(the â€œCompanyâ€) was incorporated in Maryland on JulyÂ 24, 1997 and began operations on AprilÂ 10, 1998.Â The Company has elected to be treated as a real estate investment trust (â€œREITâ€) for U.S. federal income tax purposes.Â In order to maintain its qualification as a REIT, the Company must comply with a number of requirements under federal tax law, including that it must distribute at least 90% of its annual REIT taxable income to its stockholders.Â The Company has elected to treat certain of its subsidiaries as taxable REIT subsidiaries (â€œTRSâ€). In general, a TRS may hold assets and engage in activities that the Company cannot hold or engage in directly and generally may engage in any real estate or non-real estate related business (see Note 8).Â 2.Â Â Summary of Significant Accounting Policies Â (a)Â Basis of Presentation and Consolidation The interim unaudited consolidated financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with the rulesÂ and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the â€œSECâ€).Â Certain information and note disclosures normally included in financial statements prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (â€œGAAPâ€) have been condensed or omitted in accordance with these SEC rulesÂ and regulations.Â Management believes that the disclosures included in these interim unaudited consolidated financial statements are adequate to make the information presented not misleading.Â The accompanying unaudited consolidated financial statements should be read in conjunction with the consolidated financial statements and notes thereto included in the Companyâ€™s Annual Report on FormÂ 10-K for the year ended DecemberÂ 31, 2023.Â In the opinion of management, all normal and recurring adjustments necessary to present fairly the financial condition of the Company at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and results of operations for all periods presented have been made.Â The results of operations for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 should not be construed as indicative of the results to be expected for the full year.Â The accompanying consolidated financial statements of the Company have been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with GAAP.Â The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period.Â Although the Companyâ€™s estimates contemplate current conditions and how it expects them to change in the future, it is reasonably possible that actual conditions could differ from those estimates, which could materially impact the Companyâ€™s results of operations and its financial condition.Â Management has made significant estimates in several areas: impairment, valuation allowances and loss allowances on residential whole loans (see Note 3), certain securities designated as available-for- sale (â€œAFSâ€) (see Note 4) and certain Other assets (see Note 5), valuation of Securities, at fair value (see Notes 4 and 13), income recognition and valuation of residential whole loans (see Notes 3 and 13), valuation of financing agreements (Notes 6 and 13), and valuation of derivative instruments (see Notes 5(e) and 13). In addition, estimates are used in the determination of taxable income used in the assessment of REIT compliance and contingent liabilities for related taxes, penalties and interest (see Note 8).Â Actual results could differ from those estimates.The consolidated financial statements of the Company include the accounts of all subsidiaries. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated. In addition, the Company consolidates entities established to facilitate transactions related to the acquisition and securitization of residential whole loans. Certain prior period amounts have been reclassified to conform to the current period presentation.(b)Â Residential Whole Loans (including Residential Whole Loans transferred to consolidated VIEs) Residential whole loans included in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets are primarily comprised of pools of fixed- and adjustable-rate residential mortgage loans acquired through consolidated trusts in secondary market transactions or originated by our wholly owned subsidiary, Lima One Holdings, LLC, the parent company of Lima One Capital, LLC (collectively referred to as â€œLima Oneâ€). The accounting model utilized by the Company is determined at the time each loan package is initially acquired or each loan is originated. Prior to the second quarter of 2021, the Company typically elected the fair value option on loans that were 60 or more days delinquent at purchase. All other loans purchased prior to the second quarter of 2021 were typically held at carrying value. Starting in the second quarter of 2021, the Company began to elect the fair value option for all loans originated or acquired. The accounting model initially applied to loan originations and 9Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024acquisitions is not permitted to be subsequently changed. Consequently, the Company is not permitted to retroactively apply fair value accounting to loans held at carrying value acquired in periods prior to the second quarter of 2021.The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans pledged as collateral against financing agreements are included in the consolidated balance sheets with amounts pledged disclosed in Note 6.Â Effective January 1, 2024, purchases and sales of residential whole loans are recorded on settlement date. As of December 31, 2023, approximately $103.7Â million of purchased residential whole loans, at fair value were recorded on the consolidated balance sheet and settled after period-end.The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans are primarily comprised of: (i) loans to finance (or refinance) one-to-four family residential properties that are not considered to meet the definition of a â€œQualified Mortgageâ€ in accordance with guidelines adopted by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (â€œNon-QM loansâ€), (ii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by residential properties made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to rehabilitate or construct residential housing and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œSingle-family transitional loansâ€), (iii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by multifamily properties, typically with a loan balance below $10Â million, made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to moderately rehabilitate or stabilize and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œMultifamily transitional loansâ€) (collectively with Single-family transitional loans, â€œTransitional loans,â€ also sometimes referred to as

â€œRehabilitation loansâ€ or â€œFix and Flip loansâ€), (iv) business purpose loans to finance (or refinance) non-owner occupied one-to-four family residential properties that are rented to one or more tenants (â€œSingle-family rental loansâ€ and, collectively with Transitional loans, â€œBusiness purpose loansâ€), (v) loans primarily secured by residential real estate that were generally either non-performing or re-performing at acquisition (â€œLegacy RPL/NPL loansâ€) and (vi) loans on investor properties that conform to the standards for purchase by a federally chartered corporation, such as the Federal National Mortgage Association (â€œFannie Maeâ€) or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (â€œFreddie Macâ€) (â€œAgency eligible investor loans,â€ which are included in â€œOther loansâ€). Residential whole loans are initially recorded at their purchase price (or amount funded for originated loans). Interest income is accrued based on each loanâ€™s current interest-bearing balance and current interest rate. Interest income on loans acquired at a premium/discount to par is recorded each period based on the contractual coupon net of any amortization of premium or accretion of discount, adjusted for actual prepayment activity. For loans acquired with related servicing rights retained by the seller, interest income is reported net of related servicing costs.For loans acquired prior to the second quarter of 2021 for which the fair value option was not elected, an allowance for credit losses is recorded at acquisition, and maintained on an ongoing basis, for all credit losses expected over the life of the respective loan. Any required credit loss allowance would reduce the net carrying value of the loan with a corresponding charge to earnings, and may increase or decrease over time. Significant judgments are required in determining any allowance for credit loss, including assumptions regarding the loan cash flows expected to be collected, the value of the underlying collateral and the ability of the Company to collect on any other forms of security, such as a personal guaranty provided either by the borrower or an affiliate of the borrower. Income recognition is suspended, and interest accruals are reversed against income, for loans at the earlier of the date on which payments become 90 days past due or when, in the opinion of management, a full recovery of income and principal becomes doubtful (i.e., such loans are placed on nonaccrual status). For nonaccrual loans, interest income is recorded when interest payments are received. Interest accruals are resumed when the loan becomes contractually current. A loan is written off when it is no longer realizable and/or it is legally discharged. Charge-offs to the allowance for loan losses occur when losses are confirmed through the receipt of cash or other consideration from the completion of a sale; when a modification or restructuring takes place in which we grant a concession to a borrower or agree to a discount in full or partial satisfaction of the loan; when we take ownership and control of the underlying collateral in full satisfaction of the loan; when loans are reclassified as other investments; or when significant collection efforts have ceased and it is highly likely that a loss has been realized. The aggregate allowance for credit losses is equal to the sum of the losses expected over the life of each respective loan. Expected losses are generally calculated based on the estimated probability of default and loss severity of loans in the portfolio, which involves projecting each loanâ€™s expected cash flows based on their contractual terms, expected prepayments, and estimated default and loss severity rates. The expected losses in these projected cash flows are not discounted. The default and severity rates were estimated based on the following steps: (i) obtained the Companyâ€™s historical experience through an entire economic cycle for each loan type or, to the extent the Company did not have sufficient historical loss experience for a given loan type, publicly available data derived from the historical loss experience of certain banks, which data the Company believes is generally representative of its portfolio, (ii) obtained historical economic data (U.S. unemployment rates and home price 10Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024appreciation) over the same period, and (iii) estimated default and severity rates during three distinct future periods based on historical default and severity rates during periods when economic conditions similar to those forecasted were experienced. The default and severity rates were applied to the estimated amount of loans outstanding during each future period, based on contractual terms and expected prepayments. Expected prepayments are estimated based on historical experience and current and expected future economic conditions, including market interest rates. The three periods were as follows: (i) a one-year forecast of economic conditions based on U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation, followed by (ii) a two-year â€œreversionâ€ period during which economic conditions (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) are projected to revert to historical averages on a straight line basis, followed by (iii) the remaining life of each loan, during which period economic conditions (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) are projected to equal historical averages. In addition, a liability is established (and recorded in Other Liabilities) each period using a similar methodology for committed but undrawn loan amounts. The Company forecasts future economic conditions based on forecasts provided by an external preparer of economic forecasts, as well as its own knowledge of the market and its portfolio. The Company may consider multiple scenarios and select the one that it believes results in the most reasonable estimate of expected losses. The Company may apply qualitative adjustments to these results as further described in Note 3. For certain loans where foreclosure has been deemed to be probable, loss estimates are based on whether the value of the underlying collateral is sufficient to recover the carrying value of the loan. This methodology has not changed significantly from the calculation of the allowance for credit losses in prior periods, although certain modeling factors have been refined over time and the data utilized has, in some cases, been updated to better align with actual and expected loss experiences.Certain Legacy RPL/NPL loans acquired by the Company for which the Company did not elect the fair value option are accounted for as credit deteriorated, as they have experienced a deterioration in credit quality since origination and prior to our purchase and were acquired at discounted prices that reflect, in part, the impaired credit history of the borrower. Substantially all of these loans have previously experienced payment delinquencies and the amount owed may exceed the value of the property pledged as collateral. Consequently, these loans generally have a higher likelihood of default than newly originated mortgage loans with loan-to-value ratios (â€œLTVsâ€) of 80% or less to creditworthy borrowers. The Company believes that amounts paid to acquire these loans represent fair market value at the date of acquisition. Loans considered credit deteriorated are initially recorded at their purchase price on a net basis, after establishing an initial allowance for credit losses (their initial cost basis is equal to their purchase price plus the initial allowance for credit losses). Subsequent to acquisition, the gross recorded amount for these loans reflects the initial cost basis, plus accretion/amortization of interest income, less principal and interest cash flows received. These credit deteriorated loans are presented on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets at carrying value, which reflects the recorded cost basis reduced by any allowance for credit losses. Interest income on such loans purchased is recorded each period based on the contractual coupon net of accretion/amortization of the difference between their cost basis and unpaid principal balance (â€œUPBâ€), subject to the Companyâ€™s nonaccrual policy.Loans Held-for-SaleFor loans for which the fair value option was not elected, once a decision has been made to sell loans previously classified as held for investment, such loans are considered held-for-sale and are carried at the lower of cost or fair value. Residential Whole Loans at Fair ValueCertain of the Companyâ€™s residential whole loans are presented at fair value on its consolidated balance sheets as a result of a fair value election made at the time of acquisition or origination. The Company generally considers accounting for these loans at fair value to be more reflective of the expected pattern of returns from these loans under current economic conditions. The Company determines the fair value of its residential whole loans held at fair value after considering portfolio valuations obtained from third-parties that specialize in providing valuations of residential mortgage loans and trading activity observed in the marketplace. Subsequent changes in fair value are reported in current period earnings and presented in Net (loss)/gain on residential whole loans measured at fair value through earnings on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Interest income is recorded on these loans based on their yield and is presented as part of interest income in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Cash outflows associated with loan-related advances made by the Company on behalf of the borrower are included in the basis of the loan and are reflected in unrealized gains or losses reported each period. Income and costs associated with originating loans on which the fair value option was elected are recorded in other income and expense, respectively, in the period in which they are earned or incurred.11Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024(c)Â Securities, at Fair Value Residential Mortgage SecuritiesÂ The Company has invested in residential mortgage-backed securities (â€œMBSâ€) that are issued or guaranteed as to principal and/or interest by a federally chartered corporation, such as Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac, or an agency of the U.S. Government, such as the Government National Mortgage Association (â€œGinnie Maeâ€) (collectively, â€œAgency MBSâ€), and residential MBS that are not guaranteed by any agency of the U.S. Government or any federally chartered corporation (â€œNon-Agency MBSâ€). In addition, the Company has investments in credit risk transfer (â€œCRTâ€) securities that are issued by or sponsored by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. The coupon payments on CRT securities are paid by the issuer and the principal payments received are dependent on the performance of loans in either a reference pool or an actual pool of loans. As the loans in the underlying pool are paid, the principal balance of the CRT securities is paid. As an investor in a CRT security, the Company may incur a principal loss if the performance of the actual or reference pool loans results in either an actual or calculated loss that exceeds the credit enhancement of the security owned by the Company. Term Notes Backed by Mortgage Servicing Rights (â€œMSRâ€) Collateral The Company has invested in term notes that are issued by special purpose vehicles (â€œSPVâ€) that have acquired rights to receive cash flows representing the servicing fees and/or excess servicing spread associated with certain MSRs. The Company considers payment of principal and interest on these term notes to be largely dependent on the cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs as this impacts the cash flows available to the SPV that issued the term notes. Credit risk borne by the holders of the term notes is also mitigated by structural credit support in the form of over-collateralization. Credit support is also provided by a corporate guarantee from the ultimate parent or sponsor of the SPV that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs are insufficient.DesignationÂ Securities that the Company generally intends to hold until maturity, but that it may sell from time to time as part of the overall management of its business, are designated as AFS. Such securities, which include term notes backed by MSR collateral and certain CRT securities, are carried at their fair value with unrealized gains and losses excluded from earnings (except when an allowance for loan losses is recognized, as discussed below) and reported in accumulated other comprehensive income/(loss) (â€œAOCIâ€), a component of Stockholdersâ€™ Equity.