested at the end of each fiscal quarter with respect to the Companyâ€™s preceding four fiscal quarters. The Company was in compliance with this financial covenant as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024.Aggregate Future Maturities The following table presents the aggregate future maturities of the Companyâ€™s debt as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, excluding associated carrying value adjustments, for the periods indicated:November 1, 2024(in millions)Fiscal 2025 (remaining three months)$2,023Â Fiscal 20263,996Â Fiscal 20276,020Â Fiscal 20281,308Â Fiscal 20291,372Â Thereafter10,533Â Total maturities, principal amount$25,252Â 29Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 7 â€” DERIVATIVE INSTRUMENTS AND HEDGING ACTIVITIES As part of its risk management strategy, the Company uses derivative instruments, primarily foreign currency forward and option contracts and interest rate swaps, to hedge certain foreign currency and interest rate exposures, respectively.The Companyâ€™s objective is to offset gains and losses resulting from these exposures with gains and losses on the derivative contracts used to hedge the exposures, thereby reducing volatility of earnings and protecting the fair values of assets and liabilities. The earnings effects of the derivative instruments are presented in the same line items on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income as the earnings effects of the hedged items. For derivatives designated as cash flow hedges, the Company assesses hedge effectiveness both at the onset of the hedge and at regular intervals throughout the life of the instruments. For derivatives designated as fair value hedges, the Company assesses hedge effectiveness on qualifying instruments using the shortcut method whereby the hedges are considered perfectly effective at the onset of the hedge and over the life of the hedging relationship.Foreign Exchange RiskThe Company uses foreign currency forward and option contracts designated as cash flow hedges to protect against the foreign currency exchange rate risks inherent in its forecasted transactions denominated in currencies other than the U.S. Dollar. Hedge accounting is applied based upon the criteria established by accounting guidance for derivative instruments and hedging activities. The risk of loss associated with purchased options is limited to premium amounts paid for the option contracts. The risk of loss associated with forward contracts is equal to the exchange rate differential from the time the contract is entered into until the time it is settled. The majority of these contracts typically expire in twelve months or less.During the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, the Company did not discontinue any cash flow hedges related to foreign exchange contracts that had a material impact on the Companyâ€™s results of operations due to the probability that the forecasted cash flows would not occur.The Company uses forward contracts to hedge monetary assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency. These contracts generally expire in three months or less, are considered economic hedges, and are not designated for hedge accounting. The change in the fair value of these instruments represents a natural hedge as their gains and losses offset the changes in the underlying fair value of the monetary assets and liabilities due to movements in currency exchange rates.In connection with DFS operations in Europe, forward contracts are used to hedge financing receivables denominated in foreign currencies other than Euro. These contracts are not designated for hedge accounting and most expire within three years or less.Interest Rate RiskThe Company uses interest rate swaps to hedge the variability in cash flows related to the interest rate payments on structured financing debt. The interest rate swaps economically convert the variable rate on the structured financing debt to a fixed interest rate to match the underlying fixed rate being received on fixed-term customer leases and loans. These contracts are not designated for hedge accounting and most expire within four years or less.Interest rate swaps are utilized to manage the interest rate risk, at a portfolio level, associated with DFS operations in Europe. The interest rate swaps economically convert the fixed rate on financing receivables to a three-month Euribor floating rate in order to match the floating rate nature of the banksâ€™ funding pool. The Company also uses interest rate swaps to manage the cash flows related to interest payments on senior unsecured eurobonds. The interest rate swaps economically convert the fixed rate on the Companyâ€™s bonds to a floating rate to match the underlying lease repayments profile. These contracts are not designated for hedge accounting and most expire within five years or less. See Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for more information about the Dell Bank senior unsecured eurobonds.30Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)The Company utilizes cross-currency amortizing swaps to hedge the currency and interest rate risk exposure associated with the European securitization program. The cross-currency swaps combine a Euro-based interest rate swap with a British Pound or U.S. Dollar foreign exchange forward contract in which the Company pays a fixed or floating British Pound or U.S. Dollar amount and receives a fixed or floating amount in Euros linked to the one-month Euribor rate. The notional value of the swaps amortizes in line with the expected cash flows and run-off of the securitized assets.Â The swaps are not designated for hedge accounting and expire within five years or less.Derivative InstrumentsThe following table presents the notional amounts of outstanding derivative instruments as of the dates indicated:Â November 1, 2024February 2, 2024Â (in millions)Foreign exchange contracts:Â Â Designated as cash flow hedging instruments$6,773Â $6,339Â Non-designated as hedging instruments6,157Â 5,844Â Total$12,930Â $12,183Â Interest rate contracts:Non-designated as hedging instruments$6,357Â $6,551Â The following table presents the effect of derivative instruments designated as cash flow hedging instruments on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position and the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income for the periods indicated:Derivatives in Cash Flow Hedging RelationshipsGain (Loss) Recognized in Accumulated OCI, Net of Tax, on DerivativesLocation of Gain (Loss) Reclassified from Accumulated OCI into IncomeGain (Loss) Reclassified from Accumulated OCI into Income(in millions)(in millions)For the three months ended November 1, 2024:Total net revenue$(57)Foreign exchange

In electing to bypass the qualitative assessment, the Company proceeded directly to perform a quantitative goodwill impairment test to measure the fair value of each goodwill reporting unit relative to its carrying amount, and to determine the amount of goodwill impairment loss to be recognized, if any. For the remaining reporting units, the Company performed a qualitative assessment of goodwill at the reporting unit level. The qualitative assessment included consideration of the relevant events and circumstances affecting the reporting unit, including macroeconomic, industry and market conditions, overall financial performance, and trends in the public company market valuation, where applicable. Additionally, Secureworksâ€™ entry into a definitive agreement, pursuant to which Secureworks will be acquired in an all-cash transaction for approximately $0.9Â billion, as discussed in Note 1 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, provided a fair value indication that the Secureworks reporting unit exceeded its carrying value.Management exercised significant judgment related to the above assessments, including the identification of goodwill reporting units, assignment of assets and liabilities to goodwill reporting units, assignment of goodwill to reporting units, and determination of the fair value of each goodwill reporting unit. For the quantitative goodwill impairment test, the fair value of each goodwill reporting unit is generally estimated using a combination of public company multiples and discounted cash flow methodologies. The discounted cash flow and public company multiples methodologies require significant judgment, including estimation of future revenues, gross margins, and operating expenses, which are dependent on internal forecasts, current and anticipated economic conditions and trends, selection of market multiples through assessment of the reporting unitâ€™s performance relative to peer competitors, the estimation of the long-term revenue growth rate and discount rate of the Companyâ€™s business, and the determination of the Companyâ€™s weighted average cost of capital. Changes in these estimates and assumptions could materially affect the fair value of the goodwill reporting unit, potentially resulting in a non-cash impairment charge.The fair value of the indefinite-lived trade names is generally estimated using discounted cash flow methodologies. These methodologies require significant judgment, including the estimation of future revenue, the estimation of the long-term revenue growth rate of the Companyâ€™s business and the determination of the Companyâ€™s weighted average cost of capital and royalty rates. Changes in these estimates and assumptions could materially affect the fair value of the indefinite-lived intangible assets, potentially resulting in a non-cash impairment charge.Based on the results of the annual impairment test performed during the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the fair values of each of the reporting units and indefinite-lived intangibles exceeded their carrying values. No goodwill or indefinite-lived assets impairment test was performed during the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 other than the Companyâ€™s annual impairment review and the assessment of Secureworks.35Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 9 â€” DEFERRED REVENUE Deferred revenue consists of support and deployment services, software maintenance, training, software-as-a-service, and undelivered hardware and professional services, consisting of installations and consulting engagements. Remaining performance obligations include deferred revenue plus unbilled amounts not yet recorded in deferred revenue. The value of the transaction price allocated to remaining performance obligations as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 was approximately $37 billion. The Company expects to recognize approximately 60% of remaining performance obligations as revenue in the next twelve months, and the remainder thereafter.The aggregate amount of the transaction price allocated to remaining performance obligations does not include amounts owed under cancelable contracts where there is no substantive termination penalty. The Company applied the practical expedient to exclude the value of remaining performance obligations for contracts for which revenue is recognized at the amount to which the Company has the right to invoice for services performed.Remaining performance obligation estimates are subject to change and are affected by several factors, including terminations, changes in the scope of contracts, periodic revalidation, adjustments for revenue that have not materialized, and adjustments for currency.36Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 10Â â€” COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES Purchase ObligationsThe Company has contractual obligations to purchase goods or services, which specify significant terms (including fixed or minimum quantities to be purchased), fixed, minimum, or variable price provisions, and the approximate timing of the transaction. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, such purchase obligations were $6.4 billion for the remaining three months of Fiscal 2025; $0.5 billion for Fiscal 2026; and $1.2 billion for Fiscal 2027 and thereafter.Legal MattersThe Company is involved in various claims, suits, assessments, investigations, and legal proceedings that arise from time to time in the ordinary course of its business, including those identified below, consisting of matters involving consumer, antitrust, tax, intellectual property, and other issues on a global basis. The Company accrues a liability when it believes that it is both probable that a liability has been incurred and that it can reasonably estimate the amount of the loss. The Company reviews these accruals at least quarterly and adjusts them to reflect ongoing negotiations, settlements, rulings, advice of legal counsel, and other relevant information. To the extent new information is obtained and the Companyâ€™s views on the probable outcomes of claims, suits, assessments, investigations, or legal proceedings change, changes in the Companyâ€™s accrued liabilities are recorded in the period in which such a determination is made. For some matters, the incurrence of a liability is not probable or the amount cannot be reasonably estimated and therefore accruals have not been made. The following is a discussion of the Companyâ€™s significant legal matters and other proceedings:Class Actions Related to the Class V TransactionÂ â€” On DecemberÂ 28, 2018, the Company completed a transaction (the â€œClass V transactionâ€) in which it paid $14.0Â billion in cash and issued 149,387,617 shares of its Class C Common Stock to holders of its Class V Common Stock in exchange for all outstanding shares of Class V Common Stock. As a result of the Class V transaction, the tracking stock feature of the Companyâ€™s capital structure associated with the Class V Common Stock was terminated. Certain stockholders of the Company subsequently brought class action complaints arising out of the Class V transaction in which they named as defendants (collectively, the â€œdefendantsâ€) Michael S. Dell and certain other directors serving on the Companyâ€™s board of directors at the time of the Class V transaction (collectively, the â€œdirector defendantsâ€), certain stockholders of the Company, consisting of Mr. Dell and Silver Lake Group, L.L.C. and certain of its affiliated funds (collectively, the â€œstockholder defendantsâ€), and Goldman Sachs & Co. LLC, which served as financial advisor to the Company in connection with the transaction. The plaintiffs generally alleged that the director defendants and the stockholder defendants breached their fiduciary duties under Delaware law to the former holders of the Class V Common Stock in connection with the Class V transaction by offering a transaction value that was allegedly billions of dollars below fair value. As previously reported, during the fourth quarter of the fiscal year ended February 3, 2023, the plaintiffs and the defendants entered into an agreement to settle the lawsuit. Under the terms of the settlement, the plaintiffs agreed to the dismissal of all claims upon payment of a total of $1.0Â billion (the â€œsettlement amountâ€), which includes all costs, expenses and fees of the plaintiff class relating to the action and its resolution. On May 16, 2023, during the fiscal year ended February 2, 2024, the Company paid the settlement amount following approval of the settlement by the Delaware Court of Chancery. This matter is no longer material to the Company.37Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)R2 Semiconductor Patent Litigation â€” In November 2022, R2 Semiconductor, Inc. (â€œR2â€) filed a lawsuit in the Dusseldorf Regional Court in Germany against Intel Deutschland GmbH, Dell GmbH, and certain other customers of Intel Corporation. R2 asserted that one European patent is infringed by certain Intel processors and those of the Companyâ€™s products that incorporate those processors. R2 sought an injunction prohibiting the sale of the allegedly infringing products and damages for the alleged infringement. The court conducted a trial on December 7, 2023 and, on February 7, 2024, issued a decision in favor of R2 and imposed an injunction prohibiting the sale and use of such products in Germany by Dell GmbH, and requiring Dell GmbH to issue a communication to certain customers recalling the covered products sold since March 5, 2020. On February 8, 2024, the Company filed an appeal. In April and May 2024, R2 filed lawsuits in Paris, France and Milan, Italy, against affiliates of Intel Corporation (â€œIntelâ€) and of the Company, raising similar allegations. Intel agreed to defend the foregoing actions and indemnify the Company and its affiliates against certain losses incurred by the Company in connection with R2â€™s claims. On August 30, 2024, Intel and R2 publicly announced an agreement to dismiss all litigation between the two companies that would include dismissal of all litigation against all subsidiaries of Dell Technologies named in the foregoing actions. Pursuant to that agreement, the Italian lawsuit was dismissed on September 2, 2024, the German lawsuit was dismissed on September 4, 2024, and the French lawsuit was dismissed on September 6, 2024.Other Litigation â€” Dell does not currently anticipate that any of the other legal proceedings it is involved in will have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows.In accordance with the relevant accounting guidance, the Company provides disclosures of matters where it is at least reasonably possible that the Company could experience a material loss exceeding the amounts already accrued for these or other proceedings or matters. In addition, the Company also discloses matters based on its consideration of other matters and qualitative factors, including the experience of other companies in the industry, and investor, customer, and employee relations considerations. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company does not believe there is a reasonable possibility that a material loss exceeding the amounts already accrued for these or other proceedings or matters has been incurred. However, since the ultimate resolution of any such proceedings and matters is inherently unpredictable, the Companyâ€™s business, financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows could be materially affected in any particular period by unfavorable outcomes in one or more of these proceedings or matters. Whether the outcome of any claim, suit, assessment, investigation, or legal proceeding, individually or collectively, could have a material adverse effect on the Companyâ€™s business, financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows will depend on a number of factors, including the nature, timing, and amount of any associated expenses, amounts paid in settlement, damages, or other remedies or consequences.Indemnifications

