Enlivex Issues Urgent Statement on Fraudulent News Dissemination

Ness-Ziona, Israel, Feb. 18, 2025 — Enlivex Therapeutics Ltd. (Nasdaq and TASE: ENLV, the “Company”), a clinical-stage macrophage reprogramming immunotherapy company, alerts investors and the public that a completely false and misleading report regarding the Company was intentionally published this morning by the website Tipranks.com claiming that the Company has suspended its stock trading due to an internal investigation. These reports are completely unfounded and constitute fake news. The Company continues to operate normally, and its shares continue to trade regularly on the Tel Aviv Stock Exchange and NASDAQ Stock Exchange without any interruption.

The Company unequivocally denies the claims made in this false report and urges investors to rely only on official communications from the Company, including press releases, filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, and statements from verified Company channels.

“This is a blatant attempt to manipulate public perception and mislead investors,” said Oren Hershkovitz, the Company’s CEO. “We take this matter very seriously and will pursue all available legal actions against the individuals responsible, including the publishers of the false report and the hosting service of Tipranks.com. We are continuing to execute our operating plan and are excited about the potential of Allocetra™ to offer treatment solutions to tens of millions of osteoarthritis patients, who have very poor treatment alternatives today.”

Investors and stakeholders with concerns or questions are encouraged to contact Shachar Shlosberger, the Company’s CFO.