Â Upon the sale of an AFS security, any unrealized gain or loss is reclassified out of AOCI to earnings as a realized gain or loss using the specific identification method.The Company has elected the fair value option for its Agency and Non-Agency MBS and certain of its CRT securities. These securities are carried at their fair value with changes in fair value included in earnings for the period and reported in Other Income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.Revenue Recognition, Premium Amortization and Discount AccretionÂ Interest income on securities is accrued based on their outstanding principal balance and their contractual terms. Premiums and discounts associated with MBS assessed as high credit quality at the time of purchase are amortized into interest income over the life of such securities using the effective yield method. Adjustments to premium amortization are made for actual prepayment activity. Premiums and discounts associated with MBS not assessed as high credit quality at the time of purchase are amortized into interest income over the life of such securities using the effective yield method based upon current expected future cash flows. Any adjustment to yield is made on a prospective basis. Â 12Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024Determination of Fair Value for SecuritiesÂ In determining the fair value of the Companyâ€™s residential mortgage securities, management considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services, brokers and repurchase agreement counterparties, dialogue with market participants, as well as managementâ€™s observations of market activity (see Note 13). For term notes backed by MSR collateral, other factors taken into consideration include estimated changes in fair value of the related underlying MSR collateral, as applicable, and the financial performance of the ultimate parent or sponsoring entity of the issuer, which has provided a guarantee that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the related underlying MSR collateral are insufficient. Â Allowance for Credit LossesWhen the fair value of an AFS security is less than its amortized cost at the balance sheet date, the security is considered impaired.Â The Company assesses its impaired securities, as well as securities for which a credit loss allowance had been previously recorded, on at least a quarterly basis and determines whether any changes to the allowance for credit losses are required.Â If the Company intends to sell an impaired security, or it is more likely than not that it will be required to sell the impaired security before its anticipated recovery, then the Company must recognize a write-down through charges to earnings equal to the entire difference between the investmentâ€™s amortized cost and its fair value at the balance sheet date.Â If the Company does not expect to sell an impaired security, only the portion of the impairment related to credit losses is recognized through a loss allowance charged to earnings with the remainder recognized through AOCI on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets.Â Impairments recognized through other comprehensive income/(loss) (â€œOCIâ€) do not impact earnings.Â Credit loss allowances are subject to reversal through earnings resulting from improvements in expected cash flows. The determination as to whether to record (or reverse) a credit loss allowance is subjective, as such determinations are based on factual information available at the time of assessment as well as the Companyâ€™s estimates of future performance and cash flow projections.Â As a result, the timing and amount of losses constitute material estimates that are susceptible to significant change (see Note 4).Balance Sheet PresentationÂ The Companyâ€™s securities pledged as collateral against financing agreements and interest rate swap agreements (â€œSwapsâ€) are included on the consolidated balance sheets with the fair value of the securities pledged disclosed in Notes 6 and 5, respectively.Â Purchases and sales of securities are recorded on the trade date.Â (d)Â Cash and Cash Equivalents Â Cash and cash equivalents include cash on deposit with financial institutions and investments in money market funds, all of which have original maturities of three months or less.Â Cash and cash equivalents may also include cash pledged as collateral to the Company by its financing counterparties as a result of reverse margin calls (i.e., margin calls made by the Company).Â The Company did not hold any cash pledged by its counterparties at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had cash and cash equivalents of $289.4 million and $318.0 million, respectively. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had $148.7 million and $151.3 million, respectively, of investments in overnight money market funds, which are not bank deposits and are not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (â€œFDICâ€) or any other government agency. In addition, deposits in FDIC insured accounts generally exceed insured limits (see Notes 6 and 13).Â (e)Â Restricted Cash Â Restricted cash primarily represents the Companyâ€™s cash collections held in connection with certain of the Companyâ€™s financing agreements, Swaps, consolidated securitization trusts and/or loan servicing activities that are not available to the Company for general corporate purposes. Restricted cash may be applied against amounts due to financing agreements, Swap counterparties and/or trust obligations or may be returned to the Company when the related collateral requirements are exceeded or at the maturity of financing agreements, Swaps and/or securitizations.Â The Company had aggregate restricted cash of $252.0 million and $170.2 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively (see Notes 5(e), 6 and 13). 13Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024(f)Â Goodwill & Intangible Assets Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had goodwill of $61.1 million, which represents the excess of the fair value of consideration paid over the fair value of net assets acquired in connection with the acquisition of Lima One, and other intangible assets of $6.4 million and $8.0 million, respectively (net of amortization), primarily comprised of customer relationships, non-competition agreements (fully amortized as of June 30, 2022), trademarks and trade names, and internally developed software recognized as part of the acquisition of Lima One (see Note 5(b)). The intangible assets are amortized over their expected useful lives, which ranged from one to ten years at acquisition. Goodwill, which is not subject to amortization, and intangible assets are tested for impairment at least annually, or more frequently under certain circumstances that could reduce the fair value of the Lima One reporting unit (a component of the Lima One segment) below its carrying amount. Through JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company had not recognized any impairment against its goodwill or intangible assets. Goodwill and intangible assets are included in Other assets on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets.(g) Real Estate Owned (â€œREOâ€) Â REO represents real estate acquired by the Company, including through foreclosure, deed in lieu of foreclosure, or purchased in connection with the acquisition of residential whole loans. REO acquired through foreclosure or deed in lieu of foreclosure is initially recorded at fair value less estimated selling costs. REO acquired in connection with the acquisition of residential whole loans is initially recorded at its purchase price. Subsequent to acquisition, REO is reported, at each reporting date, at the lower of the current carrying amount or fair value less estimated selling costs and for presentation purposes is included in Other assets on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets. Changes in fair value that result in an adjustment to the reported amount of an REO property that has a fair value at or below its carrying amount are reported in Other Income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations (see Note 5).(h)Â Leases and Depreciation Â LeasesThe Company records its operating lease liabilities and operating lease right-of-use assets on its consolidated balance sheets. The operating lease liabilities are equal to the present value of the remaining fixed lease payments (excluding real estate tax and operating expense escalations) discounted at the Companyâ€™s estimated incremental borrowing rate at the date of lease commencement, and the operating lease right-of-use assets are equal to the operating lease liabilities adjusted for lease incentives and initial direct costs. As lease payments are made, the operating lease liabilities are reduced to the present value of the remaining lease payments and the operating lease right-of-use assets are reduced by the difference between the lease expense (straight-lined over the lease term) and the theoretical interest expense amount (calculated using the incremental borrowing rate at the date of lease commencement). See Notes 5 and 9 for further discussion on leases.Leasehold Improvements, Real estate and Other Depreciable AssetsÂ Depreciation is computed on the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the related assets or, in the case of leasehold improvements, over the shorter of the useful life or the lease term.Â Furniture, fixtures, computers and related hardware have estimated useful lives ranging from five to fifteen years at the time of purchase.Â (i)Â Loan Securitization and Other Debt Issuance Costs Â Loan securitization related costs are costs associated with the issuance of beneficial interests by consolidated VIEs and incurred by the Company in connection with various financing transactions completed by the Company.Â These costs may include underwriting, rating agency, legal, accounting, diligence, bank and other fees.Â Such costs, which reflect deferred charges (unless the debt is recorded at fair value, as discussed below), are included on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets as a direct deduction from the corresponding debt liability. These deferred charges are amortized as an adjustment to interest expense using the effective interest method. For certain financing agreements, such costs are amortized over the shorter of the period to the expected or stated legal maturity of the debt instruments. The Company periodically reviews the recoverability of these deferred costs and, in the event an impairment charge is required, such amount will be included in Operating and Other Expense on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. To the extent that the Company has elected the fair value option for the related debt liability, these costs are expensed at the closing of the transaction.14Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024(j)Â Financing Agreements The Company finances the majority of its residential mortgage assets with financing agreements that include securitized debt, repurchase agreements and other forms of collateralized financing.Â Under repurchase agreements, the Company sells assets to a lender and agrees to repurchase the same assets in the future for a price that is higher than the original sale price.Â The difference between the sale price that the Company receives and the repurchase price that the Company pays represents interest paid to the lender.Â Although legally structured as sale and repurchase transactions, the Company accounts for repurchase agreements as secured borrowings. Under its repurchase agreements and other forms of collateralized financing, the Company pledges its assets as collateral to secure the borrowing, in an amount which is equal to a specified percentage of the fair value of the pledged collateral, while the Company retains beneficial ownership of the pledged collateral.Â At the maturity of a repurchase financing, unless the repurchase financing is renewed with the same counterparty, the Company is required to repay the loan including any accrued interest and concurrently receives back its pledged collateral from the lender.Â With the consent of the lender, the Company may renew a repurchase financing at the then prevailing financing terms.Â Margin calls, whereby a lender requires that the Company pledge additional assets or cash as collateral to secure borrowings under its repurchase financing with such lender, are routinely experienced by the Company when the value of the assets pledged as collateral declines as a result of principal amortization and prepayments or due to changes in market interest rates, spreads or other market conditions.Â The Company also may make margin calls on counterparties when collateral values increase.Â Should a counterparty decide not to renew a financing arrangement at maturity, the Company must either refinance elsewhere or be in a position to satisfy the obligation.Â If, during the term of a financing, a lender should default on its obligation, the Company might experience difficulty recovering its pledged assets which could result in an unsecured claim against the lender for the difference between the amount loaned to the Company plus interest due to the counterparty and the fair value of the collateral pledged by the Company to such lender, including accrued interest receivable on such collateral (see Notes 6 and 13).Â The Company has elected the fair value option on certain of its financing agreements. These agreements are reported at their fair value, with changes in fair value being recorded in earnings each period (or OCI, to the extent the change results from a change in instrument specific credit risk), as further detailed in Note 6. Interest expense on such financing agreements is recorded based on the current stated interest rate and outstanding principal balance in effect for the related agreement.(k)Â Equity-Based Compensation Â Compensation expense for equity-based awards that are subject to vesting conditions, is recognized ratably over the vesting period of such awards, based upon the fair value of such awards at the grant date.Â Â The Company has made annual grants of restricted stock units (â€œRSUsâ€) under the Companyâ€™s Equity Compensation Plan (the â€œEquity Planâ€), certain of which cliff vest after a three-year period, subject only to continued employment, and others of which cliff vest after a three-year period, subject to both continued employment and the achievement of certain performance criteria based on a formula tied to the Companyâ€™s achievement of average total shareholder return (â€œTSRâ€) during that three-year period, as well as the TSR of the Company relative to the TSR of a group of peer companies (over the three-year period) selected by the Compensation Committee of the Companyâ€™s Board of Directors (the â€œCompensation Committeeâ€) at the date of grant. The features in these awards related to the attainment of TSR over a specified period constitute a â€œmarket condition,â€ which impacts the amount of compensation expense recognized for these awards.Â Specifically, the uncertainty regarding the achievement of the market condition was reflected in the grant date fair valuation of the RSUs, which is recognized as compensation expense over the relevant vesting period.Â The amount of compensation expense recognized is not dependent on whether the market condition was or will be achieved.(l)Â Earnings per Common Share (â€œEPSâ€) Â Basic EPS is computed using the two-class method, which includes the weighted-average number of shares of common stock outstanding during the period and an estimate of other securities that participate in dividends, if any, to arrive at total common equivalent shares.Â In applying the two-class method, earnings are allocated to both shares of common stock and estimated securities that participate in dividends based on their respective weighted-average shares outstanding for the period. In calculating basic EPS, no adjustment is made to income available to common stockholders for forfeitable dividends or dividend equivalents. For the diluted EPS calculation, common equivalent shares are further adjusted for the effect of RSUs outstanding that are unvested and have dividends that are subject to forfeiture, using the treasury stock method.Â Under the 15Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024treasury stock method, common equivalent shares are calculated assuming that all dilutive common stock equivalents are exercised and the proceeds, along with future compensation expenses associated with such instruments (if any), are used to repurchase shares of the Companyâ€™s outstanding common stock at the average market price during the reported period.Â In addition, the Companyâ€™s 6.25% Convertible Senior Notes due 2024 (the â€œConvertible Senior Notesâ€) were included in the calculation of diluted EPS if the assumed conversion into common shares was dilutive, using the â€œif-convertedâ€ method until their maturity and repayment in full. This calculation involved adding back the periodic interest expense associated with the Convertible Senior Notes to the numerator and by adding the shares that would have been issued in an assumed conversion (regardless of whether the conversion option is in or out of the money) to the denominator for the purposes of calculating diluted EPS (see Note 11).Â (m)Â Comprehensive Income/(Loss) Â The Companyâ€™s comprehensive income/(loss) available to common stock and participating securities includes net income, the change in net unrealized gains/(losses) on its AFS securities and derivative hedging instruments (to the extent that such changes are not recorded in earnings), adjusted by realized net gains/(losses) reclassified out of AOCI for sold AFS securities and terminated hedging relationships, as well as the portion of unrealized gains/(losses) on its financing agreements held at fair value related to instrument-specific credit risk, and is reduced by dividends declared on the Companyâ€™s preferred stock and issuance costs of redeemed preferred stock.Â (n)Â Derivative Financial Instruments Â The Company may use derivative instruments to economically hedge a portion of its exposure to market risks, including interest rate risk and prepayment risk. The objective of the Companyâ€™s risk management strategy is to reduce fluctuations in net book value over a range of interest rate scenarios. SwapsÂ The Company has entered into Swaps that are not designated as hedges for accounting purposes. Changes in the fair value of the Companyâ€™s Swaps not designated in hedging transactions are recorded in Other income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.To Be Announced (â€œTBAâ€) SecuritiesDuring 2021 and 2022, the Company entered into transactions to take short positions in TBA securities in connection with the management of interest rate and other market risks associated with purchases of Agency eligible investor loans. As the Company did not intend to physically settle its transactions in TBA securities, they were required to be accounted for as derivative financial instruments. The Company did not apply hedge accounting to its TBA securities. Accordingly, TBA securities were recorded on the Companyâ€™s balance sheets at fair value, with realized and unrealized changes in fair value each period recorded in Other income/(Loss), net in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.(o)Â Fair Value Measurements and the Fair Value Option for Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities Â The Companyâ€™s presentation of fair value for its financial assets and liabilities is determined within a framework that stipulates that the fair value of a financial asset or liability is an exchange price in an orderly transaction between market participants to sell the asset or transfer the liability in the market in which the reporting entity would transact for the asset or liability, that is, the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability.Â The transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability is a hypothetical transaction at the measurement date, considered from the perspective of a market participant that holds the asset or owes the liability.Â This definition of fair value focuses on exit price and prioritizes the use of market-based inputs over entity-specific inputs when determining fair value.Â In addition, the framework for measuring fair value establishes a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements based upon the observability of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability as of the measurement date.Â In addition to the financial instruments that it is required to report at fair value, the Company has elected the fair value option for certain of its financial assets and liabilities at the time of acquisition or issuance. Subsequent changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are generally reported in Other income/(Loss), net, in the Companyâ€™s consolidated 16Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024statements of operations. A decision to elect the fair value option for an eligible financial instrument, which may be made on an instrument by instrument basis, is irrevocable (see Notes 2(b), 2(c), 3, 4, and 13).