ObligationsIn the ordinary course of business, the Company enters into various contracts under which it may agree to indemnify other parties for losses incurred from certain events as defined in the relevant contract, such as litigation, regulatory penalties, or claims relating to past performance. Such indemnification obligations may not be subject to maximum loss clauses. Historically, payments related to these indemnification obligations have not been material to the Company.Under the Separation and Distribution Agreement entered into with VMware, Inc. upon completion of the spin-off of VMware, Inc. on November 1, 2021 (the â€œVMware Spin-offâ€), Dell Technologies agreed to indemnify VMware, Inc., each of its subsidiaries and each of their respective directors, officers, employees, as well as any successors and assigns of the foregoing, from and against all liabilities relating to, arising out of or resulting from, among other matters, the liabilities allocated to Dell Technologies as part of the separation of Dell Technologies and VMware, Inc. (currently operating under the name â€œVMware LLC,â€ and individually and together with its subsidiaries, â€œVMwareâ€) and their respective businesses (the â€œSeparationâ€). VMware similarly agreed to indemnify Dell Technologies Inc., each of its subsidiaries and each of their respective directors, officers, and employees from and against all liabilities relating to, arising out of or resulting from, among other matters, the liabilities allocated to VMware as part of the Separation. The amounts that VMware and Dell Technologies may be obligated to pay each other could vary depending on the outcome of certain unresolved tax matters, which may not be resolved for several years. Net income tax indemnification receivables from VMware were immaterial as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024.38Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 11Â â€” INCOME AND OTHER TAXESFor the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Companyâ€™s effective income tax rate was 19.0% on pre-tax income of $1.4 billion compared to 14.9% on pre-tax income of $1.2 billion for the three months ended NovemberÂ 3, 2023. For the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Companyâ€™s effective income tax rate was 0.2% on pre-tax income of $2.9 billion compared to 21.6% on pre-tax income of $2.6 billion for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 3, 2023. The changes in the Companyâ€™s effective income tax rate were primarily driven by discrete tax items. For the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company recorded discrete tax benefits of $0.4Â billion related to changes in uncertain tax benefits resulting from the expiration of certain statutes of limitations and $0.2Â billion related to stock-based compensation. The differences between the estimated effective income tax rates and the U.S. federal statutory rate of 21% principally result from the geographical distribution of income, differences between the book and tax treatment of certain items, and discrete tax items. In certain jurisdictions, the Companyâ€™s tax rate is significantly less than the applicable statutory rate as a result of tax holidays. The majority of the Companyâ€™s foreign income subject to these tax holidays and lower tax rates is attributable to Singapore and China. A significant portion of these income tax benefits relates to a tax holiday that will be effective until January 31, 2029. Most of the Companyâ€™s other tax holidays will expire in whole or in part during fiscal years 2030 and 2031. Many of these tax holidays and reduced tax rates may be extended when certain conditions are met or may be terminated early if certain conditions are not met or as a result of changes in tax legislation. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company was not aware of any matters of non-compliance related to these tax holidays.In June 2023, the Company received a Revenue Agentâ€™s Report for the federal income tax examination by the Internal Revenue Service (â€œIRSâ€) of fiscal years 2018 through 2019. The IRS proposed adjustments primarily relating to certain transactions the Company completed as part of its business integration efforts. In August 2023, the Company submitted a written protest to the IRS relating to certain assessments. The Company received a rebuttal from the IRS to its written protest in April 2024. The Company disagrees with the IRSâ€™s proposed adjustments and will contest them through the IRS administrative appeals procedures. The Company anticipates that the appeals process for the resolution of these matters will extend beyond the next twelve months. In September 2023, the IRS commenced a federal income tax examination of fiscal years 2020 through 2022. The Company is also currently under income tax audits in various U.S. state and foreign taxing jurisdictions. The Company is undergoing negotiations, and in some cases contested proceedings, relating to tax matters with the taxing authorities in these jurisdictions. With respect to major U.S. state and foreign taxing jurisdictions, the Company is generally not subject to tax examinations for years prior to the fiscal year ended January 29, 2010. The Company believes that it has provided adequate reserves related to all matters contained in tax periods open to examination, including the IRS audits described above. Although the Company believes it has made adequate provisions for the uncertainties with respect to these audits, should the Company experience unfavorable outcomes, such outcomes could have a material impact on its results of operations, financial position, and cash flows.Judgment is required in evaluating the Companyâ€™s uncertain tax positions and determining the Companyâ€™s provision for income taxes. Unrecognized tax benefits were $1.0 billion and $1.3 billion as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, respectively, and are included in other non-current liabilities in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position. The Company does not anticipate a significant change to the total amount of unrecognized tax benefits within the next twelve months. The Company takes certain non-income tax positions in the jurisdictions in which it operates and has received certain non-income tax assessments from various jurisdictions. The Company believes that a material loss in these non-income tax litigation matters is not probable and that it is not reasonably possible that a material loss exceeding amounts already accrued has been incurred.Â The Company believes its positions in these matters are supportable and that it ultimately will prevail in the matters. In the normal course of business, the Companyâ€™s positions and conclusions related to its non-income taxes could be challenged and assessments may be made. To the extent new information is obtained and the Companyâ€™s views on its positions, probable outcomes of assessments, or litigation change, changes in estimates to the Companyâ€™s accrued liabilities would be recorded in the period in which such a determination is made. In the resolution process for income tax and non-income tax audits, the Company is required in certain situations to provide collateral guarantees or indemnification to regulators and tax authorities until the matter is resolved.39Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 12 â€” ACCUMULATED OTHER COMPREHENSIVE INCOME (LOSS) Accumulated other comprehensive income (loss) is presented in stockholdersâ€™ equity (deficit) in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position and consists of amounts related to foreign currency translation adjustments, unrealized net gains (losses) on cash flow hedges, and actuarial net gains (losses) from pension and other postretirement plans.The following table presents changes in accumulated other comprehensive income (loss), net of tax, by the following components as of the dates indicated:Foreign Currency Translation AdjustmentsCash Flow HedgesPension and Other Postretirement PlansAccumulated Other Comprehensive Income (Loss)(in millions)Balances as of February 2, 2024(755)(30)(15)(800)Other comprehensive income (loss) before reclassifications(95)58Â 1Â (36)Amounts reclassified from accumulated other comprehensive income (loss)â€Â 17Â (1)16Â Total change for the period(95)75Â â€Â (20)Balances as of November 1, 2024(850)45Â (15)(820)Amounts related to the Companyâ€™s cash flow hedges are reclassified to net income during the same period in which the items being hedged are recognized in earnings. The Company has no involvement in establishing the terms or conditions of the arrangement between its suppliers and the financial institution, no economic interest in a supplier's decision to sell a receivable, and does not provide legally secured assets or other forms of guarantees under the arrangement. The SCF Program does not impact the Company's liquidity as payments for participating supplier invoices are remitted by the Company to the financial institution on the original invoice due date, regardless of whether an individual invoice is sold by the supplier to the financial institution. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, the Company had $1.4 billion and $1.1Â billion, respectively, included within accounts payable on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position representing invoices due to suppliers confirmed as valid under the SCF Program.Interest and other, netThe following table presents information regarding interest and other, net as included in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023(in millions)Interest and other, net:Investment income, primarily interest$35Â $88Â $127Â $213Â Gain (loss) on investments, net46Â 8Â 21Â (36)Interest expense(321)(371)(1,051)(1,128)Foreign exchange(29)(30)(80)(127)Other(7)(1)(19)(43)Total interest and other, net(276)(306)$(1,002)$(1,121)51Table of ContentsDELL TECHNOLOGIES INC.NOTES TO THE CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS(unaudited)NOTE 18 â€” SUBSEQUENT EVENTS There were no known events occurring after NovemberÂ 1, 2024, and up until the date of issuance of this report that would materially affect the information presented herein.52Table of ContentsITEM 2 â€” MANAGEMENTâ€™S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONSThis managementâ€™s discussion and analysis should be read in conjunction with the audited Consolidated Financial Statements and accompanying Notes included in the Companyâ€™s Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended FebruaryÂ 2, 2024 and the unaudited Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report. With our extensive portfolio and our commitment to innovation, we offer secure, integrated solutions that extend from the edge to the core to the cloud, and we are at the forefront of artificial intelligence (â€œAIâ€), software-defined, and cloud native infrastructure solutions. Our vision is to become the most essential technology partner. We intend to realize our vision as we execute our strategy to leverage our strengths to extend our leadership positions and capture new growth.We are organized into two business units which are also our reportable segments: Infrastructure Solutions Group and Client Solutions Group.â€¢Infrastructure Solutions Group (â€œISGâ€) â€” ISG includes our storage, server, and networking offerings. Our comprehensive storage portfolio includes modern and traditional storage solutions, including all-flash arrays, scale-out file, object platforms, hyper-converged infrastructure, and software-defined storage. Our server portfolio includes high-performance general-purpose and AI-optimized servers. Our networking portfolio includes wide area network infrastructure, data center and edge networking switches, and cables and optics. ISG also offers software, peripherals, and services, including consulting and support and deployment.â€¢Client Solutions Group (â€œCSGâ€) â€” CSG includes offerings designed for commercial and consumer customers. Our CSG portfolio includes branded PCs, including notebooks, desktops, and workstations, branded peripherals, and third-party software and peripherals. CSG also includes services offerings, such as configuration, support and deployment, and extended warranties. Our â€œother businessesâ€ primarily consist of our resale of standalone offerings of VMware LLC (formerly â€œVMware, Inc.â€ and individually and together with its subsidiaries, â€œVMwareâ€), referred to as â€œVMware Resale,â€ and offerings of SecureWorks Corp. (â€œSecureworksâ€). In October 2024, Secureworks announced that it has entered into a definitive agreement pursuant to which Sophos Inc., an affiliate of Thoma Bravo, L.P., a private equity and growth capital firm, will acquire Secureworks in an all-cash transaction for approximately $0.9Â billion, subject to certain closing adjustments. The transaction is expected to close in early 2025, subject to customary closing conditions. Our other businesses are not classified as reportable segments, either individually or collectively. 53Table of ContentsFor further discussion regarding our current reportable segments, see â€œResults of Operations â€” Business Unit Resultsâ€ and Note 16 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report.We offer customers choice in how they acquire our solutions, including traditional purchasing and financing offerings provided by Dell Financial Services and its affiliates (â€œDFSâ€). We also offer flexible consumption models that include utility, subscription, and as-a-Service models. These offerings allow our customers to pay over time and provide them with operational and financial flexibility. For additional information about our financing arrangements, see Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report. Business Trends and ChallengesDuring the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, the following trends and conditions continued to affect the environment in which we operate: â€¢Macroeconomic environment: The demand environment continued to remain strong for our servers and networking offerings, which resulted in overall net revenue growth. Additionally, we began to see modest demand improvement for our commercial offerings. â€¢Demand for AI-optimized solutions: Our ISG business continued to benefit from increased demand for AI-optimized solutions as customers continue to adopt and further integrate AI into their operations. As a result of the continued strong demand for our AI-optimized servers, backlog levels for such offerings remained elevated as we exited the quarter. â€¢Supply chain: Notwithstanding the increased demand for AI-optimized solutions, our supply chain continued to operate efficiently. We experienced an increase in input costs primarily driven by higher logistics costs, the effect of which was partially offset by favorability in component costs. Compared to the prior quarter, we began to observe an inflationary environment. Input costs primarily consist of both component and logistics costs.â€¢Broadcomâ€™s acquisition of VMware: On November 22, 2023, Broadcom Inc. (â€œBroadcomâ€) completed its acquisition of VMware, leading to changes to our relationship with VMware as described below.We expect the demand environment will continue to remain strong in our servers and networking offerings, which we expect will result in ISG net revenue growth across our AI-optimized and traditional servers for the fourth quarter of Fiscal 2025. We expect modest CSG net revenue growth for the fourth quarter of Fiscal 2025 depending on the timing of the anticipated PC refresh cycle and a competitive pricing environment. Additionally, we expect a continued reduction of our other businessesâ€™ net revenue as we no longer act as a distributor of VMwareâ€™s standalone products and services.We expect input costs to increase during the fourth quarter of Fiscal 2025, principally driven by anticipated inflation for component costs. Input cost trends are dependent on the strength or weakness of actual end-user demand and supply dynamics, which will continue to fluctuate and ultimately impact our costs, pricing, and operating results.We remain focused on executing our key strategic priorities, building long-term value creation for our stakeholders, and addressing our customersâ€™ needs while continuing to make prudent decisions in response to the environment. We look to balance profitability and growth while maintaining disciplined pricing as we navigate through competitive pricing pressures. We continue to advance our own capabilities to change the way we work and make decisions, improve business outcomes and the customer experience, and reduce costs by leveraging new technology and optimizing business processes. We remain committed to disciplined cost management in coordination with our ongoing business transformation initiatives and will continue to take certain measures to reduce costs, including limitation of external hiring, employee reorganizations, and other actions to align our investments with our strategic priorities and customer needs. We anticipate these actions will result in a continued reduction in our overall headcount. We believe our unique operating advantages provide a foundation to foster growth, drive efficiencies, and continue to position us for long-term success.54Table of ContentsRelationship with VMware â€” On November 22, 2023, VMware was acquired by Broadcom, and subsequently announced changes to its go-to-market approach for VMware offerings that impacted our commercial relationship with VMware. On March 25, 2024, we terminated our Commercial Framework Agreement with VMware, which provided the framework under which we and VMware continued our commercial relationship following our spin-off of VMware on November 1, 2021. We no longer act as a distributor of Broadcomâ€™s VMware standalone products and services, though we will continue to support customers that have purchased resale offerings sold in prior periods. We continue to integrate and embed certain VMware products and services with select Dell Technologiesâ€™ offerings to end-users, such as through our VxRail solution. The results of such offerings are reflected within CSG or ISG, depending upon the nature of the underlying offering sold.VMware was a related party until the date of its acquisition by Broadcom. The acquisition terminated the preexisting related party relationship with VMware such that no related party relationship exists with either Broadcom or VMware effective as of November 22, 2023. For more information regarding the impact of the Broadcom acquisition of VMware and our prior related party transactions with VMware, see Note 15 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report.ISG â€” We expect that ISG will continue to be impacted by the evolving nature of the IT infrastructure market and competitive environment. With our scale and strong solutions portfolio, we believe we are well-positioned to address the ongoing competitive dynamics and trends in technology and customer needs. Through our collaborative, customer-focused approach to innovation, we strive to deliver new and relevant solutions and software to our customers quickly and efficiently. We continue to focus on customer base expansion and the lifetime value of customer relationships. We anticipate that ISG will continue to benefit from technology advancements and customer interest in AI and we are well-positioned to capture growth and support our customersâ€™ needs.We expect that growth in data will continue to generate long-term demand for our storage solutions and services. Cloud native applications are expected to continue to be a key trend in the infrastructure market. We continue to expand our offerings in external storage arrays, which incorporate flexible, cloud-based functionality. We benefit from offering solutions that address software-defined storage, hyper-converged infrastructure, and modular solutions based on server-centric architectures. Our storage business is subject to seasonal trends, which may continue to impact ISG results.CSG â€” We participate in all segments of the PC market with a focus on commercial and high-end consumer computing devices, as we believe they represent the most stable and profitable markets. We anticipate that CSG will benefit from advances in AI over the long-term as customers will require PCs with the ability to run their complex AI workloads. Competitive dynamics remain an important factor in our CSG business and continue to impact pricing and operating results. We are committed to our long-term CSG strategy and will continue to make investments to innovate across the portfolio. We expect that the CSG demand environment will be subject to seasonal trends as well as the timing of the anticipated PC refresh cycle.Recurring Revenue and Consumption Models â€” We expect that our flexible consumption models will further strengthen our customer relationships and provide a foundation for growth in recurring revenue. We define recurring revenue as revenue recognized that is primarily related to hardware and software maintenance, as well as operating leases, subscription, as-a-Service, and usage-based offerings.Strategic Investments and Acquisitions â€” As part of our strategy, we will continue to evaluate opportunities for strategic investments through our venture capital investment arm, Dell Technologies Capital, with a focus on emerging technology areas that are relevant to our business and that will complement our existing portfolio of solutions. The technologies or products these companies have under development are typically in the early stages and may never have commercial value, which could result in a loss of a substantial part of our investment in the companies. In addition to these investments, we may also make disciplined acquisitions of businesses that advance our strategic objectives and accelerate our innovation agenda.Foreign Currency Exposure â€” We manage our business on a U.S. Dollar basis. However, we have a large global presence, generating approximately half of our net revenue from sales to customers outside of the United States during the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024. As a result, our operating results can be, and particularly in recent periods have been, impacted by fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates. We utilize a comprehensive hedging strategy intended to mitigate the impact of foreign currency volatility over time, and we adjust pricing when possible to further minimize foreign currency impacts. 