(p)Â Variable Interest Entities Â An entity is referred to as a VIE if it meets at least one of the following criteria:Â (i)Â the entity has equity that is insufficient to permit the entity to finance its activities without the additional subordinated financial support of other parties; or (ii)Â as a group, the holders of the equity investment at risk lack (a)Â the power to direct the activities of an entity that most significantly impact the entityâ€™s economic performance; (b)Â the obligation to absorb the expected losses; or (c)Â the right to receive the expected residual returns; or (iii)Â the holders of the equity investment at risk have disproportional voting rights and the entityâ€™s activities are conducted on behalf of the investor that has disproportionately few voting rights.Â The Company consolidates a VIE when it has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the economic performance of the VIE and a right to receive benefits or absorb losses of the entity that could be potentially significant to the VIE.Â Â The Company is required to reconsider its evaluation of whether to consolidate a VIE each reporting period, based upon changes in the facts and circumstances pertaining to the VIE.Â The Company has entered into several financing transactions which resulted in the Company forming entities to facilitate these transactions.Â In determining the accounting treatment to be applied to these transactions, the Company concluded that the entities used to facilitate these transactions are VIEs and that they should be consolidated.Â If the Company had determined that consolidation was not required, it would have then assessed whether the transfers of the underlying assets would qualify as sales or should be accounted for as secured financings under GAAP (see Note 14).The Company also includes on its consolidated balance sheets certain financial assets and liabilities that are acquired/issued by trusts and/or other special purpose entities that have been evaluated as being required to be consolidated by the Company under the applicable accounting guidance.The Company has an investment in a VIE, in which it is not considered to be the primary beneficiary and therefore is not consolidated, but is considered an equity method investment. The VIE owns a newly constructed industrial property as further described in Note 5.(q)Â Offering Costs Related to Issuance and Redemption of Preferred Stock Offering costs related to the issuance of preferred stock are recorded as a reduction in Additional paid-in capital, a component of Stockholdersâ€™ Equity, at the time such preferred stock is issued. On redemption of preferred stock, any excess of the fair value of the consideration transferred to the holders of the preferred stock over the carrying amount of the preferred stock in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets is included in the determination of Net Income Available to Common Stock and Participating Securities in the calculation of EPS. (r) ContingenciesLima One has reached agreement, or is in the process of reaching agreement, on certain state and local governmental incentives, in connection with its agreement to lease new office space for its headquarters in Greenville, SC based on certain anticipated capital expenditures and anticipated job creation. These incentives are generally recognized when there is reasonable assurance that the incentive will be received and that the Company will comply with the conditions specified in the related agreement. These incentives have commitment terms of up to ten years and may be subject to clawback if the commitments are not fulfilled. No material amounts related to any incentives have been recognized through JuneÂ 30, 2024.(s)Â New Accounting Standards and Interpretations As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, there were no new accounting standards or interpretations adopted by the Company that had a material effect on its consolidated financial statements in 2024. 17Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 20243.Â Â Â Â Residential Whole Loans Included on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 are approximately $9.2 billion and $9.0 billion, respectively, of residential whole loans generally arising from the Companyâ€™s interests in certain trusts established to acquire the loans and certain entities established in connection with its loan securitization transactions. The Company has assessed that these entities are required to be consolidated for financial reporting purposes. Starting in the second quarter of 2021, the Company elected the fair value option for all loan acquisitions, including loans originated by Lima One subsequent to its acquisition by the Company. Prior to the second quarter of 2021, the fair value option was typically elected only for loans that were 60 or more days delinquent at purchase.The following table presents the components of the Companyâ€™s Residential whole loans, and the accounting model designated at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023: Held at Carrying ValueHeld at Fair ValueTotal(Dollars inÂ Thousands)June 30,2024December 31, 2023June 30,2024December 31, 2023June 30,2024December 31, 2023Business purpose loans:Single-family transitional loans (1)$27,857Â $35,467Â $1,190,699Â $1,157,732Â $1,218,556Â $1,193,199Â Multifamily transitional loansâ€”Â â€”Â 1,155,198Â 1,168,297Â 1,155,198Â 1,168,297Â Single-family rental loans (2)129,471Â 172,213Â 1,514,219Â 1,462,583Â 1,643,690Â 1,634,796Â Total Business purpose loans$157,328Â $207,680Â $3,860,116Â $3,788,612Â $4,017,444Â $3,996,292Â Non-QM loans791,746Â 843,884Â 3,203,845Â 2,961,693Â 3,995,591Â 3,805,577Â Legacy RPL/NPL loans477,826Â 498,671Â 655,230Â 705,424Â 1,133,056Â 1,204,095Â Other loansâ€”Â â€”Â 53,416Â 55,779Â 53,416Â 55,779Â Allowance for Credit Losses(13,271)(20,451)â€”Â â€”Â (13,271)(20,451)Total Residential whole loans$1,413,629Â $1,529,784Â $7,772,607Â $7,511,508Â $9,186,236Â $9,041,292Â Number of loans5,973Â 6,326Â 19,848Â 19,075Â 25,821Â 25,401Â (1)Includes $476.9Â million and $471.1Â million of loans collateralized by new construction projects at origination as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively.(2) As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, no loans were held-for-sale and as of December 31, 2023, $13.6Â million of held-for sale loans were included in the carrying value. Such allowance is included in â€œOther liabilitiesâ€ in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets (see Note 7).(2)Includes $20.4 million and $35.2Â million of loans that were assessed for credit losses based on a collateral dependent methodology as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.(3)Includes $44.4 million and $55.5Â million of loans that were assessed for credit losses based on a collateral dependent methodology as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.Prior to December 31, 2023, the Companyâ€™s estimates of expected losses that form the basis of the Allowance for Credit Losses included certain qualitative adjustments which had the effect of increasing expected loss estimates. These qualitative adjustments were determined based on a variety of factors, including differences between the Companyâ€™s loan portfolio and the loan portfolios represented by data available in regulatory filings of certain banks that are considered to have similar loan portfolios (available proxy data), and differences between current (and expected future) market conditions in comparison to market conditions that occurred in historical periods. Such differences included uncertainty with respect to any residual impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, anticipated inflation and increasing market interest rates, and heightened political uncertainty. The Companyâ€™s estimates of credit losses reflect the Companyâ€™s expectation that the performance of its portfolio may experience higher delinquencies and defaults compared to the performance in historical periods of portfolios included in the available proxy data. During 2023, the Company eliminated its qualitative adjustment and made updates to certain of its modeling assumptions which, in addition to a reduction in loan balances subject to allowances, caused a reduction in the overall 20Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024allowance. Estimates of credit losses under credit losses on financial instruments (â€œCECLâ€) are highly sensitive to changes in assumptions and current economic conditions have increased the difficulty of accurately forecasting future conditions.The carrying value of Residential whole loans on nonaccrual status as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 was $602.0 million and $624.1 million, respectively. During the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company recognized $3.0Â million and $6.3Â million of interest income on loans on nonaccrual status, including $2.0Â million on its portfolio of loans which were non-performing at acquisition. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, there were approximately $46.7 million and $51.6Â million, respectively, of loans held at carrying value on nonaccrual status that did not have an associated allowance for credit losses because they were determined to be collateral dependent and the estimated fair value of the related collateral exceeded the carrying value of each loan, respectively. During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company did not grant any loan modification in its carrying value loan portfolio which gave a borrower a term extension. During the past 12 months, the Company has granted three loan modifications in its carrying value loan portfolio which gave borrowers term extensions. The average increase in weighted average life was twenty-eight months. As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, the carrying value of these loans was approximately $0.5Â million, and three of these modifications were delinquent for 90 or more days. (c) Capital Contributions Made to Loan Origination Partners The Company has made investments in several loan originators as part of its strategy to be a reliable source of capital to select partners from whom the Company sources residential mortgage loans through both flow arrangements and bulk purchases. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the carrying value of these investments (including adjustments for impairments or mark-to-market changes) was $18.3 million, including $3.2 million of common equity (including partnership interests) and $15.1 million of preferred equity.During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, there were no impairment charges recorded by the Company on its investments in loan origination partners. For certain of the Companyâ€™s investments, the interests acquired to date by the Company generally do not have a readily determinable fair value. Consequently, the Company accounts for these interests (including any acquired options and warrants) in loan originators initially at cost. The carrying value of these investments will be adjusted if it is determined that an impairment has occurred or if there has been a subsequent observable transaction in either the investee companyâ€™s equity securities or a similar security that provides evidence to support an adjustment to the carrying value. In addition, for certain partners, options or warrants have also been acquired that provide the Company the ability to increase the level of its investment if certain conditions are met. At the end of each reporting period, or earlier if circumstances warrant, the Company evaluates whether the nature of its interests and other involvement with the investee entity requires the Company to apply equity method accounting or consolidate the results of the investee entity with the Companyâ€™s financial results. (d) Commercial Mortgage LoansThe Company owns a portfolio of participations in commercial mortgage bridge loans, which are accounted for at fair value under the fair value option, and are classified as Level 3 fair value measurements in the fair value hierarchy. The participations range from 49% to 75% of the total UPB of the related loans; the remaining interest in each loan was retained by the originator of such loan. The commercial mortgage loans are predominantly collateralized by multifamily properties; the collateral also includes one senior living property and one office property. The commercial mortgage loans are generally first liens and bear variable interest rates. The Company received an interest in one of the underlying properties in the fourth quarter of 2023, as further described above under â€œCommercial REO.â€The following table presents certain additional information about the Companyâ€™s commercial mortgage loans as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023:(Dollars InÂ Thousands)Fair Value / Carrying ValueUPBWeighted Average CouponWeighted Average Term to Maturity (Months)UPB 60+ Days DelinquentWeighted Average LTV RatioCommercial Loans - June 30, 2024$44,954Â $46,633Â 13.29Â %1$39,227Â 65Â %Commercial Loans - December 31, 2023$51,426Â $51,602Â 13.18Â %2$3,521Â 66Â %30Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024(e) Derivative Instruments Â SwapsThe Companyâ€™s derivative instruments include Swaps, which are used to economically hedge the interest rate risk associated with certain borrowings. Pursuant to these arrangements, the Company agreed to pay a fixed rate of interest and receive a variable interest rate, generally based on the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (â€œSOFRâ€), on the notional amount of the Swap. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, none of the Companyâ€™s Swaps were designated as hedges for accounting purposes.Variation margin payments on the Companyâ€™s Swaps are treated as a legal settlement of the exposure under the related Swap contract, the effect of which reduces what would have otherwise been reported as the fair value of the Swap, generally to zero. For the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, this decreased the overall funding cost by 127 basis points, and for the three months ended DecemberÂ 31, 2023, this decreased the overall funding cost by 140 basis points. The Company exchanges collateral with its counterparties based on changes in the fair value, notional amount and term of the associated financing arrangements and Swaps, as applicable. In connection with these margining practices, either the Company or its counterparty may be required to pledge cash or securities as collateral. When the Companyâ€™s pledged collateral exceeds the required margin, the Company may initiate a reverse margin call, at which time the counterparty may either return the excess collateral or provide collateral to the Company in the form of cash or equivalent securities. The Companyâ€™s assets pledged as collateral are also described in Notes 2(e) - Restricted Cash and 5(e) - Derivative Instruments. Certain of the Companyâ€™s financing arrangements and derivative transactions are governed by underlying agreements that generally provide for a right of setoff in the event of default or in the event of a bankruptcy of either party to the transaction. Income TaxesThe Company has elected to be taxed as a REIT under the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, (the â€œCodeâ€), and the corresponding provisions of state law. The Company expects to operate in a manner that will enable it to satisfy the various requirements to maintain its status as a REIT for federal income tax purposes. In order to maintain its status as a REIT, the Company must, among other things, distribute at least 90% of its REIT taxable income (excluding net long-term capital gains) to stockholders in the timeframe permitted by the Code. As long as the Company maintains its status as a REIT, the Company will not be subject to regular federal income tax at the REIT level to the extent that it distributes 100% of its REIT taxable income (including net long-term capital gains) to its stockholders within the permitted timeframe. Should this not occur, the Company would be subject to federal taxes at prevailing corporate tax rates on the difference between its REIT taxable income and the amounts deemed to be distributed for that tax year. The Companyâ€™s objective is to distribute 100% of its REIT taxable income to its stockholders within the permitted timeframe. If the Company fails to distribute during each calendar year, or by the end of January following the calendar year in the case of distributions with declaration and record dates falling in the last three months of the calendar year, at least the sum of (i) 85% of its REIT ordinary income for such year, (ii) 95% of its REIT capital gain income for such year, and (iii) any undistributed taxable income from prior periods, the Company would be subject to a 4% nondeductible excise tax on the excess of the required distribution over the amounts actually distributed. To the extent that the Company incurs interest, penalties or related excise taxes in connection with its tax obligations, including as a result of its assessment of uncertain tax positions, such amounts will be included in Operating and Other Expense on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.In addition, the Company has elected to treat certain of its subsidiaries as TRS. In general, a TRS may hold assets and engage in activities that the Company cannot hold or engage in directly and generally may engage in any real estate or non-real estate-related business. Generally, a domestic TRS is subject to U.S. federal, state and local corporate income taxes. Given that a portion of the Companyâ€™s business is conducted through one or more TRS, the net taxable income earned by its domestic TRS, if any, is subject to corporate income taxation. To maintain the Companyâ€™s REIT election, no more than 20% of the value of the Companyâ€™s assets at the end of each calendar quarter may consist of stock or securities in TRS. For purposes of the determination of U.S. federal and state income taxes, the Companyâ€™s subsidiaries that elected to be treated as TRS record current or deferred income taxes based on differences (both permanent and timing) between the determination of their taxable income and net income under GAAP.Based on its analysis of any potentially uncertain tax positions, the Company concluded that it does not have any material uncertain tax positions that meet the relevant recognition or measurement criteria as of JuneÂ 30, 2024, DecemberÂ 31, 2023 or JuneÂ 30, 2023. As of the date of this filing, the Companyâ€™s tax returns for tax years 2020 through 2022 are open to examination.38Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024The tax effects of temporary differences that give rise to significant portions of net deferred tax assets (â€œDTAsâ€) recorded at the Companyâ€™s domestic TRS entities at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 are presented in the following table:(In Thousands)June 30, 2024December 31, 2023Deferred tax assets (DTAs):Net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards$86,277Â $91,113Â Unrealized mark-to-market, impairments and loss provisions17,449Â 16,170Â Other realized / unrealized treatment differences(33,617)(34,923)Total deferred tax assets70,109Â 72,360Â Less: valuation allowance(70,109)(72,360)Net deferred tax assets$â€”Â $â€”Â Realization of the Companyâ€™s DTAs at JuneÂ 30, 2024 is dependent on several factors, including generating sufficient taxable income to utilize net operating loss (â€œNOLâ€) carryforwards and generating sufficient capital gains in future periods prior to the expiration of capital loss carryforwards. The Company determines the extent to which realization of the deferred assets is not expected to be more likely than not and establishes a valuation allowance accordingly.No net deferred tax benefit was recorded by the Company for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, related to the net taxable losses in TRS entities, since a valuation allowance for the full amount of the associated deferred tax asset at the ends of those periods was recognized as its recovery was not considered more likely than not. The related NOL carryforwards can be carried forward indefinitely, until fully utilized. The Companyâ€™s estimate of net DTAs could change in future periods to the extent that actual or revised estimates of future taxable income change from current expectations.At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Companyâ€™s federal NOL carryforward from prior years was $356.6 million, which may be carried forward indefinitely. These equity instruments may have a dilutive impact on future EPS. Â During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Convertible Senior Notes were determined to be anti-dilutive and were excluded from the calculation of diluted EPS under the â€œif-convertedâ€ method. Under this method, the periodic interest expense for dilutive notes is added back to the numerator and the weighted average number of shares that the notes are entitled to (if converted, regardless of whether the conversion option is in or out of the money) are included in the denominator for the purpose of calculating diluted EPS.12.Â Â Â Â Equity Compensation and Other Benefit Plans Â (a)Â Equity Compensation Plan Â In accordance with the terms of the Companyâ€™s Equity Plan, which was approved by the Companyâ€™s stockholders on June 6, 2023 (and which amended and restated the Companyâ€™s 2020 Equity Compensation Plan), directors, officers and employees of the Company and any of its subsidiaries and other persons expected to provide significant services for the Company and any of its subsidiaries are eligible to receive grants of stock options (â€œOptionsâ€), restricted stock, RSUs, dividend equivalent rights and other stock-based awards under the Equity Plan.Â Subject to certain exceptions, stock-based awards relating to a maximum of 8.5 million shares of common stock may be granted under the Equity Plan; forfeitures and/or awards that expire unexercised do not count toward this limit.Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024, approximately 3.9 million shares of common stock remained available for grant in connection with stock-based awards under the Equity Plan.Â A participant may generally not receive stock-based awards in excess of 2.0 million shares of common stock in any one year and no award may be granted to any person who, assuming exercise of all Options and payment of all awards held by such person, would own or be deemed to own more than 9.8% of the outstanding shares of the Companyâ€™s common stock.Â Unless previously terminated by the Board, awards may be granted under the Equity Plan until June 6, 2033.45Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024Restricted Stock Units Under the terms of the Equity Plan, RSUs are instruments that provide the holder with the right to receive, subject to the satisfaction of conditions set by the Compensation Committee at the time of grant, a payment of a specified value, which may be a share of the Companyâ€™s common stock, the fair market value of a share of the Companyâ€™s common stock, or such fair market value to the extent in excess of an established base value, on the applicable settlement date.Â Although the Equity Plan permits the Company to issue RSUs that can settle in cash, all of the Companyâ€™s outstanding RSUs as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 are designated to be settled in shares of the Companyâ€™s common stock.Â The Company granted 94,333 and 1,349,819 RSUs during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, respectively, and granted 90,388 and 1,608,063 RSUs during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, respectively. There were 11,985 and 267,875 RSUs forfeited during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, respectively, and 27,413 and 204,574 RSUs forfeited during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, respectively. There were 129,949 and 58,505 RSUs surrendered to satisfy tax obligations during the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively. All holders of RSUs outstanding at JuneÂ 30, 2024 may be entitled to receive dividend equivalent payments depending on the terms and conditions of the award either in cash at the time dividends are paid by the Company or at the time of settlement of the RSU award, or for performance-based RSU awards, as a grant of stock at the time such awards are settled.Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had unrecognized compensation expense of $12.7 million and $9.2 million, respectively, related to RSUs.Â The unrecognized compensation expense at JuneÂ 30, 2024, is expected to be recognized over a weighted average period of 2.0 years.Restricted StockÂ The Company did not grant any shares of restricted common stock during the six months ended June 30, 2024 and 2023. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company did not have any shares of restricted common stock outstanding.Dividend EquivalentsÂ A dividend equivalent is a right to receive a distribution equal to the dividend distributions that would be paid on a share of the Companyâ€™s common stock.Â Dividend equivalents may be granted as a separate instrument or may be a right associated with the grant of another award (e.g., an RSU) under the Equity Plan, and they are paid typically in cash or other consideration at such times and in accordance with such rules as the Compensation Committee of the Board shall determine in its discretion.Â Dividend equivalent payments are generally charged to Stockholdersâ€™ Equity when common stock dividends are declared to the extent that such equivalents are expected to vest.Â The Company made dividend equivalent payments associated with RSU awards of approximately $0.3 million and $1.7 million during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, respectively, and approximately $0.1Â million and $0.2Â million during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, respectively. In addition, no dividend equivalents rights awarded as separate instruments were granted during the six months ended June 30, 2024 and 2023.Â Â Expense Recognized for Equity-Based Compensation InstrumentsÂ The following table presents the Companyâ€™s expenses related to its equity-based compensation instruments for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023:Three Months EndedJune 30,Six Months EndedJune 30,(InÂ Thousands)2024202320242023RSUs$3,899Â $3,932Â $10,142Â $6,952Â Total$3,899Â $3,932Â $10,142Â $6,952Â (b)Â Deferred Compensation Plans Â The Company administers deferred compensation plans for its senior officers and non-employee directors (collectively, the â€œDeferred Plansâ€), pursuant to which participants may elect to defer up to 100% of certain cash compensation.Â The Deferred Plans are designed to align participantsâ€™ interests with those of the Companyâ€™s stockholders.Â Amounts deferred under the Deferred Plans are considered to be converted into â€œstock unitsâ€ of the Company.Â Stock units do not represent stock of the Company, but rather are a liability of the Company that changes in value as would equivalent shares of the Companyâ€™s common stock.Â Deferred compensation liabilities are settled in cash at the termination of the deferral 46Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024period, based on the value of the stock units at that time.Â The Deferred Plans are non-qualified plans under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and, as such, are not funded.Â Prior to the time that the deferred accounts are settled, participants are unsecured creditors of the Company.Â The Companyâ€™s liability for stock units in the Deferred Plans is based on the market price of the Companyâ€™s common stock at the measurement date.Â The following table presents the Companyâ€™s expenses (reversal) related to its Deferred Plans for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023:Â Three Months EndedJune 30,Six Months EndedJune 30,(InÂ Thousands)2024202320242023Non-employee directors(92)305Â $14Â $414Â Total$(92)$305Â $14Â $414Â Â The following table presents the aggregate amount of income deferred by participants of the Deferred Plans through JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 that had not been distributed and the Companyâ€™s associated liability for such deferrals at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023:Â June 30, 2024December 31, 2023(InÂ Thousands)Undistributed Income Deferred (1)Â Liability Under Deferred PlansUndistributed Income Deferred (1)Â Liability Under Deferred PlansNon-employee directors$2,644Â $2,446Â $2,611Â $2,404Â Total$2,644Â $2,446Â $2,611Â $2,404Â (1)Â Represents the cumulative amounts that were deferred by participants through JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, which had not been distributed through such respective date.13.Â Fair Value of Financial Instruments Â GAAP requires the categorization of fair value measurements into three broad levels that form a hierarchy. A financial instrumentâ€™s categorization within the valuation hierarchy is based upon the lowest level of input that is significant to the fair value measurement.Â The three levels of valuation hierarchy are defined as follows:Â Level 1 â€“ Inputs to the valuation methodology are quoted prices (unadjusted) for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.Â Level 2 â€“ Inputs to the valuation methodology include quoted prices for similar assets and liabilities in active markets, and inputs that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly, for substantially the full term of the financial instrument.Â Level 3 â€“ Inputs to the valuation methodology are unobservable and significant to the fair value measurement.Â The following describes the valuation methodologies used for the Companyâ€™s financial instruments measured at fair value on a recurring basis, as well as the general classification of such instruments pursuant to the valuation hierarchy.Â 47Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024Residential Whole Loans, at Fair ValueÂ The Company determines the fair value of its residential whole loans held at fair value after considering valuations obtained from third parties that specialize in providing valuations of residential mortgage loans. The valuation approach applied generally depends on whether the loan is considered performing or non-performing at the date the valuation is performed. For performing loans, estimates of fair value are derived using a discounted cash flow approach, where estimates of cash flows are determined from the scheduled payments, adjusted using forecasted prepayment, default and loss given default rates. For non-performing loans, asset liquidation cash flows are derived based on the estimated time to liquidate the loan, the estimated value of the collateral, expected costs and estimated home price levels. Estimated cash flows for both performing and non-performing loans are discounted at yields considered appropriate to arrive at a reasonable exit price for the asset. Indications of loan value such as actual trades, bids, offers and generic market color may be used in determining the appropriate discount yield. The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans held at fair value are classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy; however, the Company determined that the market inputs used in valuing its Agency eligible investor loans were sufficiently observable to be classified as Level 2.Securities, at Fair ValueResidential Mortgage SecuritiesIn determining the fair value of the Companyâ€™s other residential mortgage securities, management considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services and brokers as well as dialogue with market participants.Â Valuations of TBA securities positions are based on executed levels for positions entered into and subsequently rolled forward, as well as prices obtained from pricing services for outstanding positions at each reporting date. These valuations are assessed for reasonableness by considering market TBA levels observed via Bloomberg for the same coupon and term to maturity. In valuing Non-Agency MBS, the Company understands that pricing services use observable inputs that include, in addition to trading activity observed in the marketplace, loan delinquency data, credit enhancement levels and vintage, which are taken into account to assign pricing factors such as spread and prepayment assumptions.Â The Company collects and considers current market intelligence on all major markets, including benchmark security evaluations and bid-lists from various sources, when available.Â The Companyâ€™s residential mortgage securities are valued using various market data points as described above, which management considers directly or indirectly observable parameters.Â Accordingly, these securities are classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. Term Notes Backed by MSR CollateralThe Companyâ€™s valuation process for term notes backed by MSR collateral is similar to that used for residential mortgage securities and considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services, brokers and repurchase agreement counterparties, dialogue with market participants, as well as managementâ€™s observations of market activity. Other factors taken into consideration include estimated changes in fair value of the related underlying MSR collateral and, as applicable, the financial performance of the ultimate parent or sponsoring entity of the issuer, which has provided a guarantee that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the related underlying MSR collateral are insufficient. Based on its evaluation of the observability of the data used in its fair value estimation process, these assets are classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy.Financing Agreements, at Fair ValueAgreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions These agreements are secured and subject to margin calls and their base interest rates reset frequently to market based rates. As a result, no credit valuation adjustment is required, and the primary factor in determining their fair value is the credit spread paid over the base rate, which is a non-observable input as it is determined based on negotiations with the counterparty. The Companyâ€™s financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value are classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy if the credit spreads used to price the instrument reset frequently, which is typically the case with shorter term repurchase agreement contracts collateralized by securities. Financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral 48Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024provisions that are typically longer term and are collateralized by residential whole loans where the credit spread paid over the base rate on the instrument is not reset frequently are classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy.Agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisionsThese agreements are secured, but not subject to margin calls based on changes in the fair value of the financed residential whole loans. Such agreements may experience changes in advance rates or collateral eligibility as a result of factors such as changes in the delinquency status of the financed residential whole loans. As a result, a credit valuation adjustment would only be required if there were a significant decrease in collateral value, and the primary factor in determining their fair value is the credit spread paid over the base rate, which is a non-observable input as it is determined based on negotiations with the counterparty. The Companyâ€™s financing agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value are classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy.Securitized DebtIn determining the fair value of securitized debt, management considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services and brokers as well as dialogue with market participants, consistent with the valuation methodology for residential mortgage securities. Accordingly, the Companyâ€™s securitized debt is classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. SwapsVariation margin payments on the Companyâ€™s Swaps are treated as a legal settlement of the exposure under the related Swap contract, the effect of which reduces what would have otherwise been reported as the fair value of the Swap, generally to zero. The Company receives prices from pricing services to validate the fair value of the Swaps. Changes to the valuation methodologies used with respect to the Companyâ€™s financial instruments are reviewed by management to ensure any such changes result in appropriate exit price valuations.Â The Company will refine its valuation methodologies as markets and products develop and pricing methodologies evolve.Â The methods described above may produce fair value estimates that may not be indicative of net realizable value or reflective of future fair values.Â Furthermore, while the Company believes its valuation methods are appropriate and consistent with those used by market participants, the use of different methodologies, or assumptions, to determine the fair value of certain financial instruments could result in a different estimate of fair value at the reporting date.Â The Company uses inputs that are current as of the measurement date, which may include periods of market dislocation, during which price transparency may be reduced.Â The Company reviews the classification of its financial instruments within the fair value hierarchy on a quarterly basis, and management may conclude that its financial instruments should be reclassified to a different level in the future.49Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024The following tables present the Companyâ€™s financial instruments Loans valued using a discounted cash flow model are most sensitive to changes in the discount rate assumption, while loans valued using the liquidation model technique are most sensitive to changes in the current value of the underlying properties and the liquidation timeline. Increases in discount rates, default rates, loss severities, or liquidation timelines, either in isolation or collectively, would generally result in a lower fair value measurement, whereas increases in the current or expected value of the underlying properties, in isolation, would result in a higher fair value measurement. In practice, changes in valuation assumptions may not occur in isolation and the changes in any particular assumption may result in changes in other assumptions, which could offset or amplify the impact on the overall valuation. 52Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024The following table presents the carrying values and estimated fair values of the Companyâ€™s financial instruments at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023:June 30, 2024June 30, 2024December 31, 2023(InÂ Thousands)Level in Fair Value HierarchyCarrying ValueEstimated Fair ValueCarrying ValueEstimated Fair ValueFinancial Assets:Residential whole loans3$9,132,820Â $9,105,970Â $8,985,513Â $8,949,859Â Residential whole loans253,416Â 53,416Â 55,779Â 55,779Â Securities, at fair value2863,289Â 863,289Â 746,090Â 746,090Â Cash and cash equivalents1289,412Â 289,412Â 318,000Â 318,000Â Restricted cash1252,015Â 252,015Â 170,211Â 170,211Â Financial Liabilities (1):Financing agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisions3931,146Â 932,031Â 1,216,697Â 1,217,671Â Financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions31,998,352Â 1,999,166Â 1,737,652Â 1,738,543Â Financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions2730,844Â 730,844Â 622,603Â 622,603Â Securitized debt25,047,613Â 4,965,310Â 4,750,805Â 4,655,195Â Convertible senior notes2â€”Â â€”Â 208,989Â 209,065Â 8.875% Senior Notes2110,912Â 114,478Â â€”Â â€”Â 9.00% Senior Notes272,175Â 74,903Â â€”Â â€”Â (1)Carrying value of securitized debt, Convertible Senior Notes, 8.875% Senior Notes, 9.00% Senior Notes, and certain repurchase agreements is net of associated debt issuance costs. See Note 2(p)Â for a discussion of the accounting policies applied to the consolidation of VIEs and transfers of financial assets in connection with financing transactions.Â The Company has engaged in loan securitizations primarily for the purpose of obtaining improved overall financing terms as well as non-recourse financing on a portion of its residential whole loan portfolio. Notwithstanding the Companyâ€™s participation in these transactions, the risks facing the Company are largely unchanged as the Company remains economically exposed to the first loss position on the underlying assets transferred to the VIEs.