55Table of ContentsOther Macroeconomic Risks and Uncertainties â€” The impacts of trade protection measures, including increases in tariffs and trade barriers, changes in government policies and international trade arrangements, geopolitical volatility, and global macroeconomic conditions (including those in China) may affect our ability to conduct business in some non-U.S. markets. We monitor and seek to mitigate these risks with adjustments to our manufacturing, supply chain, and distribution networks.56Table of ContentsNON-GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURESIn this managementâ€™s discussion and analysis, we use supplemental measures of our performance which are derived from our consolidated financial information but which are not presented in our consolidated financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP. These non-GAAP financial measures include non-GAAP product gross margin; non-GAAP services gross margin; non-GAAP gross margin; non-GAAP operating expenses; non-GAAP operating income; non-GAAP net income; non-GAAP earnings per share attributable to Dell Technologies Inc. - diluted; free cash flow; and adjusted free cash flow. These non-GAAP financial measures are not meant to be considered as indicators of performance or liquidity in isolation from or as a substitute for gross margin, operating expenses, operating income, net income, diluted earnings per share, or cash flows from operating activities prepared in accordance with GAAP, and should be read only in conjunction with financial information presented on a GAAP basis.We use non-GAAP financial measures to supplement financial information presented on a GAAP basis. Management uses these non-GAAP measures in financial planning and forecasting and when evaluating our financial results and operating trends and performance. We believe, when used supplementally with GAAP financial measures, these non-GAAP financial measures provide our investors with useful and transparent information to help them evaluate our results by facilitating an enhanced understanding of our results of operations and enabling them to make period to period comparisons. There are limitations to the use of the non-GAAP financial measures presented in this report. Our non-GAAP financial measures may not be comparable to similarly titled measures of other companies. Other companies, including companies in our industry, may calculate non-GAAP financial measures differently than we do, limiting the usefulness of those measures for comparative purposes.Non-GAAP product gross margin, non-GAAP services gross margin, non-GAAP gross margin, non-GAAP operating expenses, non-GAAP operating income, non-GAAP net income, and non-GAAP earnings per share attributable to Dell Technologies Inc. - diluted, as defined by us, exclude amortization of intangible assets, stock-based compensation expense, other corporate expenses and, for non-GAAP net income and non-GAAP earnings per share attributable to Dell Technologies Inc. - diluted, fair value adjustments on equity investments and an aggregate adjustment for income taxes. As the excluded items may have a material impact on our financial results, our management compensates for this limitation by relying primarily on our GAAP results and using non-GAAP financial measures supplementally or for projections when comparable GAAP financial measures are not available. Reconciliations of each non-GAAP financial measure to its most directly comparable GAAP financial measure are presented below. We encourage you to review the reconciliations in conjunction with the presentation of the non-GAAP financial measures for each of the periods presented. The discussion below includes information on each of the excluded items as well as our reasons for excluding them from our non-GAAP results. In future fiscal periods, we may exclude such items and may incur income and expenses similar to these excluded items. Accordingly, the exclusion of these items and other similar items in our non-GAAP presentation should not be interpreted as implying that these items are non-recurring, infrequent, or unusual.The following is a summary of the items excluded from the most comparable GAAP financial measures to calculate our non-GAAP financial measures.â€¢Amortization of Intangible Assets â€” Amortization of intangible assets primarily consists of the amortization of customer relationships, developed technology, and trade names. In connection with our acquisition by merger of EMC, referred to as the â€œEMC merger transaction,â€ and the acquisition of Dell Inc. by Dell Technologies Inc., referred to as the â€œgoing-private transaction,â€ all of the tangible and intangible assets and liabilities of EMC and Dell Inc. and their consolidated subsidiaries, respectively, were accounted for and recognized at fair value on the transaction dates. We exclude amortization charges for the amortization of intangible assets as they do not reflect our current operating performance and charges are significantly impacted by the timing and magnitude of our acquisitions and, as a result, may vary in amount from period to period.â€¢Stock-based Compensation Expense â€” Stock-based compensation expense consists of equity awards granted based on the estimated fair value of those awards at grant date. To estimate the fair value of performance-based awards containing a market condition, we use the Monte Carlo valuation model. For other share-based awards, the fair value is generally based on the closing price of the Class C Common Stock as reported on the New York Stock Exchange on the date of grant.Â Although stock-based compensation is an important aspect of the compensation of our employees and executives, we exclude such expense because the fair value of the stock-based awards may fluctuate based on factors unrelated to the operating performance of the business and may bear little resemblance to the actual value realized upon the vesting or future exercise of the related stock-based awards.57Table of Contentsâ€¢Other Corporate Expenses â€” Other corporate expenses consist primarily of severance expenses, payroll taxes associated with stock-based compensation, transaction-related expenses, facility action costs, impairment charges, and incentive charges related to equity investments. Severance costs are primarily related to severance and benefits for employees terminated pursuant to cost management initiatives. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, we recognized $0.6Â billion and $0.4Â billion of severance expense related to workforce reduction activities. Transaction-related expenses typically consist of acquisition, integration, and divestitures related costs, primarily representing costs for legal, banking, consulting, and advisory services, and are expensed as incurred. Although we may incur these types of expenses in the future, we exclude other corporate expenses as they can vary from period to period, are significantly impacted by the timing and nature of these events, and are not used by management in assessing operating performance of the business.â€¢Fair Value Adjustments on Equity Investments â€” Fair value adjustments on equity investments primarily consist of the gain (loss) on strategic investments, which includes recurring fair value adjustments of investments in publicly-traded companies, as well as those in privately-held companies, which are adjusted for observable price changes and any potential impairments. See Note 3 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report for additional information on our strategic investment activity. We exclude fair value adjustments on equity investments given the volatility in ongoing adjustments to the valuation of these strategic investments and because such adjustments are unrelated to the operating performance of our business.â€¢Aggregate Adjustment for Income Taxes â€” The aggregate adjustment for income taxes is the estimated combined income tax effect for the adjustments described above and determined based on the tax jurisdictions where those adjustments were incurred, as well as an adjustment for discrete tax items. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, the aggregate adjustment for income taxes included discrete tax benefits of $0.4 billion related to changes in uncertain tax benefits resulting from the expiration of certain statutes of limitations and $0.2 billion related to stock-based compensation. We exclude these benefits or charges for purposes of calculating non-GAAP net income due to the variability in recognition of discrete tax items from period to period. The tax effects are determined based on the tax jurisdictions where the above items were incurred. See Note 11 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report for additional information about our income taxes. Beginning in Fiscal 2025, our non-GAAP income tax is calculated using a fixed estimated annual tax rate which is determined based on historical trends and projections for the current fiscal year. We may adjust our estimated annual tax rate during the fiscal year to take into account events that would significantly impact our income tax expense, including significant changes resulting from tax legislation, material changes in geographic mix of revenue and expenses, changes to our corporate structure, and other significant events.58Table of ContentsThe following table presents a reconciliation of each non-GAAP financial measure to the most directly comparable GAAP measure for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedÂ November 1, 2024% ChangeNovember 3, 2023November 1, 2024% ChangeNovember 3, 2023(in millions, except percentages)Product gross margin$2,749Â 2Â %$2,687Â $7,985Â (4)%$8,281Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Amortization of intangibles60Â 84Â 179Â 247Â Stock-based compensation expense14Â 12Â 42Â 38Â Other corporate expenses4Â â€”Â 14Â 15Â Non-GAAP product gross margin $2,827Â 2Â %$2,783Â $8,220Â (4)%$8,581Â Services gross margin $2,558Â 4Â %$2,461Â $7,439Â 2Â %$7,272Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Stock-based compensation expense25Â 25Â 73Â 74Â Other corporate expenses27Â 7Â 116Â 49Â Non-GAAP services gross margin$2,610Â 5Â %$2,493Â $7,628Â 3Â %$7,395Â Gross margin$5,307Â 3Â %$5,148Â $15,424Â (1)%$15,553Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Amortization of intangibles60Â 84Â 179Â 247Â Stock-based compensation expense39Â 37Â 115Â 112Â Other corporate expenses31Â 7Â 130Â 64Â Non-GAAP gross margin$5,437Â 3Â %$5,276Â $15,848Â (1)%$15,976Â Operating expenses$3,639Â (1)%$3,662Â $11,494Â (3)%$11,833Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Amortization of intangibles(108)(123)(325)(376)Stock-based compensation expense(159)(190)(484)(563)Other corporate expenses(134)(37)(544)(457)Non-GAAP operating expenses$3,238Â (2)%$3,312Â $10,141Â (3)%$10,437Â 59Table of ContentsThree Months EndedNine Months EndedÂ November 1, 2024% ChangeNovember 3, 2023November 1, 2024% ChangeNovember 3, 2023(in millions, except percentages and per share amounts)Operating income$1,668Â 12Â %$1,486Â $3,930Â 6Â %$3,720Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Amortization of intangibles168Â 207Â 504Â 623Â Stock-based compensation expense198Â 227Â 599Â 675Â Other corporate expenses165Â 44Â 674Â 521Â Non-GAAP operating income$2,199Â 12Â %$1,964Â $5,707Â 3Â %$5,539Â Net income$1,127Â 12Â %$1,004Â $2,923Â 43Â %$2,037Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Amortization of intangibles168Â 207Â 504Â 623Â Stock-based compensation expense198Â 227Â 599Â 675Â Other corporate expenses166Â 36Â 665Â 566Â Fair value adjustments on equity investments(46)(8)(21)36Â Aggregate adjustment for income taxes(73)(77)(836)(302)Non-GAAP net income$1,540Â 11Â %$1,389Â $3,834Â 5Â %$3,635Â Earnings per share attributable to Dell Technologies Inc. â€” diluted$1.58Â 16Â %$1.36Â $4.07Â 46Â %$2.78Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Amortization of intangibles0.23Â 0.28Â 0.70Â 0.84Â Stock-based compensation expense0.28Â 0.31Â 0.83Â 0.91Â Other corporate expenses0.23Â 0.04Â 0.92Â 0.77Â Fair value adjustments on equity investments(0.06)(0.01)(0.03)0.05Â Aggregate adjustment for income taxes(0.10)(0.10)(1.16)(0.41)Total non-GAAP adjustments attributable to non-controlling interests(0.01)â€”Â (0.02)(0.01)Non-GAAP earnings per share attributable to Dell Technologies Inc. â€” diluted$2.15Â 14Â %$1.88Â $5.31Â 8Â %$4.93Â 60Table of ContentsIn addition to the above measures, we use free cash flow and adjusted free cash flow as non-GAAP liquidity measures to evaluate our performance. As presented in the following table, we define free cash flow as cash flow from operations after excluding capital expenditures and capitalized software costs, net. To measure adjusted free cash flow, we exclude the impact of financing receivables and equipment under operating leases from free cash flow, as the initial funding of these DFS offerings at the time of origination is largely subsequently replaced with cash inflows from our DFS debt, the majority of which is asset-backed. Free cash flow and adjusted free cash flow provide useful information to management and investors in part because we use these metrics in our long-term capital allocation framework. Further, we believe free cash flow and adjusted free cash flow are useful measures to management and investors because they reflect cash that we can use, among other purposes, to repurchase common stock, pay dividends on our common stock, invest in our business, pay down debt, and make strategic acquisitions.As is the case with the other non-GAAP measures presented above, users should consider the limitations of using free cash flow and adjusted free cash flow, including the fact that those measures do not provide a complete measure of our cash flows for any period. Free cash flow and adjusted free cash flow do not purport to be alternatives to cash flows from operating activities as a measure of liquidity. In particular, free cash flow and adjusted free cash flow are not intended to be a measure of cash flow available for managementâ€™s discretionary use, as these measures do not reflect certain cash requirements, such as debt service requirements and other contractual commitments.The following table presents a reconciliation of free cash flow and adjusted free cash flow to cash flow from operations for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024% ChangeNovember 3, 2023November 1, 2024% ChangeNovember 3, 2023(in millions, except percentages)Cash flow from operations$1,553Â (28)%$2,152Â $3,936Â (45)%$7,143Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Capital expenditures and capitalized software development costs, net (a)(639)(704)(1,861)(2,026)Free cash flow$914Â (37)%$1,448Â $2,075Â (59)%$5,117Â Free cash flow$914Â (37)%$1,448Â $2,075Â (59)%$5,117Â Non-GAAP adjustments:Financing receivables (b)(233)(575)419Â (445)Equipment under operating leases (c)35Â (13)129Â (75)Adjusted free cash flow$716Â (17)%$860Â $2,623Â (43)%$4,597Â _____(a)Â Â Â Â Capital expenditures and capitalized software development costs, net includes proceeds from sales of facilities, land, and other assets.(b)Â Â Â Â Financing receivables represent the operating cash flow impact from the change in DFS financing receivables.(c)Â Â Â Â Equipment under operating leases represents the net impact of capital expenditures and depreciation expense for DFS leases and contractually embedded leases identified within flexible consumption arrangements.61Table of ContentsRESULTS OF OPERATIONSConsolidated ResultsThe following table summarizes our consolidated results for the periods indicated. The increase in ISG net revenue was driven by growth in our servers and networking offerings. Other businesses net revenue declined primarily due to a decrease in VMware Resale revenue as we no longer act as a distributor of standalone VMware offerings. The decline in CSG net revenue was attributable to a decrease in sales of our consumer offerings.During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, both operating income and non-GAAP operating income increased by 12%, to $1.7 billion and $2.2 billion, respectively. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, operating income and non-GAAP operating income increased by 6% to $3.9 billion and 3% to $5.7 billion, respectively. During both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, the increases in operating income and non-GAAP operating income were primarily attributable to an increase in ISG operating income driven by our servers and networking offerings, which was largely offset by a decrease in CSG operating income.During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, operating income and non-GAAP operating income as a percentage of net revenue increased 10 basis points to 6.8% and increased 20 basis points to 9.0%, respectively. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, operating income and non-GAAP operating income as a percentage of net revenue decreased 10 basis points to 5.5% and 40 basis points to 8.0%, respectively. Operating income and non-GAAP operating income as a percentage of net revenue during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 were impacted by a decline in gross margin as a percentage of net revenue due to a shift in mix towards AI-optimized server offerings and a competitive CSG pricing environment. The decline in gross margin as a percentage of net revenue was offset by the favorable impact of a decrease in operating expense rate that was driven by strong ISG net revenue growth coupled with continued disciplined cost management.Cash provided by operating activities was $3.9 billion during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, and was driven by profitability, partially offset by working capital dynamics. Working capital was primarily impacted by AI dynamics, which led to higher inventory, accounts receivable, and accounts payable levels. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2024, cash provided by operating activities was $7.1 billion, which was primarily driven by profitability and working capital management as we reduced inventory, demonstrated strong cash collections performance, and benefited from the timing of purchases and payments to vendors. Cash provided by operating activities also reflected the impact of the $0.9Â billion net payment to settle the Class V transaction litigation and $0.4Â billion in proceeds from the sale of our U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio. See â€œLiquidity, Cash Requirements, and Market Conditionsâ€ for additional information about our cash flow metrics.We continue to see opportunities to create value and grow as we respond to long-term demand for our IT solutions driven by a data- and AI-enabled world. We have demonstrated our ability to adjust to changing market conditions with complementary solutions and innovation across both segments of our business, an agile workforce, and the strength of our global supply chain. As we continue to innovate and modernize our offerings, we believe that Dell Technologies is well-positioned for long-term profitable growth.Net RevenueDuring the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, net revenue increased 10% and 8%, respectively, primarily driven by an increase in ISG net revenue that was partially offset by a decrease in other businesses net revenue and, to a lesser extent, CSG net revenue. See â€œBusiness Unit Resultsâ€ for further information.â€¢Product Net Revenue â€” Product net revenue includes revenue from the sale of hardware products and software licenses. During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, product net revenue increased 13% due to an increase in ISG product net revenue driven by growth in our servers and networking offerings. The increase was partially offset by a decline in CSG product net revenue as a result of a decrease in units sold within our consumer offerings, as well as a decline in other businesses product net revenue as we no longer act as a distributor of standalone VMware offerings.During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, product net revenue increased 11% due to an increase in ISG product net revenue driven by growth in our servers and networking offerings. The increase was partially offset by a decrease in CSG product net revenue as a result of a decrease in the average selling prices of our CSG offerings and, to a lesser extent, a decline in units sold within our consumer offerings, as well as a decline in other businesses product net revenue as we no longer act as a distributor of standalone VMware offerings.63Table of Contentsâ€¢Services Net Revenue â€” Services net revenue includes revenue from our services offerings and support services related to hardware products and software licenses. During the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, services net revenue increased 1% and 2%, respectively, driven primarily by growth within services net revenue attributable to CSG and, to a lesser extent, services net revenue attributable to ISG, partially offset by a decline in other businesses services net revenue. The increase in services net revenue was primarily attributable to CSG third-party software support and maintenance and, to a lesser extent, support and maintenance associated with products sold in prior periods within both ISG and CSG. Other businesses services net revenue declined as we no longer act as a distributor of standalone VMware offerings.A substantial portion of services net revenue is derived from offerings that have been deferred over a period of time, and, as a result, reported growth rates for services net revenue will be different than reported growth rates for product net revenue. From a geographical perspective, net revenue increased in the Americas and, to a lesser extent, the Asia Pacific and Japan (â€œAPJâ€) and Europe, the Middle East and Africa (â€œEMEAâ€) regions during the third quarter of Fiscal 2025. Net revenue increased in both the Americas and APJ and decreased in EMEA during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025.Gross MarginDuring the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, both gross margin and non-GAAP gross margin increased 3%, to $5.3 billion and $5.4 billion, respectively, driven by an increase in ISG gross margin that was largely offset by a decrease in CSG gross margin. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, both gross margin and non-GAAP gross margin decreased 1%, to $15.4 billion and $15.8 billion, respectively, driven by a decrease in CSG gross margin that was largely offset by an increase in ISG gross margin. The increase in ISG gross margin during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 was primarily attributable to growth in our AI-optimized server offerings. The decrease in CSG gross margin during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 was primarily attributable to a competitive pricing environment.During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, gross margin and non-GAAP gross margin percentage decreased 130 basis points to 21.8% and 140 basis points to 22.3%, respectively. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, gross margin and non-GAAP gross margin percentage decreased 200 basis points to 21.5% and 210 basis points to 22.1%, respectively. The decreases in gross margin percentage and non-GAAP gross margin percentage during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 were primarily driven by a shift in mix towards AI-optimized server offerings and a competitive CSG pricing environment.â€¢Product Gross MarginÂ â€” During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, both product gross margin and non-GAAP product gross margin increased 2%, to $2.7 billion and $2.8 billion, respectively, primarily driven by an increase in ISG product gross margin that was largely offset by a decrease in CSG product gross margin. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, both product gross margin and non-GAAP product gross margin decreased 4% to $8.0 billion and $8.2 billion, respectively, primarily driven by a decrease in CSG product gross margin that was partially offset by an increase in ISG product gross margin. The increase in ISG product gross margin during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 was primarily attributable to growth in our AI-optimized server offerings. The decline in CSG product gross margin during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 was primarily attributable to a competitive pricing environment.During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, both product gross margin percentage and non-GAAP product gross margin percentage decreased 160 basis points, to 15.0% and 15.5%, respectively. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, product gross margin percentage and non-GAAP product gross margin percentage decreased 220 basis points to 15.0% and 240 basis points to 15.4%, respectively. The declines during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 were primarily attributable to a shift in mix towards our AI-optimized server offerings and a competitive CSG pricing environment.64Table of Contentsâ€¢Services Gross MarginÂ â€” During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, services gross margin and non-GAAP services gross margin increased 4% to $2.6 billion and 5% to $2.6 billion, respectively. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, services gross margin and non-GAAP services gross margin increased 2% to $7.4 billion and 3% to $7.6 billion, respectively. During both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, services gross margin and non-GAAP services gross margin benefited from an increase in support and maintenance associated with products sold in prior periods within both ISG and CSG and, to a lesser extent, an increase CSG third-party software support and maintenance.During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, services gross margin percentage and non-GAAP services gross margin percentage increased 120 basis points to 42.1% and 160 basis points to 43.0%, respectively. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, services gross margin percentage and non-GAAP services gross margin percentage increased 10 basis points to 40.7% and 50 basis points to 41.8%, respectively. The increases in services gross margin percentage and non-GAAP services gross margin percentage were primarily driven by a shift in mix as we no longer act as a distributor of standalone VMware offerings.Vendor ProgramsOur gross margin is affected by our ability to achieve competitive pricing with our vendors and contract manufacturers, including through our negotiation of a variety of vendor rebate programs to achieve lower net costs for the various components we include in our products. Under these programs, vendors provide us with rebates or other discounts from the list prices for the components, which are generally elements of their pricing strategy. We account for vendor rebates and other discounts as a reduction in cost of net revenue. We manage our costs on a total net cost basis, which includes supplier list prices reduced by vendor rebates and other discounts.The terms and conditions of our vendor rebate programs are largely based on product volumes and are generally negotiated either at the beginning of the annual or quarterly period, depending on the program. The timing and amount of vendor rebates and other discounts we receive under the programs may vary from period to period, reflecting changes in the competitive environment. We monitor our component costs and seek to address the effects of any changes to terms that might arise under our vendor rebate programs. Our gross margins for the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 were not materially affected by any changes to the terms of our vendor rebate programs, as the amounts we received under these programs were generally stable relative to our total net cost. We are not aware of any significant changes to our vendor rebate programs that will materially impact our results in the near term.65Table of ContentsOperating ExpensesThe following table presents information regarding our operating expenses for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023Dollars% of Net Revenue% ChangeDollars% of Net RevenueDollars% of Net Revenue% ChangeDollars% of Net Revenue(in millions, except percentages)Operating expenses:Selling, general, and administrative$2,894Â 11.9Â %(3)%$2,970Â 13.3Â %$9,206Â 12.8Â %(6)%$9,748Â 14.7Â %Research and development745Â 3.1Â %8Â %692Â 3.1Â %2,288Â 3.2Â %10Â %2,085Â 3.2Â %Total operating expenses$3,639Â 15.0Â %(1)%$3,662Â 16.4Â %$11,494Â 16.0Â %(3)%$11,833Â 17.9Â %Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023Dollars% of Net Revenue% ChangeDollars% of Net RevenueDollars% of Net Revenue% ChangeDollars% of Net Revenue(in millions, except percentages)Non-GAAP operating expenses$3,238Â 13.3Â %(2)%$3,312Â 14.9Â %$10,141Â 14.1Â %(3)%$10,437Â 15.8Â %During the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, total operating expenses decreased 1% and 3%, respectively, due to a decline in selling, general, and administrative expenses.â€¢Selling, General, and AdministrativeÂ â€” During the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, selling, general, and administrative expenses decreased 3% and 6%, respectively, driven by a decrease in employee compensation and benefits expense, principally due to a decline in overall headcount.â€¢Research and Development â€” Research and development (â€œR&Dâ€) expenses are primarily composed of personnel-related expenses incurred in connection with product development. R&D expenses increased 8% and 10%, respectively, during the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, principally due to an increase in R&D-related employee compensation and benefits expense.As a percentage of net revenue, R&D expenses for both the third quarter of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024 were 3.1% and for both the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024 were 3.2%. The decline in employee compensation and benefits expense was partially offset by continued support of R&D initiatives. We continue to make strategic investments designed to enable growth and innovation, while balancing our efforts to drive cost efficiencies in the business. We also expect to continue making investments in support of our own digital transformation, which aims to streamline and optimize our business processes. 66Table of ContentsOperating IncomeDuring the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, both operating income and non-GAAP operating income increased by 12%, to $1.7 billion and $2.2 billion, respectively. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, operating income and non-GAAP operating income as a percentage of net revenue decreased 10 basis points to 5.5% and 40 basis points to 8.0%, respectively. Operating income and non-GAAP operating income as a percentage of net revenue during both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 were impacted by a decline in gross margin as a percentage of net revenue due to a shift in mix towards AI-optimized server offerings and a competitive CSG pricing environment. The decline in gross margin as a percentage of net revenue was offset by the favorable impact of a decrease in operating expense rate that was driven by strong ISG net revenue growth coupled with continued disciplined cost management.Interest and Other, NetThe following table presents information regarding interest and other, net for the periods indicated: Three Months EndedNine Months EndedÂ November 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023Â (in millions)Interest and other, net:Â Â Â Â Investment income, primarily interest$35Â $88Â $127Â $213Â Gain (loss) on investments, net46Â 8Â 21Â (36)Interest expense(321)(371)(1,051)(1,128)Foreign exchange(29)(30)(80)(127)Other(7)(1)(19)(43)Total interest and other, net(276)(306)$(1,002)$(1,121)During both the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025, the change in interest and other, net was favorable, primarily due to a reduction in interest expense and gains recognized within our strategic investments portfolio, partially offset by a decline in interest income on investments.Income and Other TaxesThe following table presents information regarding our income and other taxes for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023(in millions, except percentages)Income before income taxes$1,392Â $1,180Â $2,928Â $2,599Â Income tax expense$265Â $176Â $5Â $562Â Effective income tax rate19.0Â %14.9Â %0.2Â %21.6Â %67Table of ContentsFor the third quarter of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, our effective income tax rate was 19.0% and 14.9%, respectively. For the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, our effective income tax rate was 0.2% and 21.6%, respectively. The changes in our effective income tax rate were primarily driven by discrete tax items. For the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, we recorded discrete tax benefits of $0.4Â billion related to changes in uncertain tax benefits resulting from the expiration of certain statutes of limitations and $0.2Â billion related to stock-based compensation. Our effective income tax rate can fluctuate depending on the geographic distribution of our worldwide earnings, as our foreign earnings are generally taxed at lower rates than in the United States. The differences between our effective income tax rates and the U.S. federal statutory rate of 21% principally result from the geographical distribution of income, differences between the book and tax treatment of certain items, and discrete tax items. In certain jurisdictions, our tax rate is significantly less than the applicable statutory rate as a result of tax holidays. The majority of our foreign income subject to these tax holidays is attributable to Singapore and China. A significant portion of these income tax benefits relates to a tax holiday that will be effective until January 31, 2029. Most of our other tax holidays will expire in whole or in part during Fiscal 2030 and Fiscal 2031. Many of these tax holidays and reduced tax rates may be extended when certain conditions are met or may be terminated early if certain conditions are not met or as a result of changes in tax legislation. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, we were not aware of any matters of non-compliance.Many countries, including Singapore, a country in which we have a tax holiday, have enacted or are in the process of enacting laws based on the Pillar Two proposal relating to a global minimum tax issued by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (â€œOECDâ€). While we expect our effective income tax rate and cash income tax payments will increase in future years as a result of the global minimum tax, we do not expect the tax will have a material impact on our Fiscal 2025 consolidated results of operations. Our assessment could be affected by legislative guidance and future enactment of additional provisions within the Pillar Two framework.For further discussion regarding tax matters, including the status of income tax audits, see Note 11 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report. Net Income During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, net income and non-GAAP net income increased 12% to $1.1 billion and 11% to $1.5 billion, respectively, due to an increase in operating income. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, net income and non-GAAP net income increased 43% to $2.9 billion and 5% to $3.8 billion, respectively. Net income increased primarily due to a reduction in income tax expense and, to a lesser extent, an increase in operating income. Non-GAAP net income increased primarily due to an increase in operating income.68Table of ContentsBusiness Unit ResultsOur reportable segments are based on the ISG and CSG business units. The increase in servers and networking net revenue was driven by growth in our AI-optimized server offerings and, to a lesser extent, our traditional server and networking offerings. Storage net revenue increased 4% and remained flat, respectively, during the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025. During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, storage net revenue increased primarily due to an increase in net revenue of our hyper-converged infrastructure offerings.From a geographical perspective, net revenue attributable to ISG increased in the Americas and, to a lesser extent, in APJ and EMEA during the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025.Operating Income â€” During the third quarter of Fiscal 2025, ISG operating income as a percentage of net revenue increased 70 basis points to 13.3%, due to a decline in operating expense as a percentage of net revenue that outpaced the decline in gross margin rate. Operating expense as a percentage of net revenue declined due to strong ISG net revenue growth coupled with continued disciplined cost management. Gross margin rate decreased primarily as the result of a shift in mix towards AI-optimized server offerings.During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, ISG operating income as a percentage of net revenue decreased 70 basis points to 10.9%, due to a decline in gross margin rate that outpaced the decline in operating expense as a percentage of net revenue. The decline in gross margin rate was primarily the result of a competitive pricing environment. The decline in operating expenses as a percentage of net revenue was due to continued disciplined cost management.70Table of ContentsOTHER BALANCE SHEET ITEMSAccounts Receivable We sell products and services directly to customers and through a variety of sales channels, including retail distribution. Our accounts receivable, net, was $11.2 billion and $9.3 billion as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, respectively. Accounts receivable, net, was elevated due to growth in our AI-optimized server offerings and the timing of cash receipts. We maintain an allowance for expected credit losses to cover receivables that may be deemed uncollectible. The allowance for expected credit losses is an estimate based on an analysis of historical loss experience, current receivables aging, and managementâ€™s assessment of current conditions and its reasonable and supportable expectation of future conditions, as well as specific identifiable customer accounts that are deemed at risk. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, the allowance for expected credit losses was $62 million and $71 million, respectively. Based on our assessment, we believe that we are adequately reserved for expected credit losses. Dell Financial Services and Financing ReceivablesWe offer or arrange various financing options and services for our customers globally, including through captive financing operations. DFS originates, collects, and services customer receivables primarily related to the purchase of our product, software, and services solutions. We further strengthen customer relationships through flexible consumption models, including utility, subscription, and as-a-Service models, which enable our customers the option to pay over time to provide them with financial and operational flexibility. New financing originations were $1.6 billion and $1.8 billion for the third quarter of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively, and $5.9 billion and $6.0 billion for first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively. Our leases are generally classified as sales-type leases or operating leases. On commencement of sales-type leases, we recognize profit up-front, and recognize amounts due from the customer under the lease contract as financing receivables. Interest income is recognized as net product revenue over the term of the lease. Upon origination of operating leases, we record equipment under operating leases, classified as property, plant, and equipment, net. We recognize product revenue and depreciation expense, classified as cost of net revenue, over the contract term.As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, our financing receivables, net were $10.9 billion and $10.5 billion, respectively. We maintain an allowance to cover expected financing receivables credit losses and evaluate credit loss expectations based on our total portfolio. The principal charge-off rate for our financing receivables portfolio was 1.4% and 0.6% for the third quarter of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively, and 0.8% and 0.6% for the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively. The credit quality of our financing receivables remains strong due to the mix of high-quality commercial accounts in our portfolio. We continue to monitor broader economic indicators and their potential impact on future credit loss performance. We have an extensive process to manage our exposure to customer credit risk, including active management of credit lines and our collection activities. We also sell selected fixed-term financing receivables without recourse to unrelated third parties on a periodic basis, primarily to manage certain concentrations of customer credit exposure.Â Based on our assessment of the customer financing receivables, we believe that we are adequately reserved.We retain a residual interest in equipment leased under our lease programs. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, the residual interest recorded as part of financing receivables was $169 million and $157 million, respectively. The amount of the residual interest is established at the inception of the lease based upon estimates of the value of the equipment at the end of the lease term using historical studies, industry data, and future value-at-risk demand valuation methods. On a quarterly basis, we assess the carrying amount of our recorded residual values for expected losses. Generally, expected losses as a result of residual value risk on equipment under lease are not considered to be significant primarily because of the existence of a secondary market with respect to the equipment. Further, the lease agreement defines applicable return conditions and remedies for non-compliance to ensure that the leased equipment will be in good operating condition upon return. No expected losses were recorded related to residual assets during the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024.As of both NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, equipment under operating leases, net was $2.2 billion. We assess the carrying amount of the equipment under operating leases for impairment whenever events or circumstances may indicate that an impairment has occurred. No material impairment losses were recorded related to such equipment during the third quarter and first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024.71Table of ContentsDFS offerings are initially funded through cash on hand at the time of origination, most of which is subsequently replaced with asset-backed financing. For DFS offerings which qualify as sales-type leases, the initial funding of financing receivables is reflected as an impact to cash flows from operations and is largely subsequently offset by cash proceeds from financing. For DFS operating leases, the initial funding is classified as a capital expenditure and reflected as an impact to cash flows used in investing activities.See Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report for additional information about our financing receivables and the associated allowances, and equipment under operating leases.72Table of ContentsLIQUIDITY, CASH REQUIREMENTS, AND MARKET CONDITIONSLiquidity and Capital ResourcesWe rely on operating cash flows, which are impacted by trends in the demand environment, as our primary source of liquidity for our ongoing business operations. We monitor the efficiency of our balance sheet to ensure that we have adequate liquidity to support our business and strategic initiatives. In addition to internally generated cash, we have access to other capital sources to finance our strategic initiatives and fund growth in our financing operations. Our strategy is to deploy capital from any potential source, whether internally generated cash or debt, depending on the adequacy and availability of that source of capital and whether it can be accessed in a cost-effective manner. We believe that our current cash and cash equivalents, together with cash that will be provided by future operations and borrowings and issuances expected to be available under our revolving credit facility and commercial paper program, respectively, will be sufficient over the next twelve months and for the foreseeable future thereafter to meet our material cash requirements, including funding of our operations, debt-related payments, capital expenditures, and other corporate needs. As part of our overall capital allocation strategy, we intend to return capital to our stockholders through both share repurchase programs and dividend payments and use the remaining available cash to drive growth and maintain our investment grade credit rating. The following table presents our cash and cash equivalents as well as our available borrowings as of the dates indicated: November 1, 2024February 2, 2024(in millions)Cash and cash equivalents, and available borrowings:Cash and cash equivalents$5,225Â $7,366Â Remaining available borrowings under the revolving credit facility5,999Â 5,999Â Total cash and cash equivalents, and available borrowings$11,224Â $13,365Â During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, cash and cash equivalents decreased by $2.1 billion primarily due to the return of capital to our stockholders, capital expenditures, net repayment of Senior Notes and DFS debt, and payments to settle employee tax withholdings on stock-based compensation, the effect of which was partially offset by cash flows from operations.As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, our revolving credit facility had a maximum capacity of $6.0 billion. Available borrowings under this facility are reduced by draws on the facility and outstanding letters of credit. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, there were no borrowings outstanding under the facility and remaining available borrowings totaled approximately $6.0 billion. The revolving credit facility also acts as a backstop to provide liquidity support for our commercial paper program.We maintain a commercial paper program under which we may issue unsecured notes in a maximum aggregate face amount of $5.0Â billion outstanding at any time, with maturities up to 397 days from the date of issue. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, we had no outstanding issuances under the program. We may regularly use our available borrowings from the revolving credit facility and issuances under the commercial paper program, generally on a short-term basis, for general corporate purposes. See the following discussion for additional information about our debt. 73Table of ContentsDebtThe following table presents our outstanding debt as of the dates indicated:November 1, 2024ChangeFebruary 2, 2024(in millions)Core debtSenior Notes$15,073Â (534)15,607Â Legacy Notes952Â â€”Â 952Â DFS allocated debt(2,263)(623)(1,640)Total core debt 13,762Â (1,157)14,919Â DFS related debtDFS debt9,171Â (321)9,492Â DFS allocated debt2,263Â 623Â 1,640Â Total DFS related debt11,434Â 302Â 11,132Â Other56Â (115)171Â Total debt, principal amount25,252Â (970)26,222Â Carrying value adjustments(230)(2)(228)Total debt, carrying value$25,022Â (972)25,994Â The outstanding principal amount of our debt decreased $1.0 billion to $25.3 billion as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, driven primarily by net repayments of our Senior Notes and DFS debt.We define core debt as the total principal amount of our debt, less DFS related debt and other debt. Our core debt was $13.8 billion and $14.9 billion as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, respectively. See Note 6 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report for additional information about our debt.DFS related debt primarily represents debt from our securitization and structured financing programs. Our risk of loss under these programs is limited to transferred lease and loan payments and associated equipment, as the credit holders have no recourse to Dell Technologies.To fund expansion of the DFS business, we balance the use of the securitization and structured financing programs with other sources of liquidity. We approximate the amount of our core debt used to fund the DFS business by applying a 7:1 debt-to-equity ratio to the sum of our financing receivables balance and equipment under operating leases, net. The debt-to-equity ratio is based on the underlying credit quality of the assets. See Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report for additional information about our DFS debt.We believe we will continue to be able to make our debt principal and interest payments, including payment of short-term maturities, from existing and expected sources of cash, primarily from operating cash flows. Cash used for debt principal and interest payments may include short-term borrowings under our commercial paper program, our revolving credit facility, or other borrowings. Under our variable-rate debt, we could experience variations in our future interest expense from potential fluctuations in applicable reference rates, or from possible fluctuations in the level of DFS debt required to meet future demand for customer financing. At our sole discretion, we may purchase, redeem, prepay, refinance, or otherwise retire any amount of our outstanding indebtedness under the terms of such indebtedness at any time and from time to time, in open market or negotiated transactions with the holders of such indebtedness or otherwise, as we consider appropriate in light of market conditions and other relevant factors.74Table of ContentsCash FlowsThe following table presents a summary of our Condensed Consolidated Statements of Cash Flows for the periods indicated:Nine Months EndedÂ November 1, 2024November 3, 2023(in millions)Net change in cash from:Operating activities$3,936Â $7,143Â Investing activities(1,537)(2,114)Financing activities(4,424)(5,275)Effect of exchange rate changes on cash, cash equivalents, and restricted cash(78)(200)Change in cash, cash equivalents, and restricted cash$(2,103)$(446)Operating ActivitiesÂ â€” Cash provided by operating activities was $3.9 billion during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, and was driven by profitability, partially offset by working capital dynamics. Working capital was primarily impacted by AI dynamics, which led to higher inventory, accounts receivable, and accounts payable levels. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2024, cash provided by operating activities was $7.1 billion, which was primarily driven by profitability and working capital management as we reduced inventory, demonstrated strong cash collections performance, and benefited from the timing of purchases and payments to vendors. Cash provided by operating activities also reflected the impact of the $0.9Â billion net payment to settle the Class V transaction litigation and $0.4Â billion in proceeds from the sale of our U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio.Investing ActivitiesÂ â€” Investing activities primarily consist of cash used to fund capital expenditures for property, plant, and equipment inclusive of equipment under DFS operating leases and equipment used to support our as-a-Service offerings, which we refer to collectively as assets in a customer contract. Additional activities may include capitalized software development costs, acquisitions and divestitures, and the maturities, sales, and purchases of investments. Cash used in investing activities was $1.5 billion and $2.1 billion during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively, and was primarily applied to capital expenditures. Â Financing ActivitiesÂ â€” Financing activities primarily consist of the proceeds and repayments of debt and return of capital to our stockholders. Cash used in financing activities was $4.4 billion during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and primarily consisted of repurchases of common stock, inclusive of payments to settle employee tax withholdings on stock-based compensation, net repayments of our Senior Notes and DFS debt, and the payment of quarterly dividends. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2024, cash used in financing activities was $5.3 billion and primarily consisted of principal repayments of our Senior Notes, repurchases of common stock, inclusive of payments to settle employee tax withholdings on stock-based compensation, and the payment of quarterly dividends.DFS Cash Flow Impacts â€” DFS offerings are initially funded through cash on hand at the time of origination, most of which is subsequently replaced with asset-backed financing. For DFS offerings that qualify as sales-type leases, the initial funding of financing receivables is reflected as an impact to cash flows from operations and is largely subsequently offset by cash proceeds from financing. For operating leases, the initial funding is classified as a capital expenditure and reflected as cash flows used in investing activities. DFS new financing originations were $5.9 billion and $6.0 billion during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, we had $10.9 billion of total net financing receivables and $2.2 billion of equipment under operating leases, net.Supply Chain Finance Program â€” We maintain a Supply Chain Finance Program (the â€œSCF Programâ€) that enables eligible suppliers to sell receivables due from us to a third-party financial institution at the suppliersâ€™ sole discretion. The SCF Program does not impact our liquidity, as payments by us to participating suppliers are remitted to the financial institution on the original invoice due date. Further, we negotiate payment terms with our suppliers regardless of their decision to participate in the SCF Program. Payments made under the SCF Program are included in cash flows from operating activities on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Cash Flows. See Note 17 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report for more information regarding the SCF Program.75Table of ContentsCapital Commitments and Other Cash RequirementsCapital Expenditures â€” We spent $1.9Â billion and $2.0Â billion during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively, on property, plant, and equipment and capitalized software development costs. Of total expenditures incurred, funding of assets in a customer contract totaled $1.0Â billion and $0.9Â billion during the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, respectively. Product demand, product mix, the use of contract manufacturers, and ongoing investments in operating and information technology infrastructure influence the level and prioritization of our capital expenditures.Repurchases of Common Stock â€” Effective as of September 23, 2021, our Board of Directors approved a stock repurchase program with no fixed expiration date under which we are authorized to repurchase up to $5.0Â billion of shares of our Class C Common Stock, exclusive of any fees, commissions, or other expenses related to such repurchases. Effective as of October 5, 2023, the Board of Directors approved the repurchase of an additional $5.0 billion of shares of the Class C Common Stock with no fixed expiration date. Following the additional approval, we had approximately $5.7 billion in cumulative authorized amount remaining under the stock repurchase program.During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025, we repurchased approximately 16 million shares of Class C Common Stock for a total purchase price of approximately $1.8Â billion. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2024, we repurchased approximately 22 million shares of Class C Common Stock for a total purchase price of approximately $1.3 billion.Dividend Payments â€” On February 29, 2024, we announced that the Board of Directors approved a 20% increase in the dividend rate to $0.445 per share per fiscal quarter beginning in the first quarter of Fiscal 2025. During the first nine months of Fiscal 2025 and Fiscal 2024, the Company paid $1.0Â billion and $0.8Â billion in dividends and dividend equivalents at a rate of $0.445 and $0.37 per share per fiscal quarter, respectively. Purchase ObligationsÂ â€”Â Purchase obligations are defined as contractual obligations to purchase goods or services that are enforceable and legally binding on us. These obligations specify all significant terms, including fixed or minimum quantities to be purchased; fixed, minimum, or variable price provisions; and the approximate timing of the transaction. Purchase obligations do not include contracts that may be canceled without penalty.We utilize several suppliers to manufacture sub-assemblies for our products. Our efficient supply chain management allows us to enter into flexible and mutually beneficial purchase arrangements with our suppliers in order to minimize inventory risk. Consistent with industry practice, we acquire raw materials or other goods and services, including product components, by issuing to suppliers authorizations to purchase based on our projected demand and manufacturing needs. These purchase orders are typically fulfilled within 30 days and are entered into during the ordinary course of business in order to establish best pricing and continuity of supply for our production. Purchase orders are not included in purchase obligations, as they typically represent our authorization to purchase rather than binding purchase obligations.As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company had purchase obligations of $8.1Â billion, of which $6.9Â billion was payable within 12 months.76Table of ContentsMarket ConditionsWe regularly monitor economic conditions and associated impacts on the financial markets and our business. We consistently evaluate the financial health of our supplier base, carefully manage customer credit, diversify counterparty risk, and monitor the concentration risk of our cash and cash equivalents balances globally. We routinely monitor our financial exposure to borrowers and counterparties.We monitor credit risk associated with our financial counterparties using various market credit risk indicators such as credit ratings issued by nationally recognized credit rating agencies and changes in market credit default swap levels. We perform periodic evaluations of our positions with these counterparties and may limit exposure to any one counterparty in accordance with our policies. We monitor and manage these activities depending on current and expected market developments. We use derivative instruments to hedge certain foreign currency exposures. We use forward contracts and purchased options designated as cash flow hedges to protect against the foreign currency exchange rate risks inherent in our forecasted transactions denominated in currencies other than the U.S. dollar.Â In addition, we primarily use forward contracts and may use purchased options to hedge monetary assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency. See Note 7 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements included in this report for additional information about our use of derivative instruments.We are exposed to interest rate risk related to our variable-rate debt portfolio. In the normal course of business we follow established policies and procedures to manage this risk, including monitoring of our asset and liability mix and the use of derivative instruments. As a result, we do not anticipate any material losses from interest rate risk.77Table of ContentsSummarized Guarantor Financial InformationThe Companyâ€™s outstanding senior notes (â€œSenior Notesâ€) are registered, unsecured, and issued by Dell International L.L.C. and EMC Corporation (the â€œIssuersâ€), both of which are wholly-owned subsidiaries of Dell Technologies Inc. Dell Technologies offerings include servers and networking, storage, cloud solutions, desktops, notebooks, services, software, branded peripherals, and third-party software and peripherals. References in these Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements to the â€œCompanyâ€ or â€œDell Technologiesâ€ mean Dell Technologies Inc. individually and together with its consolidated subsidiaries. Basis of Presentation â€” The accompanying unaudited Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements should be read in conjunction with the audited Consolidated Financial Statements and accompanying Notes filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (â€œSECâ€) in the Companyâ€™s Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended FebruaryÂ 2, 2024. These Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (â€œGAAPâ€). In the opinion of management, the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements reflect all adjustments of a normal recurring nature considered necessary to fairly state the financial position of the Company as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024 and the results of its operations, corresponding comprehensive income, changes in stockholdersâ€™ equity (deficit) for the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, and its cash flows for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023.The preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements and the accompanying Notes. Actual results could differ materially from those estimates. The results of its operations, corresponding comprehensive income, and changes in stockholdersâ€™ equity (deficit) for the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, and its cash flows for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023 are not necessarily indicative of the results to be expected for the full fiscal year or for any other fiscal period.The Companyâ€™s fiscal year is the 52- or 53-week period ending on the Friday nearest January 31. Both the fiscal year ended FebruaryÂ 2, 2024 (â€œFiscal 2024â€) and the fiscal year ending JanuaryÂ 31, 2025 (â€œFiscal 2025â€) are 52-week periods. Principles of Consolidation â€” These Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements include the accounts of Dell Technologies Inc., its wholly-owned subsidiaries, and the accounts of SecureWorks Corp. (â€œSecureworksâ€), which is majority-owned by Dell Technologies. All intercompany transactions have been eliminated.The Company also consolidates Variable Interest Entities ("VIEs") where it has been determined that the Company is the primary beneficiary of the applicable entitiesâ€™ operations. For each VIE, the primary beneficiary is the party that has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance and the obligation to absorb losses or the right to receive benefits of the VIE that could potentially be significant to such VIE. In evaluating whether the Company is the primary beneficiary of each entity, the Company evaluates its power to direct the most significant activities of the VIE by considering the purpose and design of each entity and the risks each entity was designed to create and pass through to its respective variable interest holders. The Company also evaluates its economic interests in each of the VIEs. See Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for more information regarding consolidated VIEs.Secureworks â€” As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, the Company held approximately 78.7% and 81.0%, respectively, of the outstanding equity interest in Secureworks. The portion of the results of operations of Secureworks allocable to its other owners is shown as net loss attributable to non-controlling interests in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income, as an adjustment to net income attributable to Dell Technologies stockholders. The non-controlling interestsâ€™ share of equity in Secureworks is reflected as non-controlling interests in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position and was $95 million as of both NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024.On October 21, 2024, Secureworks announced that it has entered into a definitive agreement pursuant to which Sophos Inc., an affiliate of Thoma Bravo, L.P., a private equity and growth capital firm, will acquire Secureworks in an all-cash transaction for approximately $0.9Â billion, subject to certain closing adjustments. The transaction is expected to close in early 2025, subject to customary closing conditions.In accordance with applicable accounting guidance, the Company concluded that Secureworksâ€™ assets and liabilities have met the criteria to be classified as held-for-sale as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024. The Company reclassified the related assets and liabilities as Current assets held for sale and Current liabilities held for sale, respectively, in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024. The following table presents the major classes of assets and liabilities as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 related to Secureworks, which were classified as held for sale as of the date indicated:November 1, 2024(in millions)ASSETSCurrent assets:Cash and cash equivalents$53Â Accounts receivable, net47Â Other current assets15Â Total current assets115Â Goodwill427Â Intangible assets, net63Â Other non-current assets57Â Total assets$662Â LIABILITIESCurrent liabilities:Accrued and other$58Â Short-term deferred revenue125Â Total current liabilities183Â Other non-current liabilities28Â Total liabilities$211Â The sale of Secureworks does not meet the criteria for discontinued operations reporting, and as a result its operating results and cash flows are not separately stated as a discontinued operation in the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements. As Secureworks does not meet the requirements for a reportable segment, its operating results are included within Other businesses.Other Events â€” On October 4, 2023, the Company established a new consumer revolving financing program with Comenity Capital Bank, a subsidiary of Bread Financial Holdings, Inc. (â€œBreadâ€), under which transactions are originated, owned, serviced, and collected by Bread. Under the agreement, the Company also sold its U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio for total cash consideration of approximately $390 million, resulting in an immaterial gain recognized within the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income. The Company has no continuing involvement with these receivables, which are serviced by Bread.Recently Issued Accounting PronouncementsExpense Disaggregation Disclosures â€” In November 2024, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (â€œFASBâ€) issued guidance to improve disclosures about a public entityâ€™s expenses by requiring disclosure of additional information about the types of expenses commonly presented in the financial statements on an annual and interim basis. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2026, with early adoption permitted. Upon adoption, the guidance can be applied prospectively or retrospectively. Adoption of this new guidance will result in increased disclosures in the Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements.Income Taxes â€” In December 2023, the FASB issued guidance which requires companies to provide disaggregated income tax disclosures within the income tax rate reconciliation and income taxes paid. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2024, with early adoption permitted. Upon adoption, the guidance can be applied prospectively or retrospectively. Adoption of this new guidance will result in increased disclosures in the Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements.Segment Reporting â€” In November 2023, the FASB issued guidance to improve disclosures about a public entityâ€™s reportable segments by requiring disclosure of additional information about a reportable segmentâ€™s expenses on an annual and interim basis. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2023, with early adoption permitted. Upon adoption, the guidance is required to be applied retrospectively to all prior periods presented in the financial statements. Adoption of this new guidance will result in increased disclosures in the Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements. The valuations of these securities are based on quoted prices in active markets for identical assets, when available, or pricing models whereby all significant inputs are observable or can be derived from, or corroborated by, observable market data. The Company reviews security pricing and assesses money market fund liquidity on a quarterly basis. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Companyâ€™s portfolio had no material exposure to money market funds with a fluctuating net asset value. Marketable Equity and Other Securities â€” The Companyâ€™s investments in equity and other securities that are measured at fair value on a recurring basis consist of strategic investments in publicly-traded companies. The valuation of these securities is based on quoted prices in active markets.Derivative Instruments â€” The Companyâ€™s derivative financial instruments consist primarily of foreign currency forward and purchased option contracts and interest rate swaps. The fair value of the portfolio is determined using valuation models based on market observable inputs, including interest rate curves, forward and spot prices for currencies, and implied volatilities. Credit risk is also factored into the fair value calculation of the Companyâ€™s derivative financial instrument portfolio. See Note 7 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for a description of the Companyâ€™s derivative financial instrument activities.Deferred Compensation Plans â€” The Company offers deferred compensation plans for eligible employees which allow participants to defer a portion of their compensation. Assets and liabilities associated with the plans are measured at fair value using Level 1 inputs. Assets were the same as liabilities associated with the plans at approximately $243 million and $214 million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, respectively, and are included in other assets and other liabilities on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position. The net impact on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income is not material since changes in the fair value of the assets substantially offset changes in the fair value of the liabilities. As such, assets and liabilities associated with these plans have not been included in the recurring fair value table above. Assets and Liabilities Measured at Fair Value on a Nonrecurring Basis â€” Certain assets are measured at fair value on a nonrecurring basis and therefore are not included in the recurring fair value table above. These assets consist primarily of financial assets such as the Companyâ€™s fixed income debt securities and strategic investments in non-marketable equity and other securities and non-financial assets such as goodwill and intangible assets. Fixed income debt securities are recorded at amortized cost and approximate fair value. The fair value of fixed income debt securities is determined based on observable market prices in a less active market or based on valuation methodologies using observable inputs. If measured at fair value in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position, these securities would generally be classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. See Note 3 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s fixed income debt securities.Strategic investments in non-marketable equity and other securities and certain non-financial assets such as goodwill and intangibles are measured at fair value only if they are deemed to be impaired or when there is an adjustment from observable price changes in the current period. If measured at fair value in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position, these securities would generally be classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy. See Note 3 and Note 8 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s investments and goodwill and intangible assets, respectively.Carrying Value and Estimated Fair Value of Outstanding Debt â€” The following table presents the carrying value and estimated fair value of the Companyâ€™s outstanding debt as described in Note 6 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, including the current portion, as of the dates indicated:November 1, 2024February 2, 2024Carrying ValueFair ValueCarrying ValueFair Value(in billions)Senior Notes$15.0Â $15.1Â $15.5Â $15.8Â Legacy Notes$0.9Â $1.0Â $0.9Â $1.0Â DFS Debt$9.2Â $8.9Â $9.5Â $9.1Â The fair values of the outstanding debt shown in the table above were determined based on observable market prices in a less active market or based on valuation methodologies using observable inputs and were categorized as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. All equity and other securities as well as long-term fixed income debt securities are recorded as long-term investments while short-term fixed income debt securities are recorded as other current assets in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position. Total investments were $1.4 billion as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and $1.6 billion as of FebruaryÂ 2, 2024.Equity and Other SecuritiesEquity and other securities include strategic investments in marketable and non-marketable securities. Investments in marketable securities are measured at fair value on a recurring basis. Investments in non-marketable equity and other securities represent early-stage companies without readily determinable fair values. The Company has elected to apply the measurement alternative for non-marketable securities. Under the alternative, the Company measures investments without readily determinable fair values at cost, less impairment, adjusted for observable price changes. The Company makes a separate election to use the alternative for each eligible investment and is required to reassess at each reporting period whether an investment qualifies for the alternative. In evaluating these investments for impairment or observable price changes, the Company uses inputs including pre- and post-money valuations of recent financing events and the impact of those events on its fully diluted ownership percentages, as well as other available information regarding the issuerâ€™s historical and forecasted performance.Carrying Value of Equity and Other SecuritiesThe following table presents the cost, cumulative unrealized gains, cumulative unrealized losses, and carrying value of the Company's strategic investments in marketable and non-marketable equity and other securities as of the dates indicated:November 1, 2024February 2, 2024CostUnrealized GainUnrealized LossCarrying ValueCostUnrealized GainUnrealized LossCarrying Value(in millions)Marketable$12Â $26Â (32)6Â $12Â $24Â (26)10Â Non-marketable702Â 863Â (260)1,305Â 732Â 1,015Â (454)1,293Â Total equity and other securities$714Â $889Â (292)1,311Â $744Â $1,039Â (480)1,303Â Gains and Losses on Equity and Other SecuritiesThe following table presents unrealized gains and losses on marketable and non-marketable equity and other securities for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023(in millions)Marketable securities:Unrealized gain$3Â $â€”Â $3Â $1Â Unrealized lossâ€”Â â€”Â (6)(23)Net unrealized gain (loss)3Â â€”Â (3)(22)Non-marketable securities:Unrealized gain7Â 6Â 7Â 15Â Unrealized lossâ€”Â (3)(31)(49)Net unrealized gain (loss) (a) (b)7Â 3Â (24)(34)Net unrealized gain (loss) on equity and other securities$10Â $3Â (27)(56)_____(a)Â Â Â Â For the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, net gains on non-marketable securities are primarily due to upward adjustments for observable price changes. Fixed Income Debt Securities As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, the Company held fixed income debt securities of $61Â million and $301Â million, respectively, which it intends to hold to maturity. These investments are recorded at amortized cost and approximate fair value. Alternative payment structures consist of various flexible consumption models, including utility, subscription, and as-a-Service models. Financing options are offered to the Companyâ€™s customers primarily through Dell Financial Services and its affiliates (â€œDFSâ€). The Company also arranges financing for some of its customers in various countries where DFS does not currently operate as a captive enterprise. The key activities of DFS include originating, collecting, and servicing customer financing arrangements primarily related to the purchase or use of Dell Technologies products and services. In some cases, DFS also offers financing for the purchase of third-party technology products that complement the Dell Technologies portfolio of products and services. New financing originations were $1.6 billion and $1.8 billion for the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively, and $5.9 billion and $6.0 billion for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively.The Companyâ€™s lease and loan arrangements with customers are aggregated primarily into the following categories:Fixed-term leases and loans â€” The Company enters into financing arrangements with customers who seek lease financing for equipment. DFS leases are generally classified as sales-type leases or operating leases. Leases with business customers have fixed terms of generally two to four years. The Company also offers fixed-term loans to qualified small businesses, large commercial accounts, governmental organizations, educational entities, and certain individual consumer customers. These loans are repaid in equal payments including interest and have defined terms of generally three to five years. The fair value of the fixed-term loan portfolio is determined using market observable inputs.Â The carrying value of these loans approximates fair value.Revolving loans â€” The Company primarily offers revolving loans to small and medium-sized commercial customers. Revolving loans provide qualified customers with a revolving credit line for the purchase of products and services offered by Dell Technologies. Revolving loans in the United States bear interest at a variable annual percentage rate that is tied to the prime rate. Based on historical payment patterns, revolving loan transactions are typically repaid within twelve months on average. Due to the short-term nature of the revolving loan portfolio, the carrying value of the portfolio approximates fair value.Prior to the sale of the U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio on October 4, 2023, described in Note 1 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, the Company offered private label credit financing under the Dell Preferred Account (â€œDPAâ€) program. The DPA product was primarily offered to individual consumer customers. During the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company discontinued remaining offerings under the revolving loan portfolio. The Company will support existing customer arrangements as well as transition these customers to fixed-term offerings. Flexible consumption models, as defined above, further enable the Company to offer its customers the option to pay over time to provide them with financial and operational flexibility. Such models may result in identification of embedded lease arrangements that lead to the recognition of operating or sales-type leases.Financing ReceivablesThe following table presents the components of the Companyâ€™s financing receivables segregated by portfolio segment as of the dates indicated:Â November 1, 2024February 2, 2024RevolvingFixed-termTotalRevolvingFixed-termTotalÂ (in millions)Financing receivables, net:Â Â Customer receivables, gross (a)$126Â $10,699Â $10,825Â $173Â $10,360Â $10,533Â Allowances for losses(7)(137)(144)(9)(161)(170)Customer receivables, net119Â 10,562Â 10,681Â 164Â 10,199Â 10,363Â Residual interestâ€”Â 169Â 169Â â€”Â 157Â 157Â Financing receivables, net$119Â $10,731Â $10,850Â $164Â $10,356Â $10,520Â Short-term$119Â $4,882Â $5,001Â $164Â $4,479Â $4,643Â Long-term$â€”Â $5,849Â $5,849Â $â€”Â $5,877Â $5,877Â _____(a)Â Â Â Â Customer receivables, gross include amounts due from customers under revolving loans, fixed-term loans, fixed-term leases, and accrued interest.The following tables present the changes in allowance for financing receivable losses for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023RevolvingFixed-termTotalRevolvingFixed-termTotal(in millions)Allowance for financing receivable losses:Balances at beginning of period$8Â $158Â $166Â $9Â $140Â $149Â Charge-offs, net of recoveries(3)(35)(38)(4)(3)(7)Provision charged to income statement2Â 14Â 16Â 4Â 7Â 11Â Balances at end of period$7Â $137Â $144Â $9Â $144Â $153Â Nine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023RevolvingFixed-termTotalRevolvingFixed-termTotal(in millions)Allowance for financing receivable losses:Balances at beginning of period$9Â $161Â $170Â $88Â $113Â $201Â Charge-offs, net of recoveries(9)(56)(65)(37)(5)(42)Provision charged to income statement7Â 32Â 39Â 32Â 36Â 68Â Other (a)â€”Â â€”Â â€”Â (74)â€”Â (74)Balances at end of period$7Â $137Â $144Â $9Â $144Â $153Â _____(a)Â Â Â Â Other represents the derecognition of the allowance for financing receivable losses related to the sale of the U.S. consumer revolving customer receivables portfolio described in Note 1 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements. The Company recognizes an allowance for financing receivable losses, including both the lease receivable and unguaranteed residual, in an amount equal to the expected losses net of recoveries. The allowance for financing receivable losses on the lease receivable is determined based on various factors, including lifetime expected losses determined using macroeconomic forecast assumptions and management judgments applicable to and through the expected life of the portfolios as well as past due receivables, receivable type, and customer risk profile. The Company continues to monitor broader economic indicators and their potential impact on future credit loss performance. a result of the variability in volume of large transactions entered into over the period, and the administrative processes that accompany those transactions. Aging is also impacted by the timing of the Companyâ€™s fiscal period end date relative to calendar month-end customer payment due dates.Â As a result of these factors, fluctuations in aging from period to period do not necessarily indicate a material change in the collectibility of the portfolio.Fixed-term customer receivables are placed on non-accrual status if principal or interest is past due and considered delinquent, or if there is concern about the collectibility of a specific customer receivable. The receivables identified as doubtful for collectibility may be classified as current for aging purposes. Aged revolving portfolio customer receivables identified as delinquent are charged off.Credit QualityThe following tables present customer receivables, gross, including accrued interest, by credit quality indicator, segregated by class, as of the dates indicated: November 1, 2024Fixed-term â€“ Fiscal Year of Origination20252024202320222021Years PriorRevolvingTotal(in millions)Higher$1,555Â $2,440Â $1,560Â $515Â $158Â $14Â $25Â $6,267Â Mid733Â 710Â 432Â 122Â 22Â 5Â 37Â 2,061Â Lower1,505Â 465Â 314Â 88Â 58Â 3Â 64Â 2,497Â Total$3,793Â $3,615Â 2, 2024Fixed-term â€“ Fiscal Year of Origination20242023202220212020Years PriorRevolvingTotal(in millions)Higher$3,261Â $1,979Â $833Â $345Â $64Â $â€“Â $47Â $6,529Â Mid1,111Â 911Â 290Â 86Â 19Â â€“Â 50Â 2,467Â Lower703Â 469Â 187Â 80Â 21Â 1Â 76Â 1,537Â Total$5,075Â $3,359Â categories shown in the tables above segregate customer receivables based on the relative degrees of credit risk. Credit quality indicators for revolving and fixed-term accounts are generally updated on a periodic basis.An internal grading system is utilized that assigns a credit level score based on a number of considerations, including liquidity, operating performance, and industry outlook. The grading criteria and classifications for the fixed-term products differ from those for the revolving products as loss experience varies between these product and customer groups. The credit quality categories cannot be compared between the different classes as loss experience varies substantially between the classes.LeasesThe following table presents amounts included in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income related to sales-type lease activity for the periods indicated: Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023(in millions)Net revenue â€“ products$401Â $227Â $1,751Â $766Â Cost of net revenue â€“ products333Â 176Â 1,488Â 564Â Gross margin â€“ products$68Â $51Â $263Â $202Â The following table presents the future maturity of the Companyâ€™s fixed-term customer leases and associated financing payments, and reconciles the undiscounted cash flows to the customer receivables, gross recognized on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position as of the date indicated: November 1, 2024(in millions)Fiscal 2025 (remaining three months)$871Â Fiscal 20263,114Â Fiscal 20272,085Â Fiscal 2028793Â Fiscal 2029 and beyond454Â Total undiscounted cash flows7,317Â Fixed-term loans4,466Â Revolving loans126Â Less: Unearned income(1,084)Total customer receivables, gross$10,825Â Operating LeasesThe Companyâ€™s operating leases primarily consist of DFS captive fixed-term leases and contractually committed embedded leases identified within flexible consumption arrangements.The following table presents the components of the Companyâ€™s operating lease portfolio included in property, plant, and equipment, net as of the dates indicated: November 1, 2024February 2, 2024(in millions)Equipment under operating lease, gross$4,188Â $4,002Â Less: Accumulated depreciation(1,971)(1,800)Equipment under operating lease, net$2,217Â $2,202Â The following table presents operating lease income related to lease payments and depreciation expense for the Companyâ€™s operating lease portfolio for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023(in millions)Income related to lease payments$372Â $341Â $1,090Â $992Â Depreciation expense $247Â $234Â $732Â $703Â The following table presents the future payments to be received by the Company in operating lease contracts as of the date indicated:November 1, 2024(in millions)Fiscal 2025 (remaining three months)$347Â Fiscal 20261,079Â Fiscal 2027665Â Fiscal 2028316Â Fiscal 2029 and beyond121Â Total$2,528Â DFS DebtThe Company maintains programs that facilitate the funding of leases, loans, and other alternative payment structures in the capital markets. The asset-based financing facility consists of two tranches, with effective dates through JulyÂ 7, 2025 and JulyÂ 7, 2026, respectively. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the total debt capacity related to the asset-based financing facility was $5.0 billion. The debt has a variable interest rate, and the duration of the debt is based on the terms of the underlying lease and loan payment streams. The Company enters into interest rate swap agreements to economically convert a portion of this debt from a floating rate to a fixed rate. See Note 7 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s interest rate swaps.The asset-based financing facility contains standard structural features related to the performance of the funded receivables, which include defined credit losses, delinquencies, average credit scores, and minimum collection requirements. In the event one or more of these criteria are not met and the Company is unable to restructure the facility, no further funding of receivables will be permitted and the timing of the Companyâ€™s expected cash flows from over-collateralization will be delayed. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, these criteria were met.Fixed-Term Securitization Offerings â€“ The Company periodically issues asset-backed debt securities under fixed-term securitization programs to private investors. The asset-backed debt securities are collateralized solely by the U.S. fixed-term lease and loan payments and associated equipment, which are held by Special Purpose Entities (â€œSPEsâ€), as discussed below. The interest rate on these securities is fixed and ranges from 4.14% to 6.80% per annum as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, and the duration of these securities is based on the terms of the underlying lease and loan payment streams.DFS International DebtSecuritization Facility â€“ The Company maintains a securitization facility in Europe for fixed-term leases and loans. The debt under this facility has a variable interest rate, and the duration of the debt is based on the terms of the underlying lease and loan payment streams. This facility is effective through DecemberÂ 23, 2024 and had a total debt capacity of $871Â million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024. The securitization facility contains standard structural features related to the performance of the securitized receivables, which include defined credit losses, delinquencies, average credit scores, and minimum collection requirements. In the event one or more of these criteria are not met and the Company is unable to restructure the program, no further funding of receivables will be permitted and the timing of the Companyâ€™s expected cash flows from over-collateralization will be delayed. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, these criteria were met.Other Borrowings â€“ In connection with the Companyâ€™s international financing operations, the Company has entered into revolving structured financing debt programs related to its fixed-term lease and loan products sold in Canada, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, the Middle East, and Singapore. The debt under these programs has a variable interest rate. The duration of the debt in Canada, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, and the Middle East is based on the terms of the underlying lease and loan payment streams. These facilities are collateralized solely by the lease and loan payments and associated equipment in their respective region or country. The Canadian facility had a total debt capacity of $323 million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and is effective through JanuaryÂ 16, 2025. The SPEs are bankruptcy-remote legal entities with separate assets and liabilities. The purpose of the SPEs is to facilitate the funding of customer lease and loan payments and associated equipment in the capital markets.Some of the SPEs have entered into financing arrangements with multi-seller conduits that, in turn, issue asset-backed debt securities in the capital markets. DFS debt outstanding held by the consolidated VIEs is collateralized by the lease and loan payments and associated equipment. The Companyâ€™s risk of loss related to securitized receivables is limited to the amount by which the Companyâ€™s right to receive collections for assets securitized exceeds the amount required to pay interest, principal, and fees and expenses related to the asset-backed securities. The Company provides credit enhancement to the securitization in the form of over-collateralization.The following table presents the assets and liabilities held by the consolidated VIEs as of the dates indicated, which are included in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position:Â November 1, 2024February 2, 2024Â (in millions)Assets held by consolidated VIEsOther current assets$123Â $136Â Financing receivables, net of allowanceShort-term$3,354Â $3,314Â Long-term$2,989Â $2,747Â Property, plant, and equipment, net$1,022Â $1,081Â Liabilities held by consolidated VIEsDebt, net of unamortized debt issuance costsShort-term$4,888Â $4,450Â Long-term$1,838Â $2,184Â Lease and loan payments and associated equipment transferred via securitization through SPEs were $1.0 billion and $1.1 billion for the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively, and $3.0 billion and $3.7 billion for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively.Customer Receivables SalesTo manage certain concentrations of customer credit exposure, the Company may sell selected fixed-term customer receivables to unrelated third parties on a periodic basis, without recourse. The amount of customer receivables sold for this purpose was $75 million and $205 million for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, respectively. The Companyâ€™s continuing involvement in these customer receivables is primarily limited to servicing arrangements. INSTRUMENTS AND HEDGING ACTIVITIES 9 Months Ended Nov. 01, 2024 Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities Disclosure [Abstract] Â DERIVATIVE INSTRUMENTS AND HEDGING ACTIVITIES DERIVATIVE INSTRUMENTS AND HEDGING ACTIVITIES As part of its risk management strategy, the Company uses derivative instruments, primarily foreign currency forward and option contracts and interest rate swaps, to hedge certain foreign currency and interest rate exposures, respectively.The Companyâ€™s objective is to offset gains and losses resulting from these exposures with gains and losses on the derivative contracts used to hedge the exposures, thereby reducing volatility of earnings and protecting the fair values of assets and liabilities. The earnings effects of the derivative instruments are presented in the same line items on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income as the earnings effects of the hedged items. For derivatives designated as cash flow hedges, the Company assesses hedge effectiveness both at the onset of the hedge and at regular intervals throughout the life of the instruments. For derivatives designated as fair value hedges, the Company assesses hedge effectiveness on qualifying instruments using the shortcut method whereby the hedges are considered perfectly effective at the onset of the hedge and over the life of the hedging relationship.Foreign Exchange RiskThe Company uses foreign currency forward and option contracts designated as cash flow hedges to protect against the foreign currency exchange rate risks inherent in its forecasted transactions denominated in currencies other than the U.S. Dollar. Hedge accounting is applied based upon the criteria established by accounting guidance for derivative instruments and hedging activities. The risk of loss associated with purchased options is limited to premium amounts paid for the option contracts. The risk of loss associated with forward contracts is equal to the exchange rate differential from the time the contract is entered into until the time it is settled. The majority of these contracts typically expire in twelve months or less.During the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, the Company did not discontinue any cash flow hedges related to foreign exchange contracts that had a material impact on the Companyâ€™s results of operations due to the probability that the forecasted cash flows would not occur.The Company uses forward contracts to hedge monetary assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency. These contracts generally expire in three months or less, are considered economic hedges, and are not designated for hedge accounting. The change in the fair value of these instruments represents a natural hedge as their gains and losses offset the changes in the underlying fair value of the monetary assets and liabilities due to movements in currency exchange rates.In connection with DFS operations in Europe, forward contracts are used to hedge financing receivables denominated in foreign currencies other than Euro. These contracts are not designated for hedge accounting and most expire within three years or less.Interest Rate RiskThe Company uses interest rate swaps to hedge the variability in cash flows related to the interest rate payments on structured financing debt. The interest rate swaps economically convert the variable rate on the structured financing debt to a fixed interest rate to match the underlying fixed rate being received on fixed-term customer leases and loans. These contracts are not designated for hedge accounting and most expire within four years or less.Interest rate swaps are utilized to manage the interest rate risk, at a portfolio level, associated with DFS operations in Europe. The interest rate swaps economically convert the fixed rate on financing receivables to a three-month Euribor floating rate in order to match the floating rate nature of the banksâ€™ funding pool. The Company also uses interest rate swaps to manage the cash flows related to interest payments on senior unsecured eurobonds. The interest rate swaps economically convert the fixed rate on the Companyâ€™s bonds to a floating rate to match the underlying lease repayments profile. These contracts are not designated for hedge accounting and most expire within five years or less. See Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for more information about the Dell Bank senior unsecured eurobonds.The Company utilizes cross-currency amortizing swaps to hedge the currency and interest rate risk exposure associated with the European securitization program. The cross-currency swaps combine a Euro-based interest rate swap with a British Pound or U.S. Dollar foreign exchange forward contract in which the Company pays a fixed or floating British Pound or U.S. Dollar amount and receives a fixed or floating amount in Euros linked to the one-month Euribor rate. The notional value of the swaps amortizes in line with the expected cash flows and run-off of the securitized assets.Â The swaps are not designated for hedge accounting and expire within five years or less.Derivative InstrumentsThe following table presents the notional amounts of outstanding derivative instruments as of the dates indicated:Â November 1, 2024February 2, 2024Â (in millions)Foreign exchange contracts:Â Â Designated as cash flow hedging instruments$6,773Â $6,339Â Non-designated as hedging instruments6,157Â 5,844Â Total$12,930Â $12,183Â Interest rate contracts:Non-designated as hedging instruments$6,357Â $6,551Â The following table presents the effect of derivative instruments designated as cash flow hedging instruments on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position and the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income for the periods indicated:Derivatives in Cash Flow Hedging RelationshipsGain (Loss) Recognized in Accumulated OCI, Net of Tax, on DerivativesLocation of Gain (Loss) Reclassified from Accumulated OCI into IncomeGain (Loss) Reclassified from Accumulated OCI into Income(in millions)(in millions)For the three months ended November 1, 2024:Total net revenue$(57)Foreign exchange contracts$(9)Total cost of net revenue3Â Total$(9)Total$(54)For the three months ended November 3, 2023:Total net revenue$83Â Foreign exchange contracts$171Â Total cost of net revenue1Â Total$171Â Total$84Â For the nine months ended November 1, 2024:Total net revenue$(25)Foreign exchange contracts$58Â Total cost of net revenue8Â Total$58Â Total$(17)For the nine months ended November 3, 2023:Total net revenue$(68)Foreign exchange contracts$230Â Total cost of net revenue(7)Total$230Â Total$(75)The following table presents the effect of derivative instruments not designated as hedging instruments on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income for the periods indicated:Three Months EndedNine Months EndedNovember 1, 2024November 3, 2023November 1, 2024November 3, 2023Location of Gain (Loss) Recognized(in millions)Foreign exchange contracts(13)(114)(58)(97)Interest and other, netInterest rate contracts32Â 2Â 21Â 5Â Interest and other, netTotal$19Â (112)(37)$(92)The Company presents its derivative instruments on a net basis in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position due to the right of offset by its counterparties under master netting arrangements. In electing to bypass the qualitative assessment, the Company proceeded directly to perform a quantitative goodwill impairment test to measure the fair value of each goodwill reporting unit relative to its carrying amount, and to determine the amount of goodwill impairment loss to be recognized, if any. For the remaining reporting units, the Company performed a qualitative assessment of goodwill at the reporting unit level. The qualitative assessment included consideration of the relevant events and circumstances affecting the reporting unit, including macroeconomic, industry and market conditions, overall financial performance, and trends in the public company market valuation, where applicable. Additionally, Secureworksâ€™ entry into a definitive agreement, pursuant to which Secureworks will be acquired in an all-cash transaction for approximately $0.9Â billion, as discussed in Note 1 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements, provided a fair value indication that the Secureworks reporting unit exceeded its carrying value.Management exercised significant judgment related to the above assessments, including the identification of goodwill reporting units, assignment of assets and liabilities to goodwill reporting units, assignment of goodwill to reporting units, and determination of the fair value of each goodwill reporting unit. For the quantitative goodwill impairment test, the fair value of each goodwill reporting unit is generally estimated using a combination of public company multiples and discounted cash flow methodologies. The discounted cash flow and public company multiples methodologies require significant judgment, including estimation of future revenues, gross margins, and operating expenses, which are dependent on internal forecasts, current and anticipated economic conditions and trends, selection of market multiples through assessment of the reporting unitâ€™s performance relative to peer competitors, the estimation of the long-term revenue growth rate and discount rate of the Companyâ€™s business, and the determination of the Companyâ€™s weighted average cost of capital. Changes in these estimates and assumptions could materially affect the fair value of the goodwill reporting unit, potentially resulting in a non-cash impairment charge.The fair value of the indefinite-lived trade names is generally estimated using discounted cash flow methodologies. These methodologies require significant judgment, including the estimation of future revenue, the estimation of the long-term revenue growth rate of the Companyâ€™s business and the determination of the Companyâ€™s weighted average cost of capital and royalty rates. Changes in these estimates and assumptions could materially affect the fair value of the indefinite-lived intangible assets, potentially resulting in a non-cash impairment charge.Based on the results of the annual impairment test performed during the three months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the fair values of each of the reporting units and indefinite-lived intangibles exceeded their carrying values. No goodwill or indefinite-lived assets impairment test was performed during the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 other than the Companyâ€™s annual impairment review and the assessment of Secureworks. Remaining performance obligations include deferred revenue plus unbilled amounts not yet recorded in deferred revenue. The value of the transaction price allocated to remaining performance obligations as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 was approximately $37 billion. The Company expects to recognize approximately 60% of remaining performance obligations as revenue in the next twelve months, and the remainder thereafter.The aggregate amount of the transaction price allocated to remaining performance obligations does not include amounts owed under cancelable contracts where there is no substantive termination penalty. The Company applied the practical expedient to exclude the value of remaining performance obligations for contracts for which revenue is recognized at the amount to which the Company has the right to invoice for services performed.Remaining performance obligation estimates are subject to change and are affected by several factors, including terminations, changes in the scope of contracts, periodic revalidation, adjustments for revenue that have not materialized, and adjustments for currency. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, such purchase obligations were $6.4 billion for the remaining three months of Fiscal 2025; $0.5 billion for Fiscal 2026; and $1.2 billion for Fiscal 2027 and thereafter.Legal MattersThe Company is involved in various claims, suits, assessments, investigations, and legal proceedings that arise from time to time in the ordinary course of its business, including those identified below, consisting of matters involving consumer, antitrust, tax, intellectual property, and other issues on a global basis. The Company accrues a liability when it believes that it is both probable that a liability has been incurred and that it can reasonably estimate the amount of the loss. The Company reviews these accruals at least quarterly and adjusts them to reflect ongoing negotiations, settlements, rulings, advice of legal counsel, and other relevant information. To the extent new information is obtained and the Companyâ€™s views on the probable outcomes of claims, suits, assessments, investigations, or legal proceedings change, changes in the Companyâ€™s accrued liabilities are recorded in the period in which such a determination is made. For some matters, the incurrence of a liability is not probable or the amount cannot be reasonably estimated and therefore accruals have not been made. The following is a discussion of the Companyâ€™s significant legal matters and other proceedings:Class Actions Related to the Class V TransactionÂ â€” On DecemberÂ 28, 2018, the Company completed a transaction (the â€œClass V transactionâ€) in which it paid $14.0Â billion in cash and issued 149,387,617 shares of its Class C Common Stock to holders of its Class V Common Stock in exchange for all outstanding shares of Class V Common Stock. As a result of the Class V transaction, the tracking stock feature of the Companyâ€™s capital structure associated with the Class V Common Stock was terminated. Certain stockholders of the Company subsequently brought class action complaints arising out of the Class V transaction in which they named as defendants (collectively, the â€œdefendantsâ€) Michael S. Dell and certain other directors serving on the Companyâ€™s board of directors at the time of the Class V transaction (collectively, the â€œdirector defendantsâ€), certain stockholders of the Company, consisting of Mr. Dell and Silver Lake Group, L.L.C. and certain of its affiliated funds (collectively, the â€œstockholder defendantsâ€), and Goldman Sachs & Co. LLC, which served as financial advisor to the Company in connection with the transaction. The plaintiffs generally alleged that the director defendants and the stockholder defendants breached their fiduciary duties under Delaware law to the former holders of the Class V Common Stock in connection with the Class V transaction by offering a transaction value that was allegedly billions of dollars below fair value. As previously reported, during the fourth quarter of the fiscal year ended February 3, 2023, the plaintiffs and the defendants entered into an agreement to settle the lawsuit. Under the terms of the settlement, the plaintiffs agreed to the dismissal of all claims upon payment of a total of $1.0Â billion (the â€œsettlement amountâ€), which includes all costs, expenses and fees of the plaintiff class relating to the action and its resolution. On May 16, 2023, during the fiscal year ended February 2, 2024, the Company paid the settlement amount following approval of the settlement by the Delaware Court of Chancery. This matter is no longer material to the Company.R2 Semiconductor Patent Litigation â€” In November 2022, R2 Semiconductor, Inc. (â€œR2â€) filed a lawsuit in the Dusseldorf Regional Court in Germany against Intel Deutschland GmbH, Dell GmbH, and certain other customers of Intel Corporation. R2 asserted that one European patent is infringed by certain Intel processors and those of the Companyâ€™s products that incorporate those processors. R2 sought an injunction prohibiting the sale of the allegedly infringing products and damages for the alleged infringement. The court conducted a trial on December 7, 2023 and, on February 7, 2024, issued a decision in favor of R2 and imposed an injunction prohibiting the sale and use of such products in Germany by Dell GmbH, and requiring Dell GmbH to issue a communication to certain customers recalling the covered products sold since March 5, 2020. On February 8, 2024, the Company filed an appeal. In April and May 2024, R2 filed lawsuits in Paris, France and Milan, Italy, against affiliates of Intel Corporation (â€œIntelâ€) and of the Company, raising similar allegations. Intel agreed to defend the foregoing actions and indemnify the Company and its affiliates against certain losses incurred by the Company in connection with R2â€™s claims. On August 30, 2024, Intel and R2 publicly announced an agreement to dismiss all litigation between the two companies that would include dismissal of all litigation against all subsidiaries of Dell Technologies named in the foregoing actions. Pursuant to that agreement, the Italian lawsuit was dismissed on September 2, 2024, the German lawsuit was dismissed on September 4, 2024, and the French lawsuit was dismissed on September 6, 2024.Other Litigation â€” Dell does not currently anticipate that any of the other legal proceedings it is involved in will have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows.In accordance with the relevant accounting guidance, the Company provides disclosures of matters where it is at least reasonably possible that the Company could experience a material loss exceeding the amounts already accrued for these or other proceedings or matters. In addition, the Company also discloses matters based on its consideration of other matters and qualitative factors, including the experience of other companies in the industry, and investor, customer, and employee relations considerations. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company does not believe there is a reasonable possibility that a material loss exceeding the amounts already accrued for these or other proceedings or matters has been incurred. However, since the ultimate resolution of any such proceedings and matters is inherently unpredictable, the Companyâ€™s business, financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows could be materially affected in any particular period by unfavorable outcomes in one or more of these proceedings or matters. Whether the outcome of any claim, suit, assessment, investigation, or legal proceeding, individually or collectively, could have a material adverse effect on the Companyâ€™s business, financial condition, results of operations, or cash flows will depend on a number of factors, including the nature, timing, and amount of any associated expenses, amounts paid in settlement, damages, or other remedies or consequences.Indemnifications ObligationsIn the ordinary course of business, the Company enters into various contracts under which it may agree to indemnify other parties for losses incurred from certain events as defined in the relevant contract, such as litigation, regulatory penalties, or claims relating to past performance. Such indemnification obligations may not be subject to maximum loss clauses. Historically, payments related to these indemnification obligations have not been material to the Company.Under the Separation and Distribution Agreement entered into with VMware, Inc. upon completion of the spin-off of VMware, Inc. on November 1, 2021 (the â€œVMware Spin-offâ€), Dell Technologies agreed to indemnify VMware, Inc., each of its subsidiaries and each of their respective directors, officers, employees, as well as any successors and assigns of the foregoing, from and against all liabilities relating to, arising out of or resulting from, among other matters, the liabilities allocated to Dell Technologies as part of the separation of Dell Technologies and VMware, Inc. (currently operating under the name â€œVMware LLC,â€ and individually and together with its subsidiaries, â€œVMwareâ€) and their respective businesses (the â€œSeparationâ€). VMware similarly agreed to indemnify Dell Technologies Inc., each of its subsidiaries and each of their respective directors, officers, and employees from and against all liabilities relating to, arising out of or resulting from, among other matters, the liabilities allocated to VMware as part of the Separation. The amounts that VMware and Dell Technologies may be obligated to pay each other could vary depending on the outcome of certain unresolved tax matters, which may not be resolved for several years. Net income tax indemnification receivables from VMware were immaterial as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024. For the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Companyâ€™s effective income tax rate was 0.2% on pre-tax income of $2.9 billion compared to 21.6% on pre-tax income of $2.6 billion for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 3, 2023. The changes in the Companyâ€™s effective income tax rate were primarily driven by discrete tax items. For the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company recorded discrete tax benefits of $0.4Â billion related to changes in uncertain tax benefits resulting from the expiration of certain statutes of limitations and $0.2Â billion related to stock-based compensation. The differences between the estimated effective income tax rates and the U.S. federal statutory rate of 21% principally result from the geographical distribution of income, differences between the book and tax treatment of certain items, and discrete tax items. In certain jurisdictions, the Companyâ€™s tax rate is significantly less than the applicable statutory rate as a result of tax holidays. The majority of the Companyâ€™s foreign income subject to these tax holidays and lower tax rates is attributable to Singapore and China. A significant portion of these income tax benefits relates to a tax holiday that will be effective until January 31, 2029. Most of the Companyâ€™s other tax holidays will expire in whole or in part during fiscal years 2030 and 2031. Many of these tax holidays and reduced tax rates may be extended when certain conditions are met or may be terminated early if certain conditions are not met or as a result of changes in tax legislation. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Company was not aware of any matters of non-compliance related to these tax holidays.In June 2023, the Company received a Revenue Agentâ€™s Report for the federal income tax examination by the Internal Revenue Service (â€œIRSâ€) of fiscal years 2018 through 2019. The IRS proposed adjustments primarily relating to certain transactions the Company completed as part of its business integration efforts. In August 2023, the Company submitted a written protest to the IRS relating to certain assessments. The Company received a rebuttal from the IRS to its written protest in April 2024. The Company disagrees with the IRSâ€™s proposed adjustments and will contest them through the IRS administrative appeals procedures. The Company anticipates that the appeals process for the resolution of these matters will extend beyond the next twelve months. In September 2023, the IRS commenced a federal income tax examination of fiscal years 2020 through 2022. The Company is also currently under income tax audits in various U.S. state and foreign taxing jurisdictions. The Company is undergoing negotiations, and in some cases contested proceedings, relating to tax matters with the taxing authorities in these jurisdictions. With respect to major U.S. state and foreign taxing jurisdictions, the Company is generally not subject to tax examinations for years prior to the fiscal year ended January 29, 2010. The Company believes that it has provided adequate reserves related to all matters contained in tax periods open to examination, including the IRS audits described above. Although the Company believes it has made adequate provisions for the uncertainties with respect to these audits, should the Company experience unfavorable outcomes, such outcomes could have a material impact on its results of operations, financial position, and cash flows.Judgment is required in evaluating the Companyâ€™s uncertain tax positions and determining the Companyâ€™s provision for income taxes. Unrecognized tax benefits were $1.0 billion and $1.3 billion as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, respectively, and are included in other non-current liabilities in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position. The Company does not anticipate a significant change to the total amount of unrecognized tax benefits within the next twelve months. The Company takes certain non-income tax positions in the jurisdictions in which it operates and has received certain non-income tax assessments from various jurisdictions. The Company believes that a material loss in these non-income tax litigation matters is not probable and that it is not reasonably possible that a material loss exceeding amounts already accrued has been incurred.Â The Company believes its positions in these matters are supportable and that it ultimately will prevail in the matters. In the normal course of business, the Companyâ€™s positions and conclusions related to its non-income taxes could be challenged and assessments may be made. To the extent new information is obtained and the Companyâ€™s views on its positions, probable outcomes of assessments, or litigation change, changes in estimates to the Companyâ€™s accrued liabilities would be recorded in the period in which such a determination is made. In the resolution process for income tax and non-income tax audits, the Company is required in certain situations to provide collateral guarantees or indemnification to regulators and tax authorities until the matter is resolved. On March 25, 2024, the Company terminated the Commercial Framework Agreement with VMware, which provided the framework pursuant to which the Company and VMware continued the commercial relationship following the VMware Spin-off and under which Dell Technologies acted as a distributor of Broadcomâ€™s VMware stand-alone products and services and purchased such products and services for resale to end-user customers (â€œVMware Resaleâ€). Dell Technologies no longer acts as a distributor of VMwareâ€™s standalone products and services, though the Company will continue to support customers that have purchased resale offerings sold in prior periods. The results of VMware Resale transactions are reflected in other businesses. Basis of Presentation Basis of Presentation â€” The accompanying unaudited Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements should be read in conjunction with the audited Consolidated Financial Statements and accompanying Notes filed with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (â€œSECâ€) in the Companyâ€™s Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended FebruaryÂ 2, 2024. These Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (â€œGAAPâ€). In the opinion of management, the accompanying Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements reflect all adjustments of a normal recurring nature considered necessary to fairly state the financial position of the Company as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024 and the results of its operations, corresponding comprehensive income, changes in stockholdersâ€™ equity (deficit) for the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, and its cash flows for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023.The preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements and the accompanying Notes. Actual results could differ materially from those estimates. The results of its operations, corresponding comprehensive income, and changes in stockholdersâ€™ equity (deficit) for the three and nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023, and its cash flows for the nine months ended NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and NovemberÂ 3, 2023 are not necessarily indicative of the results to be expected for the full fiscal year or for any other fiscal period.The Companyâ€™s fiscal year is the 52- or 53-week period ending on the Friday nearest January 31. Both the fiscal year ended FebruaryÂ 2, 2024 (â€œFiscal 2024â€) and the fiscal year ending JanuaryÂ 31, 2025 (â€œFiscal 2025â€) are 52-week periods. Principles of Consolidation Principles of Consolidation â€” These Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements include the accounts of Dell Technologies Inc., its wholly-owned subsidiaries, and the accounts of SecureWorks Corp. (â€œSecureworksâ€), which is majority-owned by Dell Technologies. All intercompany transactions have been eliminated. Variable Interest Entities The Company also consolidates Variable Interest Entities ("VIEs") where it has been determined that the Company is the primary beneficiary of the applicable entitiesâ€™ operations. For each VIE, the primary beneficiary is the party that has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the VIE's economic performance and the obligation to absorb losses or the right to receive benefits of the VIE that could potentially be significant to such VIE. In evaluating whether the Company is the primary beneficiary of each entity, the Company evaluates its power to direct the most significant activities of the VIE by considering the purpose and design of each entity and the risks each entity was designed to create and pass through to its respective variable interest holders. The Company also evaluates its economic interests in each of the VIEs. See Note 4 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for more information regarding consolidated VIEs. Recently Issued Accounting Pronouncements Recently Issued Accounting PronouncementsExpense Disaggregation Disclosures â€” In November 2024, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (â€œFASBâ€) issued guidance to improve disclosures about a public entityâ€™s expenses by requiring disclosure of additional information about the types of expenses commonly presented in the financial statements on an annual and interim basis. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2026, with early adoption permitted. Upon adoption, the guidance can be applied prospectively or retrospectively. Adoption of this new guidance will result in increased disclosures in the Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements.Income Taxes â€” In December 2023, the FASB issued guidance which requires companies to provide disaggregated income tax disclosures within the income tax rate reconciliation and income taxes paid. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2024, with early adoption permitted. Upon adoption, the guidance can be applied prospectively or retrospectively. Adoption of this new guidance will result in increased disclosures in the Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements.Segment Reporting â€” In November 2023, the FASB issued guidance to improve disclosures about a public entityâ€™s reportable segments by requiring disclosure of additional information about a reportable segmentâ€™s expenses on an annual and interim basis. Public entities must adopt the new guidance for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2023, with early adoption permitted. Upon adoption, the guidance is required to be applied retrospectively to all prior periods presented in the financial statements. Adoption of this new guidance will result in increased disclosures in the Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements. Money Market Funds Money Market Funds â€” The Companyâ€™s investment in money market funds that are classified as cash equivalents hold underlying investments with a weighted average maturity of 90 days or less and are recognized at fair value. The valuations of these securities are based on quoted prices in active markets for identical assets, when available, or pricing models whereby all significant inputs are observable or can be derived from, or corroborated by, observable market data. The Company reviews security pricing and assesses money market fund liquidity on a quarterly basis. As of NovemberÂ 1, 2024, the Companyâ€™s portfolio had no material exposure to money market funds with a fluctuating net asset value. Marketable Equity and Other Securities Marketable Equity and Other Securities â€” The Companyâ€™s investments in equity and other securities that are measured at fair value on a recurring basis consist of strategic investments in publicly-traded companies. The valuation of these securities is based on quoted prices in active markets. Derivative Instruments Derivative Instruments â€” The Companyâ€™s derivative financial instruments consist primarily of foreign currency forward and purchased option contracts and interest rate swaps. The fair value of the portfolio is determined using valuation models based on market observable inputs, including interest rate curves, forward and spot prices for currencies, and implied volatilities. Credit risk is also factored into the fair value calculation of the Companyâ€™s derivative financial instrument portfolio. See Note 7 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for a description of the Companyâ€™s derivative financial instrument activities.As part of its risk management strategy, the Company uses derivative instruments, primarily foreign currency forward and option contracts and interest rate swaps, to hedge certain foreign currency and interest rate exposures, respectively.The Companyâ€™s objective is to offset gains and losses resulting from these exposures with gains and losses on the derivative contracts used to hedge the exposures, thereby reducing volatility of earnings and protecting the fair values of assets and liabilities. The earnings effects of the derivative instruments are presented in the same line items on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income as the earnings effects of the hedged items. For derivatives designated as cash flow hedges, the Company assesses hedge effectiveness both at the onset of the hedge and at regular intervals throughout the life of the instruments. For derivatives designated as fair value hedges, the Company assesses hedge effectiveness on qualifying instruments using the shortcut method whereby the hedges are considered perfectly effective at the onset of the hedge and over the life of the hedging relationship. Deferred Compensation Plans Deferred Compensation Plans â€” The Company offers deferred compensation plans for eligible employees which allow participants to defer a portion of their compensation. Assets and liabilities associated with the plans are measured at fair value using Level 1 inputs. Assets were the same as liabilities associated with the plans at approximately $243 million and $214 million as of NovemberÂ 1, 2024 and FebruaryÂ 2, 2024, respectively, and are included in other assets and other liabilities on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position. The net impact on the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Income is not material since changes in the fair value of the assets substantially offset changes in the fair value of the liabilities. As such, assets and liabilities associated with these plans have not been included in the recurring fair value table above. Assets and Liabilities Measured at Fair Value on a Nonrecurring Basis Assets and Liabilities Measured at Fair Value on a Nonrecurring Basis â€” Certain assets are measured at fair value on a nonrecurring basis and therefore are not included in the recurring fair value table above. These assets consist primarily of financial assets such as the Companyâ€™s fixed income debt securities and strategic investments in non-marketable equity and other securities and non-financial assets such as goodwill and intangible assets. Fixed income debt securities are recorded at amortized cost and approximate fair value. The fair value of fixed income debt securities is determined based on observable market prices in a less active market or based on valuation methodologies using observable inputs. If measured at fair value in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position, these securities would generally be classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. See Note 3 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s fixed income debt securities.Strategic investments in non-marketable equity and other securities and certain non-financial assets such as goodwill and intangibles are measured at fair value only if they are deemed to be impaired or when there is an adjustment from observable price changes in the current period. If measured at fair value in the Condensed Consolidated Statements of Financial Position, these securities would generally be classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy. See Note 3 and Note 8 of the Notes to the Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information about the Companyâ€™s investments and goodwill and intangible assets, respectively.