Â Loan Securitization TransactionsThe following table summarizes the key details of the Companyâ€™s consolidated loan securitization transactions currently outstanding as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023: (Dollars in Thousands)June 30, 2024December 31, 2023Aggregate unpaid principal balance of residential whole loans sold$8,664,831Â $8,241,053Â Face amount of Senior Bonds issued by the VIE and purchased by third-party investors$7,567,271Â $7,152,213Â Outstanding amount of Senior Bonds, at carrying value$632,912Â (1)$765,433Â (1)Outstanding amount of Senior Bonds, at fair value$4,414,701Â $3,985,372Â Outstanding amount of Senior Bonds, total$5,047,613Â $4,750,805Â Weighted average fixed rate for Senior Bonds issued4.88Â %(2)4.51Â %(2)Weighted average contractual maturity of Senior Bonds34 years(2)36 years(2)Face amount of Senior Support Certificates received by the Company (3)$1,083,414Â $1,047,297Â Cash received$7,504,463Â $7,089,575Â (1)Net of $1.3 million and $1.5 million of deferred financing costs at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively.(2)At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, $3.7 billion and $3.4 billion, respectively, of Senior Bonds sold in securitization transactions contained a contractual coupon step-up feature whereby the coupon increases by either 100, 150, or 200 basis points or more at defined dates ranging from 24 months, up to 48 months from issuance if the bond is not redeemed before such date.(3)Provides credit support to the Senior Bonds sold to third-party investors in the securitization transactions.During the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company issued Senior Bonds with a current face of $160.0Â million and $655.1Â million to third-party investors for proceeds of $160.0Â million and $654.9Â million before offering costs and accrued interest. The Senior Bonds issued by the Company during the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 are included in â€œFinancing agreements, at fair valueâ€ (at carrying value) on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets (see Note 6). During the three months ended June 30, 2024, the Company liquidated one SPE (which had been formed in 2021) and repaid the remaining $68.1Â million of outstanding Senior Bonds issued by such SPE.As of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, as a result of the transactions described above, securitized loans of approximately $6.0 billion and $5.7 billion are included in â€œResidential whole loansâ€ and REO with a carrying value of 54Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 2024approximately $10.2 million and $33.3 million are included in â€œOther assetsâ€ on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets, respectively. As of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the aggregate carrying value of Senior Bonds issued by consolidated VIEs was $5.0 billion and $4.8 billion, respectively.Â These Senior Bonds are disclosed as â€œSecuritized debtâ€ and are included in Financing agreements on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets.Â The holders of the securitized debt have no recourse to the general credit of the Company, but the Company does have the obligation, under certain circumstances, to repurchase assets from the VIE upon the breach of certain representations and warranties with respect to the residential whole loans sold to the VIE.Â In the absence of such a breach, the Company has no obligation to provide any other explicit or implicit support to any VIE.The Company concluded that the entities created to facilitate the loan securitization transactions are VIEs.Â The Company completed an analysis of whether each VIE created to facilitate the securitization transactions should be consolidated by the Company, based on consideration of its involvement in each VIE, including the design and purpose of the SPE, and whether its involvement reflected a controlling financial interest that resulted in the Company being deemed the primary beneficiary of each VIE.Â In determining whether the Company would be considered the primary beneficiary, the following factors were assessed:â€¢whether the Company has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the economic performance of the VIE;Â andâ€¢whether the Company has a right to receive benefits or absorb losses of the entity that could be potentially significant to the VIE.Â Based on its evaluation of the factors discussed above, including maintaining certain rights in each entity including rights to direct loss mitigation activities and its involvement in the purpose and design of the entity, the Company determined that it was required to consolidate each VIE created to facilitate the loan securitization transactions.The Company also invests in securities issued by SPEs that may be VIEs. The Company is not the primary beneficiary of these SPEs, because it does not have the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact their economic performance, and therefore does not consolidate them. For these entities, the Companyâ€™s maximum exposure to loss is the amortized cost basis of the securities it owns, and it does not provide any liquidity arrangements, guarantees or other commitments to these entities. For more information on the Companyâ€™s investments in securities, see Note 4.Residential Whole Loans and REO (including Residential Whole Loans and REO transferred to consolidated VIEs)Included on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 are a total of $9.2 billion and $9.0 billion, respectively, of residential whole loans. These assets, excluding certain loans originated and held by Lima One, and certain of the Companyâ€™s REO assets, are directly owned by certain trusts established by the Company to acquire the loans and entities established in connection with the Companyâ€™s loan securitization transactions. The Company has assessed that these entities are required to be consolidated (see Notes 3 and 5(a)). 55Â Â Table of ContentsMFA FINANCIAL,Â INC.NOTES TO THE UNAUDITED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTSJUNEÂ 30, 202415. These forward-looking statements include information about possible or assumed future results with respect to our business, financial condition, liquidity, results of operations, plans and objectives.Â Among the important factors that could cause our actual results to differ materially from those projected in any forward-looking statements we make are: general economic developments and trends and the performance of the housing, real estate, mortgage finance, broader financial markets; inflation, increases in interest rates and changes in the market (i.e., fair) value of our residential whole loans, MBS, securitized debt and other assets, as well as changes in the value of our liabilities accounted for at fair value through earnings; the effectiveness of hedging transactions; changes in the prepayment rates on residential mortgage assets, an increase of which could result in a reduction of the yield on certain investments in our portfolio and could require us to reinvest the proceeds received by us as a result of such prepayments in investments with lower coupons, while a decrease in which could result in an increase in the interest rate duration of certain investments in our portfolio making their valuation more sensitive to changes in interest rates and could result in lower forecasted cash flows; credit risks underlying our assets, including changes in the default rates and managementâ€™s assumptions regarding default rates and loss severities on the mortgage loans in our residential whole loan portfolio; our ability to borrow to finance our assets and the terms, including the cost, maturity and other terms, of any such borrowings; implementation of or changes in government regulations or programs affecting our business; expected returns on our investments in nonperforming residential whole loans (or NPLs), which are affected by, among other things, the length of time required to foreclose upon, sell, liquidate or otherwise reach a resolution of the property underlying the NPL, home price values, amounts advanced to carry the asset (e.g., taxes, insurance, maintenance expenses, etc. on the underlying property) and the amount ultimately realized upon resolution of the asset; Â Business/GeneralÂ We are a specialty finance company that invests in and finances residential mortgage assets. We invest, on a leveraged basis, in residential whole loans, residential mortgage securities and other real estate assets.Â Through our wholly-owned subsidiary, Lima One, a leading nationwide originator and servicer of business purpose loans (or BPLs), we also originate and service business purpose loans for real estate investors. Our principal business objective is to deliver shareholder value through the generation of distributable income and through asset performance linked to residential mortgage credit fundamentals. We selectively invest in residential mortgage assets with a focus on credit analysis, projected prepayment rates, interest rate sensitivity and expected return.Â We are an internally-managed real estate investment trust.At JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had total assets of approximately $11.1 billion, of which $9.2 billion, or 83%, represented residential whole loans. Our residential whole loans include primarily: (i) loans to finance (or refinance) one-to-four family residential properties that are not considered to meet the definition of a â€œQualified Mortgageâ€ in accordance with guidelines adopted by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (â€œNon-QM loansâ€), (ii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by residential properties made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to rehabilitate or construct residential housing and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œSingle-family transitional loansâ€), (iii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by multifamily properties, typically with a loan balance below $10 million, made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to rehabilitate or stabilize and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œMultifamily transitional loansâ€) (collectively, â€œTransitional loans,â€ also sometimes referred to as â€œRehabilitation loansâ€ or â€œFix and Flip loansâ€), (iv) business purpose loans to finance (or refinance) non-owner occupied one-to-four family residential properties that are rented to one or more tenants (â€œSingle-family rental loansâ€ and, collectively with Transitional loans, â€œBusiness purpose loansâ€), (v) loans primarily secured by residential real estate that were generally either non-performing or re-performing at acquisition (â€œLegacy RPL/NPLâ€) and (vi) loans on investor properties that conform to the standards for purchase by a federally chartered corporation, such as the Federal National Mortgage Association (â€œFannie Maeâ€) or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (â€œFreddie Macâ€) (â€œAgency eligible investor loans,â€ which are included in â€œOther loansâ€). In addition, at JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had approximately $863.3 million or 8% of total assets invested in securities, including Agency MBS, Term notes backed by MSR collateral, CRT securities and Non-Agency MBS.The results of our business operations are affected by a number of factors, many of which are beyond our control, and primarily depend on, among other things, the level of our net interest income and the market value of our assets, liabilities and hedges that are accounted for at fair value through earnings, which is driven by numerous factors, including the supply and demand for residential mortgage assets in the marketplace, the terms and availability of adequate financing, general economic and real estate conditions (both on a national and local level), the impact of government actions in the real estate and mortgage sector, and the credit performance of our credit sensitive residential mortgage assets. Changes in these factors, or uncertainty in the market regarding the potential for changes in these factors, can result in significant changes in the value and/or performance of our investment portfolio. Further, our GAAP results may be impacted by market volatility, resulting in changes in market values of certain financial instruments for which changes in fair value are recorded in net income each period, including certain residential whole loans, securitized debt and Swaps. Our net interest income varies primarily as a result of changes in interest rates, the slope of the yield curve (i.e., the differential between long-term and short-term interest rates), borrowing costs (i.e., our interest expense), the level of loan delinquencies, which may result in changes in the amount of non-accrual loans, and prepayment speeds, the behavior of which involves various risks and uncertainties. Interest rates and conditional prepayment rates (or CPRs) (which is an annualized measure of the amount of unscheduled principal prepayments on an asset as a percentage of the asset balance), vary according to the type of investment, conditions in the financial markets, competition and other factors, none of which can be predicted with any certainty. Our financial results are impacted by estimates of credit losses that are required to be recorded when loans that are not accounted for at fair value through net income are acquired or originated, as well as changes in these credit loss estimates that will be required to be made periodically.Â With respect to our business operations, increases in interest rates, in general, may over time cause: (i) the interest expense associated with our borrowings to increase; (ii) the value of certain of our residential mortgage assets and securitized debt to decline; (iii) coupons on our adjustable-rate assets to reset, on a delayed basis, to higher interest rates; (iv) prepayments on our assets to decline, thereby slowing the amortization of purchase premiums and the accretion of our purchase discounts, and 62Â Â Table of Contentsslowing our ability to redeploy capital to generally higher-yielding investments; and (v) the value of our derivative hedging instruments, if any, to increase. Conversely, decreases in interest rates, in general, may over time cause: (i) the interest expense associated with our borrowings to decrease; (ii) the value of certain of our residential mortgage assets and securitized debt, to increase; (iii) coupons on our adjustable-rate assets, on a delayed basis, to lower interest rates; (iv) prepayments on our assets to increase, thereby accelerating the amortization of purchase premiums and the accretion of our purchase discounts, and accelerating the redeployment of our capital to generally lower yielding investments; and (v) the value of our derivative hedging instruments, if any, to decrease.Â Further, changes in credit spreads will also impact the valuation of our residential whole loans and securitized debt, which could result in volatility in GAAP earnings. In addition, our borrowing costs and credit lines are further affected by the type of collateral we pledge and general conditions in the credit market.Â Our investments in residential mortgage assets expose us to credit risk, meaning that we are generally subject to credit losses due to the risk of delinquency, default and foreclosure on the underlying real estate collateral. Our investment process for credit sensitive assets focuses primarily on quantifying and pricing credit risk. With respect to investments in Business purpose and Non-QM loans, we believe that sound underwriting standards, including low LTVs at origination, significantly mitigate our risk of loss. Further, we believe the discounted purchase prices paid on Legacy RPL/NPL loans mitigate our risk of loss in the event that we receive less than 100% of the par value of these investments.Premiums arise when we acquire an MBS or loan at a price in excess of the aggregate principal balance of the mortgages securing the MBS (i.e., par value) or when we acquire residential whole loans at a price in excess of their aggregate principal balance. Conversely, discounts arise when we acquire an MBS or loan at a price below the aggregate principal balance of the mortgages securing the MBS or when we acquire residential whole loans at a price below their aggregate principal balance.Â Accretable purchase discounts on these investments are accreted to interest income. Premiums paid to purchase loans are amortized against interest income over the life of the investment using the effective yield method, adjusted for actual prepayment activity. An increase in the prepayment rate, as measured by the CPR, will typically accelerate the amortization of purchase premiums, thereby reducing the interest income earned on these assets.Â CPR levels are impacted by, among other things, conditions in the housing market, new regulations, government and private sector initiatives, interest rates, availability of credit to home borrowers, underwriting standards and the economy in general. In particular, CPR represents the annualized constant rate of principal repayment in excess of scheduled principal amortization. CPRs on our residential mortgage securities and whole loans may differ significantly. For the three months ended June 30, 2024, the average CPRs on certain of our loan portfolios were: 7.4% for Single-family rental loans, 10.8% for Non-QM loans, and 10.8% for Legacy RPL/NPL loans. In addition, for the three months ended June 30, 2024, the repayment rate (which includes both scheduled and unscheduled repayments of principal) was 66.3% for our Single-family transitional loans and 23.9% for our Multifamily transitional loans.Â It is generally our business strategy to hold our residential mortgage assets as long-term investments. On at least a quarterly basis, excluding investments for which the fair value option has been elected or for which specialized loan accounting is otherwise applied, we assess our ability and intent to continue to hold each asset and, as part of this process, we monitor our investments in securities that are designated as AFS for impairment. A change in our ability and/or intent to continue to hold any of these securities that are in an unrealized loss position, or a deterioration in the underlying characteristics of these securities, could result in our recognizing future impairment charges or a loss upon the sale of any such security. Â Our residential mortgage investments have longer-term contractual maturities than our non-securitization related financing liabilities, and the interest rates we pay on our non-securitization related financings will typically change at a faster pace than the interest rates we earn on our investments. In order to reduce this interest rate risk exposure, we may enter into derivative instruments, which currently include Swaps. 63Â Â Table of ContentsRecent Market Conditions and Our StrategyAlthough interest rates ended relatively unchanged from the end of the prior quarter, fixed income markets continued to exhibit significant volatility during the second quarter of 2024. Credit assets again outperformed Treasuries in the quarter as credit spreads continued to tighten. During the second quarter, we generated GAAP earnings of $0.32 per basic common share and Distributable Earnings, a non-GAAP financial measure that excludes the impact of fair value changes and certain other items, of $0.44 per basic common share. During the quarter, our GAAP book value was flat and our Economic book value rose to $14.34 per common share, and we declared dividends of $0.35 per common share. In April 2024, we issued $75 million of 9.00% senior unsecured notes due in August 2029, and in June 2024 we repaid our maturing 6.25% convertible notes. We added approximately $688 million residential mortgage loans and $176 million of Agency MBS with an average coupon of approximately 9.6% and 6.0%, respectively, and we completed two securitizations collateralized by $365.2Â million of Non-QM loans and $191.8Â million of Transitional loans. During the quarter we exercised the call option on one of our securitizations issued in 2021, and shortly following quarter end issued a new securitization collateralized predominantly by the called Legacy RPL/NPL loans. During the quarter, Lima One originated Business purpose loans with a maximum unpaid principal balance of $412.3 million. In response to what we believe to be a softening in multifamily housing in certain markets and several consecutive quarters of declines in origination volumes in multifamily transitional lending, we decided to temporarily refocus our resources away from multifamily lending at Lima One and instead redeploy resources to single-family transitional and single-family rental lending. As a result of increased industry competition in single-family lending and our redeployment of resources away from multifamily lending over the next several quarters, we expect that Lima Oneâ€™s origination volumes will decline from previous quarters. Second quarter 2024 portfolio activity and impact on financial resultsAt JuneÂ 30, 2024, our residential mortgage asset portfolio, which includes residential whole loans and REO, and Securities, at fair value, was approximately $10.2 billion, compared to $10.0 billion at March 31, 2024. The following table presents the activity for our residential mortgage asset portfolio for the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024:(InÂ Millions)March 31, 2024Runoff (1)Acquisitions (2)Other (3)June 30, 2024ChangeResidential whole loans and REO$9,225Â (624)688Â $5Â $9,294Â $69Â Securities, at fair value737Â (19)176Â (31)863Â 126Â Totals$9,962Â (643)864Â (26)10,157Â $195Â (1)Â Â Â Â Primarily includes principal repayments and sales of REO.(2)Â Â Â Â Includes draws on previously originated Transitional loans. (3)Â Â Â Â Primarily includes sales, changes in fair value and changes in the allowance for credit losses. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, our total recorded investment in residential whole loans and REO was $9.3 billion, or 91.5% of our residential mortgage asset portfolio. Of this amount, $4.0 billion are Non-QM loans, $1.6 billion are Single-family Rental loans,$1.2 billion are Single-family transitional loans, $1.2 billion are Multifamily transitional loans and $1.1 billion are Legacy RPL/NPL loans. Loan acquisition activity of $688.2Â million for the three months ended June 30, 2024 included $278.5Â million of Single-family transitional loans (including draws), $266.1Â million of Non-QM loans, $110.0 million of Single-family rental loans and $33.6 million of Multifamily transitional loans (including draws). For the three months ended June 30, 2024, we recognized approximately $165.7Â million of residential whole loan interest income on our consolidated statements of operations, representing an effective yield of 6.92%, with Single-family transitional loans generating an effective yield of 9.75%, Multifamily transitional loans generating an effective yield of 8.34%, Single-family Rental loans generating an effective yield of 6.47%, Non-QM loans generating an effective yield of 5.49% and Legacy RPL/NPL loans generating an effective yield of 8.72%. All new loans and 85% of our total loan portfolio are measured at fair value as a result of the election of the fair value option at acquisition or origination. Included in earnings in Other Income/(Loss), net are net gains/losses on these loans of $16.4Â million for the three months ended June 30, 2024. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and March 31, 2024, we had REO with an aggregate carrying value of $108.0 million and $106.2 million, respectively, which is included in Other assets on our consolidated balance sheets. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, we held $863.3 million of Securities, at fair value, including $701.3 million of Agency MBS, $54.3 million of MSR-related assets, $84.6 million of CRT securities and $23.1 million of Non-Agency MBS. For the three months ended June 30, 2024, there were $175.5 million purchases of Agency MBS securities and $26.9 million sales of MSR-related assets. The net yield on our Securities, at fair value was 7.03% for the three months ended June 30, 2024, compared to 7.24% for the three months ended March 31, 2024.64Â Â Table of ContentsFor the three months ended June 30, 2024, we recorded a reversal of provision for credit losses on residential whole loans held at carrying value of $1.1 million. The total allowance for credit losses recorded on residential whole loans held at carrying value at JuneÂ 30, 2024 was $13.3 million. During the second quarter of 2024, we completed two securitizations collateralized by $365.2Â million UPB of Non-QM loans and $191.8Â million UPB of Transitional loans. These securitizations provided longer term, non-recourse, non-mark-to-market financing. During the second quarter, we called one of our securitizations issued in 2021 and repaid the remaining $68.1 million amount. Subsequent to the second quarter, we completed one additional securitization collateralized by $245.4Â million UPB of Legacy RPL/NPL loans and $57.5 million of Non-QM loans. During the quarter, interest rates exhibited significant volatility, but ended the quarter only modestly higher, and credit spreads tightened. The net impact on the value of our investment portfolio resulted in net mark-to-market gains in our GAAP financial results. We continue to closely follow the actions of the Federal Reserve regarding the path and timing of changes in interest rates and the impact such rate changes would be expected to have on levels of inflation, the overall economic environment and our business. Our GAAP book value per common share was $13.80 as of JuneÂ 30, 2024. Book value per common share was also $13.80 as of March 31, 2024. Economic book value per common share, a non-GAAP financial measure of our financial position that adjusts GAAP book value by the amount of unrealized mark-to-market gains or losses on our residential whole loans and securitized debt held at carrying value, was $14.34 as of JuneÂ 30, 2024, an increase from $14.32 as of March 31, 2024. Increases in GAAP and Economic book value during the second quarter of 2024 primarily reflect GAAP earnings in excess of dividends declared on our common stock. For additional information regarding the calculation of Economic book value per share, including a reconciliation to GAAP book value per share, refer to â€œReconciliation of GAAP and Non-GAAP Financial Measuresâ€ below. Key differences between GAAP net income and REIT Taxable IncomeResidential Whole Loans and SecuritiesÂ Â The determination of taxable income attributable to residential whole loans and securities is dependent on a number of factors, including principal payments, defaults, loss mitigation efforts and loss severities. In estimating taxable income for such investments during the year, management considers estimates of the amount of discount expected to be accreted. Such estimates require significant judgment and actual results may differ from these estimates. Potential timing differences can arise with respect to the accretion of discount and amortization of premium into income as well as the recognition of gain or loss for tax purposes as compared to GAAP. For example: a) while our REIT uses fair value accounting for GAAP in some instances, it generally is not used for purposes of determining taxable income; b) impairments generally are not recognized by us for income tax purposes until the asset is written-off or sold; c) capital losses may only be recognized by us to the extent of its capital gains; capital losses in excess of capital gains generally are carried over 67Â Â Table of Contentsby us for potential offset against future capital gains; and d) tax hedge gains and losses resulting from the termination of Swaps by us generally are amortized over the remaining term of the Swap.SecuritizationGenerally, securitization transactions for GAAP and tax can be characterized as either sales or financings, depending on transaction type, structure and available elections. For GAAP purposes, our securitizations have been treated as on-balance sheet financing transactions. For tax purposes, they have been characterized as both financing and sale transactions. Where a securitization has been characterized as a sale, gain or loss is recognized for tax purposes. In addition, we own or may in the future acquire interests in securitization and/or re-securitization trusts, in which several of the classes of securities are or will be issued with original issue discount (or OID). As the holder of the retained interests in the trust, for tax purposes we generally will be required to include OID in our current gross interest income over the term of the applicable securities as the OID accrues. The rate at which the OID is recognized into taxable income is calculated using a constant rate of yield to maturity, with realized losses impacting the amount of OID recognized in REIT taxable income once they are actually incurred. REIT taxable income may be recognized in excess of economic income (i.e., OID) or in advance of the corresponding cash flow from these assets, thereby affecting our dividend distribution requirement to stockholders. For securitization and/or re-securitization transactions that were treated as a sale of the underlying collateral for tax purposes, the unwinding of any such transaction will likely result in taxable income or loss. Given that securitization and re-securitization transactions are typically accounted for as financing transactions for GAAP purposes, such income or loss is not likely to be recognized for GAAP. As a result, the income recognized from securitization and re-securitization transactions may differ for tax and GAAP purposes.Whether our investments are held by our REIT or one of its Taxable REIT Subsidiaries (TRS)We estimate that for the six months ended June 30, 2024, our net TRS taxable income will be $24.0Â million. Net income or loss generated by our TRS subsidiaries is included in consolidated GAAP net income, but may not be included in REIT taxable income in the same period. REIT taxable income generally does not include taxable income of the TRS unless and until it is distributed to the REIT. For example, because our securitization transactions that are treated as a sale for tax purposes are undertaken by a domestic TRS, any gain or loss recognized on the sale is not included in our REIT taxable income until it is distributed by the TRS. Similarly, the income earned from loans, securities, REO and other investments held by our domestic TRS is excluded from REIT taxable income until it is distributed by the TRS. Net income of our foreign domiciled TRS subsidiaries is included in REIT taxable income as if distributed to the REIT in the taxable year it is earned by the foreign domiciled TRS. A TRS may carry forward its net taxable losses indefinitely as net operating losses to offset up to 80% of its taxable income in future tax years, but REIT taxable income generally does not include the net taxable loss of a TRS unless the TRS liquidates for tax purposes.Consequently, our REIT taxable income calculated in a given period may differ significantly from our GAAP net income.RegulationÂ The Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (or the CFPB) has broad authority over a wide range of consumer financial products and services, including mortgage lending and servicing.Â One portion of the Dodd-Frank Act, the Mortgage Reform and Anti-Predatory Lending Act (or Mortgage Reform Act), contains underwriting and servicing standards for the mortgage industry, restrictions on compensation for mortgage loan originators, and various other requirements related to mortgage origination and servicing.Â In addition, the Dodd-Frank Act grants enforcement authority and broad discretionary regulatory authority to the CFPB to prohibit or condition terms, acts or practices relating to residential mortgage loans that the CFPB finds abusive, unfair, deceptive or predatory, as well as to take other actions that the CFPB finds are necessary or proper to ensure responsible affordable mortgage credit remains available to consumers.Â The Dodd-Frank Act also affects the securitization of mortgages (and other assets) with requirements for risk retention by securitizers and requirements for regulating rating agencies.Â Numerous regulations have been issued pursuant to the Dodd-Frank Act, including regulations regarding mortgage loan servicing, underwriting and loan originator compensation, and others could be issued in the future.Â As a result, we are unable to fully predict at this time how the Dodd-Frank Act, as well as other laws or regulations that may be adopted in the future, will affect our business, results of operations and financial condition, or the environment for repurchase financing and other forms of borrowing, the investing environment for Agency MBS, Non-Agency MBS and/or residential mortgage loans, the securitization industry, Swaps and other derivatives.Â We believe that the Dodd-Frank Act and the regulations promulgated 68Â Â Table of Contentsthereunder are likely to continue to increase the economic and compliance costs for participants in the mortgage and securitization industries, including us.In addition, certain court rulings may call into question the CFPBâ€™s authority and other rules promulgated during CFPBâ€™s self-funding structure. For example, in October 2022, the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals issued an opinion in Community Financial Services Association of America, et al. v. Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, et al., concluding that the CFPBâ€™s funding structure unconstitutionally violates the Appropriations Clause of the U.S. Constitution, and vacated the payday lending rule that was the subject of challenge. On May 16, 2024, the Supreme Court reversed the Fifth Circuit's decision in the Community Financial case and upheld the CFPB's funding mechanism as constitutionally permissible. However, future litigation and court rulings may still cast uncertainty on the CFPBâ€™s authority and funding mechanism. Any such uncertainty could adversely impact the cash flow on mortgage loans.The Federal Housing Finance Agency (or FHFA) and both houses of Congress have discussed and considered various measures intended to restructure the U.S. housing finance system and the operations of Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. Congress may continue to consider legislation that would significantly reform the countryâ€™s mortgage finance system, including, among other things, eliminating Freddie Mac and Fannie Mae and replacing them with a single new MBS insurance agency. Many details remain unsettled, including the scope and costs of the agenciesâ€™ guarantee and their affordable housing mission, some of which could be addressed even in the absence of large-scale reform.While the likelihood of enactment of major mortgage finance system reform in the short term remains uncertain, it is possible that the adoption of any such reforms could adversely affect the types of assets we can buy, the costs of these assets and our business operations. A reduction in the ability of mortgage loan originators to access Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac to sell their mortgage loans may adversely affect the mortgage markets generally and adversely affect the ability of mortgagors to refinance their mortgage loans. In addition, any decline in the value of securities issued by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac may affect the value of MBS in general. 69Â Â Table of ContentsResults of OperationsQuarter Ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 Compared to the Quarter Ended March 31, 2024The following table summarizes the changes in our results of operations for the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 compared to the three months ended March 31, 2024. The increase in net income available to common stock and participating securities in the current period primarily reflects a higher Other income/(loss), net, which increased by $7.4 million to $29.8 million for the current quarter, compared to an Other income/(loss), net of $22.4 million in the immediately prior quarter as well as higher Net Interest Income after Reversal/(Provision) for Credit Losses. The increase in Other income/(Loss) net was primarily driven by higher mark-to-market results in the current period on both our residential whole loans and securitized debt that are measured at fair value through earnings, partially offset by lower gains on derivatives used for risk management purposes.Net Interest IncomeNet interest income represents the difference between income on interest-earning assets and expense on interest-bearing liabilities. Net interest income depends primarily upon the volume of interest-earning assets and interest-bearing liabilities and the corresponding interest rates earned or paid. Our net interest income varies primarily as a result of changes in interest rates, the slope of the yield curve (i.e., the differential between long-term and short-term interest rates), borrowing costs (i.e., our interest expense), the level of loan delinquencies, which may result in changes in the amount of non-accrual loans, and prepayment speeds on our investments. Interest rates and CPRs (which measure the amount of unscheduled principal prepayment on a bond or loan as a percentage of its unpaid balance) vary according to the type of investment, conditions in the financial markets and other factors, none of which can be predicted with any certainty.Â The changes in average interest-earning assets and average interest-bearing liabilities and their related yields and costs are discussed in greater detail below under â€œInterest Incomeâ€ and â€œInterest Expense.â€Â For the second quarter of 2024, our net interest spread and margin (including the impact of swaps) were 2.16% and 3.01%, respectively, compared to a net interest spread and margin (including the impact of swaps) of 2.06% and 2.88%, respectively, for the first quarter of 2024. Our net interest income increased by $5.7 million and was $53.5 million for the second quarter of 2024, compared to $47.8 million for the first quarter of 2024. For the second quarter of 2024, net interest income, which does not include the benefit of swap carry, includes higher net interest income from our residential whole loan portfolio of $5.3 million, compared to the first quarter of 2024, primarily due to higher average balances and asset yields, partially offset by an increase in financing rates and higher average balances for our financing agreement borrowings. Net interest income for the second quarter of 2024 also includes approximately $1.3 million of additional interest income from cash investment and higher net interest income from our Securities, at fair value portfolio.71Â Â Table of ContentsAnalysis of Net Interest IncomeÂ The following table sets forth certain information about the average balances of our assets and liabilities and their related yields and costs for the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and March 31, 2024. Average yields are derived by dividing annualized interest income by the average amortized cost of the related assets, and average costs are derived by dividing annualized interest expense by the daily average balance of the related liabilities, for the periods shown. The yields and costs include premium amortization and purchase discount accretion, which are considered adjustments to interest rates.Â Three Months Ended June 30, 2024Three Months Ended March 31, 2024Â Average BalanceÂ InterestAverage Yield/CostAverage BalanceÂ InterestAverage Yield/Cost(DollarsÂ inÂ Thousands)Â Â Assets:Interest-earning assets (1):Residential whole loans$9,577,245Â $165,717Â 6.92Â %$9,513,309Â $157,665Â 6.63Â %Securities, at fair value776,027Â 13,629Â 7.03Â 717,348Â 12,992Â 7.24Â Cash and cash equivalents (2)600,070Â 6,308Â 4.20Â 460,323Â 5,011Â 4.35Â Other interest-earning assets45,646Â 1,177Â 10.31Â 52,439Â 1,163Â 8.87Â Total interest-earning assets10,998,988Â 186,831Â 6.79Â 10,743,419Â 176,831Â 6.58Â Liabilities:Interest-bearing liabilities:Collateralized financing agreements (3)$3,556,701Â $65,392Â 7.27Â %$3,645,218Â $67,483Â 7.32Â %Securitized debt (4)5,111,406Â 61,363Â 4.80Â 4,874,807Â 55,959Â 4.59Â Convertible Senior Notes143,516Â 2,380Â 6.64Â 182,206Â 3,158Â 6.94Â 8.875% Senior Notes110,821Â 2,726Â 9.84Â 98,643Â 2,417Â 9.80Â 9.00% Senior Notes59,481Â 1,481Â 9.96Â â€”Â â€”Â Total interest-bearing liabilities8,981,925Â 133,342Â 5.90Â 8,800,874Â 129,017Â 5.83Â Net interest income/net interest rate spread (5)53,489Â 0.89Â 47,814Â 0.75Â Impact of net Swap carry (6)28,933Â 1.27Â 29,091Â 1.31Â Net interest rate spread (including the impact of Swaps)$82,422Â 2.16Â %$76,905Â 2.06Â %Net interest-earning assets/net interest margin (7)$2,017,063Â 3.01Â %$1,942,545Â 2.88Â %(1)Yields presented throughout this Quarterly Report on FormÂ 10-Q are calculated using average amortized cost data for residential whole loans and securities, which excludes unrealized gains and losses. This increase primarily reflects a $63.9 million increase in the average balance of this portfolio to $9.6 billion for the second quarter of 2024 from the first quarter of 2024 and an increase in the yield to 6.92% for the second quarter of 2024 from 6.63% for the first quarter of 2024. Interest ExpenseÂ Our interest expense for the second quarter of 2024 increased by $4.3 million, or 3.4%, to $133.3 million, from $129.0 million for the first quarter of 2024. This increase primarily reflects an increase in financing rates and average balances of securitized debt as well as expense for the newly issued 9.00% Senior Notes, partially offset by lower average balance and rates on residential whole loans financing agreements.Provision for Credit Losses on Residential Whole Loans Held at Carrying ValueFor the second quarter of 2024, we recorded a reversal of provision for credit losses on residential whole loans held at carrying value of $1.1 million compared to a reversal of provision for credit losses of $0.5 million for the first quarter of 2024. The reversal of provision recorded in the current period and in the first quarter of 2024 primarily reflects the run-off of loans held at carrying value and minor changes to modeling assumptions.Provision for Credit Losses on Other AssetsFor the second quarter of 2024, we recorded a provision for credit losses on Other Assets of $26,000 related to an uncollectible receivable from an unaffiliated third-party servicer. For the first quarter of 2024, we recorded a provision for credit losses on Other Assets of $1.1 million related to an uncollectible receivable from an unaffiliated third-party servicer.75Â Â Table of ContentsOther Income/(Loss), netFor the second quarter of 2024, Other Income/(Loss), net was $29.8 million, compared to Other Income/(Loss), net of $22.4 million for the first quarter of 2024.Â The components of Other Income/(Loss), net for the second and first quarter of 2024 are summarized in the table below:Three Months Ended(In Thousands)June 30, 2024March 31, 2024Net gain/(loss) on residential whole loans measured at fair value through earnings$16,430Â $(11,513)Impairment and other net gain/(loss) on securities and other portfolio investments(2,842)(4,776)Net gain/(loss) on real estate owned1,880Â 991Â Net gain/(loss) on derivatives used for risk management purposes16,087Â 49,941Â Net gain/(loss) on securitized debt measured at fair value through earnings(10,642)(22,462)Lima One - origination, servicing and other fee income7,619Â 7,928Â Net realized gain/(loss) on residential whole loans held at carrying valueâ€”Â 418Â Other, net1,317Â 1,875Â Other Income/(Loss), net$29,849Â $22,402Â Operating and Other ExpenseOperating and other expenses are composed of compensation and benefits, other general and administrative, loan servicing and other related operating expenses and amortization of Lima One intangible assets.Compensation and benefits expenses are composed of salaries, annual bonus, stock-based awards, long-term incentives, Lima One sales commissions, related payroll taxes, medical insurance, 401(k) matching and other benefits expenses. Compensation and benefits expense decreased by $3.7 million to $21.7 million for the second quarter of 2024, compared to $25.5 million for the first quarter of 2024, primarily as a result of inclusion of accelerated recognition of stock-based compensation in the first quarter of 2024 related to awards made to retirement eligible employees in January 2024 as well as lower bonus accruals at Lima One. Other general and administrative expenses are comprised of leasing and other office expenses, professional fees, insurance costs, board of directors fees, and miscellaneous expenses. Other general and administrative expenses of $10.8 million for the second quarter of 2024 were lower when compared to $12.0 million for the first quarter of 2024, primarily as a result of reduced IT infrastructure costs at our corporate offices and lower professional fees. Loan servicing and other related operating expenses are composed of non-recoverable advances, upfront costs on securitization and other fees related to our residential whole loan activities. These expenses increased compared to the prior quarter period by approximately $1.7 million, or 23.8%, primarily due to higher expenses recognized related to loan securitization activities.76Â Â Table of ContentsSelected Financial RatiosÂ The following table presents information regarding certain of our financial ratios at or for the dates presented:AtÂ orÂ forÂ theÂ QuarterÂ EndedReturn on Average Total AssetsÂ (1)ReturnÂ on Average Total Stockholdersâ€™ EquityÂ (2)Dividend Payout RatioÂ (3)Total Average Stockholdersâ€™ Equity to Total Average AssetsÂ (4)Leverage Multiple (5)Recourse Leverage Multiple (6)June 30, 20241.52Â %8.85Â %1.0917.14Â %4.71.7March 31, 20240.85Â 4.69Â 2.5018.23Â 4.61.8December 31, 20233.46Â 19.04Â 0.4418.16Â 4.51.7September 30, 2023(0.56) (2.96)â€”19.10Â 4.32.0June 30, 2023(0.27)(1.31)â€”20.99Â 3.91.9March 31, 20233.14Â 14.40Â 0.5621.81Â 3.51.6(1)Reflects annualized net income divided by average total assets. The net income available to common stock and participating securities in the current period primarily reflects increased Net interest income by $17.4 million from the prior year period, primarily due to higher asset yields earned on our residential whole loans portfolio and higher amounts invested in our residential mortgage asset portfolio, partially offset by higher funding costs associated with our financing arrangements. In addition, Other Income/(Loss), net, increased $5.5 million from the prior year period, partially offset by higher Operating and other expense of $4.1 million. Net Interest IncomeFor the six months ended June 30, 2024, our net interest spread and margin were 2.11% and 2.95%, respectively, compared to a net interest spread and margin of 1.94% and 2.82%, respectively, for the six months ended June 30, 2023. Our net interest income increased by $17.4 million, or 20.8%, to $101.3 million for the six months ended June 30, 2024 compared to net interest income of $83.9 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023. For the six months ended June 30, 2024, net interest income, which does not include the benefit of swap carry, includes higher net interest income from our residential whole loan portfolio of $19.3 million compared to the six months ended June 30, 2023, primarily due to higher average balances and asset yields, partially offset by an increase in financing rates and higher average balances for our financing agreement borrowings. In addition, net interest income for the six months ended June 30, 2024 included higher net interest income from our Securities, at fair value portfolio of approximately $0.4 million. Net interest income for the six months ended June 30, 2024 also includes approximately $1.9 million of additional interest income from cash and other interest earning assets compared to the six months ended June 30, 2023.79Â Â Table of ContentsAnalysis of Net Interest IncomeÂ The following table sets forth certain information about the average balances of our assets and liabilities and their related yields and costs for the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023.Â Average yields are derived by dividing annualized interest income by the average amortized cost of the related assets, and average costs are derived by dividing annualized interest expense by the daily average balance of the related liabilities, for the periods shown.Â The yields and costs include premium amortization and purchase discount accretion which are considered adjustments to interest rates.Â Six Months Ended June 30,Â 20242023Â Average BalanceInterestAverage Yield/CostAverage BalanceÂ InterestAverage Yield/Cost(DollarsÂ inÂ Thousands)Â Assets:Â Â Â Â Â Â Interest-earning assets (1):Â Â Â Â Â Â Residential whole loans$9,545,277Â $323,382Â 6.78Â %$8,412,755Â $247,558Â 5.89Â %Securities, at fair value746,688Â 26,621Â 7.13Â 426,894Â 17,256Â 8.08Â Cash and cash equivalents (2)530,197Â 11,319Â 4.27Â 473,708Â 6,768Â 2.86Â Other interest-earning assets49,042Â 2,340Â 9.54Â 61,812Â 4,973Â 16.09Â Total interest-earning assets10,871,204Â 363,662Â 6.69Â 9,375,169Â 276,555Â 5.90Â Liabilities:Interest-bearing liabilities:Collateralized financing agreements (3)$3,600,960Â $132,875Â 7.30Â %$3,146,920Â $109,862Â 6.94Â %Securitized debt (4)4,993,106Â 117,322Â 4.70Â 3,934,185Â 74,902Â 3.81Â Convertible Senior Notes162,861Â 5,539Â 6.80Â 228,152Â 7,917Â 6.94Â 8.875% Senior Notes104,732Â 5,142Â 9.82Â â€”Â â€”Â 9.00% Senior Notes29,740Â 1,481Â 9.96Â â€”Â â€”Â Total interest-bearing liabilities8,891,399Â 262,359Â 5.87Â 7,309,257Â 192,681Â 5.26Â Net interest income/net interest rate spread (5)101,303Â 0.82Â 83,874Â 0.64Â Impact of net Swap carry (6)58,024Â 1.29Â 47,782Â 1.30Â Net interest rate spread (including the impact of Swaps)$159,327Â 2.11Â %$131,656Â 1.94Â %Net interest-earning assets/net interest margin (7)$1,979,805Â 2.95Â %$2,065,912Â 2.82Â %(1)Yields presented throughout this Quarterly Report on FormÂ 10-Q are calculated using average amortized cost data for residential whole loans and securities, which excludes unrealized gains and losses.Â For GAAP reporting purposes, securities purchases and sales are reported on the trade date. While we have not elected hedge accounting treatment for Swaps, and accordingly, net carry is not presented in interest expense in our consolidated statement of operations, we believe it is appropriate to allocate net carry to the cost of funding to reflect the economic impact of our Swaps on the funding costs shown in the table above. For the period ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, this decreased the overall funding cost by 130 basis points for our Residential whole loans, 96 basis points for our Business purpose loans, 166 basis points for our Non-QM loans, and 107 basis points for our Legacy RPL/NPL loans. For the period ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, this decreased the overall funding cost by 135 basis points for our Residential whole loans, 211 basis points for our Business purpose loans, 169 basis points for our Non-QM loans, and 275 basis points for our Legacy RPL/NPL loans.The following table presents the components of the net interest spread earned on our Securities, at fair value for the periods presented:Securities, at fair valueSix Months EndedNet Yield (1)Cost of Funding (2)Net Interest Rate SpreadJune 30, 20247.13Â %3.92Â %3.21Â %June 30, 20238.08Â 4.38Â 3.70Â (1)Reflects annualized interest income divided by average amortized cost. For the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, this decreased the overall funding cost by 185 basis points for our Securities, at fair value. For the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, this decreased the overall funding cost by 125 basis points for our Securities, at fair value.82Â Â Table of ContentsInterest IncomeÂ Interest income on our residential whole loans for the six months ended June 30, 2024 increased by $75.8 million, or 30.6%, to $323.4 million, compared to $247.6 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023. This increase primarily reflects an increase in the yield to 6.78% for the six months ended June 30, 2024 from 5.89% for the six months ended June 30, 2023, and a $1.1 billion increase in the average balance of this portfolio to $9.5 billion for the six months ended June 30, 2024 from $8.4 billion for the six months ended June 30, 2023.Interest income on our Securities, at fair value portfolio for the six months ended June 30, 2024 increased by $9.4 million to $26.6 million from $17.3 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023. This increase primarily reflects an increase in the average amortized cost of the portfolio of $319.8 million, primarily due to purchases of Agency MBS, partially offset by a decrease in the net yield on our Securities, at fair value portfolio to 7.13% for the six months ended June 30, 2024, compared to 8.08% for the six months ended June 30, 2023.Interest ExpenseÂ Our interest expense for the six months ended June 30, 2024 increased by $69.7 million, or 36.2%, to $262.4 million, from $192.7 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023.Â This increase primarily reflects the higher overall average balances of our financing agreements and an increase in financing rates on our financing agreements. In addition, the six months ended June 30, 2024 included $5.1 million and $1.5 million of interest expense related to our 8.875% Senior Notes issued in January 2024 and 9.00% Senior Notes that were issued in April 2024, respectively. Provision for Credit Losses on Residential Whole Loans Held at Carrying ValueFor the six months ended June 30, 2024, we recorded a reversal of provision for credit losses on residential whole loans held at carrying value of $1.5 million compared to a provision for credit losses of $0.3 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023. The reversal of provision for the current period primarily reflects the run-off of loans held at carrying value and minor changes to modeling assumptions.Provision for Credit Losses on Other AssetsFor the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, we recorded a provision for credit losses on Other Assets of $1.1 million, related to an uncollectible receivable from an unrelated third party servicer. No such provision was recorded for the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023.Other Income/(Loss), netÂ For the six months ended June 30, 2024, Other Income/(Loss), net was $52.3 million, compared to an Other Income/(Loss), net of $46.8 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023.Â The components of Other Income/(Loss), net for the six months ended June 30, 2024 and 2023 are summarized in the table below:Six Months Ended June 30,(In Thousands)20242023Net gain/(loss) on residential whole loans measured at fair value through earnings$4,917Â $(1,529)Impairment and other net gain/(loss) on securities and other portfolio investments(7,618)(1,638)Net gain/(loss) on real estate owned2,871Â 6,095Â Net gain/(loss) on derivatives used for risk management purposes66,028Â 39,243Â Net gain/(loss) on securitized debt measured at fair value through earnings(33,104)(24,331)Lima One - origination, servicing and other fee income15,547Â 20,453Â Net realized gain/(loss) on residential whole loans held at carrying value418Â â€”Â Other, net3,192Â 8,506Â Other Income/(Loss), net$52,251Â $46,799Â Operating and Other ExpenseOperating and other expenses are composed of compensation and benefits, other general and administrative, loan servicing and other related operating expenses and amortization of Lima One intangible assets.83Â Â Table of ContentsCompensation and benefits expenses are composed of salaries, annual bonus, stock-based awards, long-term incentives, Lima One sales commissions, related payroll taxes, medical insurance, 401(k) matching and other benefits expenses. Compensation and benefits expense increased $4.8 million to $47.2 million for the six months ended June 30, 2024, compared to $42.4 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023, primarily reflecting an increase in long-term incentive compensation and higher salaries expense at Lima One.Other general and administrative expenses are comprised of leasing and other office expenses, professional fees, insurance costs, board of directors fees, and miscellaneous expenses. Other general and administrative expenses increased by $1.6 million to $22.8 million for the six months ended June 30, 2024, compared to $21.2 million for the six months ended June 30, 2023, primarily reflecting higher costs associated with IT infrastructure at our corporate offices, partially offset by lower depreciation. Loan servicing and other related operating expenses are composed of non-recoverable advances, upfront costs on securitization and other fees related to our residential whole loan activities. These expenses decreased compared to the prior year period by approximately $1.4 million, or 8.0%, primarily due to lower expenses recognized related to loan securitization activities.Selected Financial RatiosThe following table presents information regarding certain of our financial ratios at or for the dates presented:At or for the Six Months EndedReturn on Average Total AssetsÂ (1)Return on Average Total Stockholdersâ€™ EquityÂ (2)Dividend Payout RatioÂ (3)Total Average Stockholdersâ€™ Equity to Total Average AssetsÂ (4)Leverage MultipleÂ (5)Recourse Leverage MultipleÂ (6)June 30, 20241.19Â %6.85Â %1.4917.36Â %4.7Â 1.7June 30, 20231.00Â %4.68Â %2.3321.39Â %3.9Â 1.9(1)Reflects annualized net income divided by average total assets.(2)Reflects annualized net income divided by average total stockholdersâ€™ equity.(3)Reflects dividends declared per share of common stock divided by earnings per share. Distributable earnings is determined by adjusting GAAP net income/(loss) by removing certain unrealized gains and losses, primarily on residential mortgage investments, associated debt, and hedges that are, in each case, accounted for at fair value through earnings, certain realized gains and losses, as well as certain non-cash expenses and securitization-related transaction costs. The transaction costs are primarily comprised of costs only incurred at the time of execution of our securitizations and include costs such as underwriting fees, legal fees, diligence fees, bank fees and other similar transaction related expenses. These costs are all incurred prior to or at the execution of our securitizations and do not recur. Recurring expenses, such as servicing fees, custodial fees, trustee fees and other similar ongoing fees are not excluded from distributable earnings. Management believes that the adjustments made to GAAP earnings result in the removal of (i) income or expenses that are not reflective of the longer term performance of our investment portfolio, (ii) certain non-cash expenses, and (iii) expense items required to be recognized solely due to the election of the fair value option on certain related residential mortgage assets and associated liabilities. Distributable earnings is one of the factors that our Board of Directors considers when evaluating distributions to our shareholders. Accordingly, we believe that the adjustments to compute Distributable earnings specified below provide investors and analysts with additional information to evaluate our financial results. 84Â Â Table of ContentsDistributable earnings should be used in conjunction with results presented in accordance with GAAP. Distributable earnings does not represent and should not be considered as a substitute for net income or cash flows from operating activities, each as determined in accordance with GAAP, and our calculation of this measure may not be comparable to similarly titled measures reported by other companies.The following table provides a reconciliation of our GAAP net income/(loss) used in the calculation of basic EPS to our non-GAAP Distributable earnings for the quarterly periods below: Quarter Ended(In Thousands, Except Per Share Amounts)June 30, 2024March 31, 2024December 31, 2023September 30, 2023June 30, 2023March 31, 2023GAAP Net income/(loss) used in the calculation of basic EPS$33,614Â $14,827Â $81,527Â $(64,657)$(34,146)$64,565Â Adjustments:Unrealized and realized gains and losses on:Residential whole loans held at fair value (16,430)11,513Â (224,272)132,894Â 130,703Â (129,174)Securities held at fair value 4,026Â 4,776Â (21,371)13,439Â 3,698Â (2,931)Residential whole loans and securities at carrying value(2,668)(418)332Â â€”Â â€”Â â€”Â Interest rate swaps10,237Â (23,182)97,400Â (9,433)(37,018)40,747Â Securitized debt held at fair value7,597Â 20,169Â 108,693Â (40,229) (30,908)48,846Â Investments in loan origination partners1,484Â â€”Â 254Â 722Â 872Â â€”Â Expense items:Amortization of intangible assets800800800800Â 1,300Â 1,300Â Equity based compensation3,899Â 6,243Â 3,635Â 4,447Â 3,932Â 3,020Â Â Â Â Â Securitization-related transaction costs3,009Â 1,340Â 2,702Â 3,217Â 2,071Â 4,602Â Total adjustments11,954Â 21,241Â (31,827)105,857Â 74,650Â (33,590)Distributable earnings$45,568Â $36,068Â $49,700Â $41,200Â $40,504Â $30,975Â GAAP earnings/(loss) per basic common share$0.32Â $0.14Â $0.80Â (0.64)(0.34)$0.63Â Distributable earnings per basic common share$0.44Â $0.35Â $0.49Â $0.40Â $0.40Â $0.30Â Weighted average common shares for basic earnings per share103,446Â 103,175Â 102,266Â 102,255Â 102,186Â 102,155Â Selected Financial Ratios (using Distributable earnings)The following table presents information regarding certain of our financial ratios at or for the dates presented:AtÂ orÂ forÂ theÂ QuarterÂ EndedReturnÂ on AverageÂ TotalAssetsÂ (1)ReturnÂ on AverageÂ Total Stockholdersâ€™ EquityÂ (2)Dividend Payout Ratio (3)June 30, 20241.95Â %11.35Â %0.80March 31, 20241.63Â 8.94Â 1.00December 31, 20232.23Â 12.29Â 0.71September 30, 20231.98Â 10.36Â 0.88June 30, 20232.06Â 9.81Â 0.88March 31, 20231.69Â 7.76Â 1.17(1)Reflects annualized Distributable earnings before preferred dividends divided by average total assets.(2)Reflects annualized Distributable earnings before preferred dividends divided by average total stockholdersâ€™ equity.(3)Reflects dividends declared per share of common stock divided by Distributable earnings per share.85Â Â Table of ContentsSegment Reporting (using Distributable earnings)The following table presents our non-GAAP Distributable earnings by segment for the quarterly period below: (In Thousands)Mortgage-Related AssetsLima OneCorporateTotalThree Months Ended June 30, 2024GAAP Net income/(loss) used in the calculation of basic

To calculate our Economic book value, our portfolios of Residential whole loans and securitized debt held at carrying value are adjusted to their fair value, rather than the carrying value that is required to be reported under the GAAP accounting model applied to these financial instruments. These adjustments are also reflected in the table below in our end of period stockholdersâ€™ equity. Management considers that Economic book value provides investors with a useful supplemental measure to evaluate our financial position as it reflects the impact of fair value changes for all of our investment activities, irrespective of the accounting model applied for GAAP reporting purposes. Our most significant uses of cash are generally to pay principal and interest on our financing transactions, to purchase and originate residential mortgage assets, to make dividend payments on our capital stock, to fund our operations, to meet margin calls and to make other investments that we consider appropriate.87Â Â Table of ContentsWe seek to employ a diverse capital raising strategy under which we may issue capital stock and other types of securities. To the extent we raise additional funds through capital market transactions, we currently anticipate using the net proceeds from such transactions to acquire additional residential mortgage-related assets, consistent with our investment policy, and for working capital, which may include, among other things, the repayment of our financing transactions. There can be no assurance, however, that we will be able to access the capital markets at any particular time or on any particular terms. We have available for issuance an unlimited amount (subject to the terms and limitations of our charter) of common stock, preferred stock, depository shares representing preferred stock, warrants, debt securities, rights and/or units pursuant to our universal shelf registration statement and, at JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had approximately 2.0 million shares of common stock available for issuance pursuant to our Discount Waiver, Direct Stock Purchase and Dividend Reinvestment Plan (or DRSPP) shelf registration statement. The Company did not issue any shares pursuant to its DRSPP during the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024. On February 29, 2024, we entered into a distribution agreement pursuant to which we may offer and sell shares of our common stock having an aggregate gross sales price of up to $300 million, from time to time, through various sales agents in transactions deemed to be â€œat-the-marketâ€ offerings under federal securities laws (or the ATM Program). During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, we did not sell any shares of common stock through the ATM Program. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, $300 million remained available under the distribution agreement.On February 29, 2024, we announced our Board had authorized a new $200 million stock repurchase program with respect to our common stock, which will be in effect through the end of 2025. The new stock repurchase program supersedes the prior stock repurchase program in its entirety. Refer to Part II, Item 2 for further information about the stock repurchase program. During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, we did not repurchase any share of common stock through the stock repurchase program. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, $200Â million remained available under the current Board authorization for the purchase of common stock under our stock repurchase program.In February 2023, our Board authorized a repurchase program for our Convertible Senior Notes pursuant to which we could repurchase up to $100 million of our Convertible Senior Notes. During the three months ended March 31, 2024, we repurchased $39.9Â million principal amount of our Convertible Senior Notes for $39.8Â million and recorded a loss of $0.1 million to Other Income/(Loss), net on the consolidated statement of operations. During the year ended December 31, 2023, we repurchased $20.4Â million principal amount of the Convertible Senior Notes for $20.2Â million and recorded a gain of $0.1Â million to Other Income/(Loss), net on the consolidated statement of operations. During the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Convertible Senior Notes matured and we repaid the amount in full. Financing AgreementsOur borrowings under financing agreements include a combination of shorter and longer term arrangements. Certain of these arrangements are collateralized directly by our residential mortgage investments or otherwise have recourse to us, while securitized debt financing is non-recourse financing. Further, certain of our financing agreements contain terms that allow the lender to make margin calls on us based on changes in the value of the underlying collateral securing the borrowing. As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had $2.7Â billion of total unpaid principal balance related to asset-backed financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions and $6.1Â billion of total unpaid principal balance related to asset-backed financing agreements that do not include mark-to-market collateral provisions. Repurchase agreements and other forms of collateralized financing are uncommitted and renewable at the discretion of our lenders, and, as such, our lenders could determine to reduce or terminate our access to future borrowings at virtually any time. The terms of the repurchase transaction borrowings under our master repurchase agreements, as such terms relate to repayment, margin requirements and the segregation of all securities that are the subject of repurchase transactions, generally conform to the terms contained in the standard master repurchase agreement published by the Securities Industry and Financial Markets Association (or SIFMA) or the global master repurchase agreement published by SIFMA and the International Capital Market Association. In addition, each lender typically requires that we include supplemental terms and conditions to the standard master repurchase agreement. Typical supplemental terms and conditions, which differ by lender, may include changes to the margin maintenance requirements, required haircuts (or the percentage amount by which the collateral value is contractually required to exceed the loan amount), purchase price maintenance requirements, requirements that all controversies related to the repurchase agreement be litigated in a particular jurisdiction and cross default and setoff provisions. Other non-repurchase agreement financing arrangements also contain provisions governing collateral maintenance. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had unused financing capacity of approximately $2.7Â billion across our financing arrangements for all collateral types.Â Margin calls are typically determined by our counterparties based on their assessment of changes in the fair value of the underlying collateral and in accordance with the agreed upon haircuts specified in the transaction confirmation with the 88Â Â Table of Contentscounterparty.Â We address margin call requests in accordance with the required terms specified in the applicable agreement and such requests are typically satisfied by posting additional cash or collateral on the same business day. We review margin calls made by counterparties and assess them for reasonableness by comparing the counterparty valuation against our valuation determination. When we believe that a margin call is unnecessary because our assessment of collateral value differs from the counterparty valuation, we typically hold discussions with the counterparty and attempt to resolve the matter. If this is not successful, we will look to resolve the dispute based on the remedies available to us under the terms of the repurchase agreement, which in some instances may include the engagement of a third-party to review collateral valuations. For certain other agreements that do not include such provisions, we could resolve the matter by substituting collateral as permitted in accordance with the agreement or otherwise request the counterparty to return the collateral in exchange for cash to unwind the financing. For additional information regarding our various types of financing arrangements, including those with non-mark-to-market terms and the haircuts for those agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions, see Note 6 to the consolidated financial statements, included under Item 1 of this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q.Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had a total of $3.9 billion of residential whole loans and securities and $17.8 million of restricted cash pledged to our financing counterparties excluding securitized debt. We expect that we will continue to pledge residential mortgage assets as part of certain of our ongoing financing arrangements. When the value of our residential mortgage assets pledged as collateral experiences rapid decreases, margin calls under our financing arrangements could materially increase, causing an adverse change in our liquidity position. Additionally, if one or more of our financing counterparties choose not to provide ongoing funding, our ability to finance our long-maturity assets would decline or otherwise become available on possibly less advantageous terms. Further, when liquidity tightens, our counterparties to our short term arrangements with mark-to-market collateral provisions may increase their required collateral cushion (or margin) requirements on new financings, including financings that we roll with the same counterparty, thereby reducing our ability to use leverage. Access to financing may also be negatively impacted by ongoing volatility in financial markets, thereby potentially adversely impacting our current or future lendersâ€™ ability or willingness to provide us with financing. In addition, there is no assurance that favorable market conditions will exist to permit us to consummate additional securitization transactions if we determine to seek that form of financing.Our ability to meet future margin calls will be affected by our ability to use cash or obtain financing from unpledged collateral, the amount of which can vary based on the market value of such collateral, our cash position and margin requirements. Our cash position fluctuates based on the timing of our operating, investing and financing activities and is managed based on our anticipated cash needs. (See our Consolidated Statements of Cash Flows, included under Item 1 of this Quarterly Report on FormÂ 10-Q and â€œInterest Rate Riskâ€ included under Item 3 of this Quarterly Report on FormÂ 10-Q.) In addition, at JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had securitized debt of $5.0 billion in connection with our loan securitization transactions. At DecemberÂ 31, 2023, we had borrowings under asset-backed financing agreements of $3.6 billion, of which $2.9 billion were secured by residential whole loans, $622.6 million were secured by securities and $25.2 million were secured by REO. In addition, at DecemberÂ 31, 2023, we had securitized debt of $4.8 billion in connection with our loan securitization transactions. During the six months ended June 30, 2024, $272.7 million was used in our investing activities.Â We utilized $1,453.1 million for acquisitions and origination of residential whole loans, loan related investments and capitalized advances. During the six months ended June 30, 2024, we received $1,002.1 million of principal payments on residential whole loans and loan related investments, $166.4 million of proceeds from the sale of residential whole loans, and $49.8 million of proceeds on sales of REO.Â In addition, during the six months ended June 30, 2024, we utilized $175.5 million for acquisitions of securities and received cash proceeds of $29.6 million from sales of securities and other assets and $26.3 million from principal payments on our securities. Â In connection with our repurchase agreement financings and Swaps, we routinely receive margin calls/reverse margin calls from our counterparties and make margin calls to our counterparties. Margin calls and reverse margin calls, which requirements vary over time, may occur daily between us and any of our counterparties when the value of collateral pledged changes from the amount contractually required. The value of securities pledged as collateral fluctuates reflecting changes in: (i)Â the face (or par) value of our assets; (ii)Â market interest rates and/or other market conditions; and (iii)Â the market value of our Swaps. Margin calls/reverse margin calls are satisfied when we pledge/receive additional collateral in the form of additional assets and/or cash.Â The table below summarizes our margin activity with respect to our repurchase agreement financings and derivative hedging instruments for the quarterly periods presented:Â CollateralÂ PledgedÂ for Margin ActivityCash and Securities Received for Reverse MarginNet Assets Received/(Pledged) for Margin ActivityForÂ theÂ QuarterÂ Ended (1)Fair Value of Securities PledgedCash PledgedAggregate Assets Pledged For Margin(InÂ Thousands)Â Â Â Â Â June 30, 2024$â€”Â $6,795Â $6,795Â $17,348Â $10,553Â March 31, 202417,379Â 3,358Â 20,737Â 16,514Â (4,223)December 31, 202310,616Â 4,085Â 14,701Â 23,060Â 8,359Â September 30, 202335,690Â 4,363Â 40,053Â 34,846Â (5,207)June 30, 20235,982Â 2,909Â 8,891Â 5,328Â (3,563)March 31, 2023676Â 2,965Â 3,641Â 6,529Â 2,888Â (1) Excludes variation margin payments on our cleared Swaps which are treated as a legal settlement of the exposure under the Swap contract.We are subject to various financial covenants under our financing agreements, which include minimum liquidity and net worth requirements, net worth decline limitations and maximum debt-to-equity ratios. On June 11, 2024, we declared our second quarter 2024 dividend on our common stock of $0.35 per share; on July 31, 2024, we paid this dividend, which totaled approximately $36.0 million, including dividend equivalents of approximately $318,000. 90Â Â Table of ContentsItem 3.Â Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk.Â We seek to manage our risks related to interest rates, liquidity, prepayment speeds, market value and the credit quality of our assets while, at the same time, seeking to provide an opportunity to stockholders to realize attractive total returns through ownership of our capital stock. While we do not seek to avoid risk, we seek, consistent with our investment policies, to: assume risk that can be quantified based on managementâ€™s judgment and experience and actively manage such risk; earn sufficient returns to justify the taking of such risks; and maintain capital levels consistent with the risks that we undertake.Interest Rate Risk Â Â We are exposed to interest rate risk on our residential mortgage assets, as well as on our liabilities. Changes in interest rates can affect our net interest income and the fair value of our assets and liabilities. In general, when interest rates change, borrowing costs on our financing agreements will change more quickly than the yield on our assets. In a rising interest rate environment, the borrowing costs may increase faster than the interest income on our assets, thereby reducing our net income. In order to mitigate compression in net income based on such interest rate movements, we may use Swaps or other derivatives to lock in a portion of the net interest spread between assets and liabilities or otherwise hedge interest rate risk.When interest rates change, the fair value of our residential mortgage assets could change at a different rate than the fair value of our liabilities. We measure the sensitivity of our portfolio to changes in interest rates by estimating the duration of our assets and liabilities. Duration is the approximate percentage change in fair value for a 100 basis point parallel shift in the yield curve. In general, our assets have higher duration than our liabilities, and in order to reduce this exposure, we have historically used Swaps and other derivatives to reduce the gap in duration between our assets and liabilities.The fair value of our re-performing and non-performing residential whole loans is in part dependent on the value of the underlying real estate collateral, past and expected delinquency status of the borrower as well as the level of interest rates. For certain loans that were re-performing or non-performing when purchased and where the borrower has brought the loan current, but nonetheless may be less likely to prepay due to weak credit history and/or high LTV, we believe these loans exhibit positive duration. We estimate the duration of these residential whole loans using managementâ€™s assumptions. The fair value of our Business purpose and Non-QM loans is typically dependent on the value of the underlying real estate collateral, as well as the level of interest rates. Because these loans are primarily newly or recently originated performing loans, we believe these investments exhibit positive duration. Given the short duration of our Single-family and Multifamily transitional loans, we believe the fair value of these loans exhibits little sensitivity to changes in interest rates. We estimate the duration of these Business purpose and Non-QM loans using managementâ€™s assumptions. The fair value of our non-performing residential whole loans is typically dependent on the value of the underlying real estate collateral and the time required for collateral liquidation. Since neither the value of the collateral nor the liquidation timeline is generally sensitive to interest rates, we believe their fair value exhibits little sensitivity to interest rates. We estimate the duration of our non-performing residential whole loans using managementâ€™s assumptions.We estimate the duration of our Agency MBS using a third-party financial model, which takes into account key characteristics of securities, market data, and assumptions based on managementâ€™s view and observed empirical data.We use derivative financial instruments, including Swaps, as part of our overall interest rate risk management strategy. Such instruments are used to economically hedge against future interest rate increases on our financing transactions. While use of such derivatives does not extend the maturities of our borrowings under repurchase agreements, they do, in effect, lock in a fixed rate of interest over their term for a corresponding amount of our repurchase agreement financings that are hedged, or otherwise act as a hedge against changes in interest rates. 91Â Â Table of ContentsShockÂ TableThe information presented in the following â€œShock Tableâ€ projects the potential impact of sudden parallel changes in interest rates on our net interest income and portfolio value, including the impact of Swaps and securitized debt and other fixed rate debt, based on the assets in our investment portfolio at JuneÂ 30, 2024. All changes in income and value are measured as the percentage change from the projected net interest income (over a 12 month period) and portfolio value under the base interest rate scenario at JuneÂ 30, 2024. (2)Change in estimated net portfolio value includes the effect of our Swaps, securitized debt, and other fixed-rate debt.(3)Includes the impact of the net carry on our Swaps.Certain assumptions have been made in connection with the calculation of the information set forth in the Shock Table and, as such, there can be no assurance that assumed events will occur or that other events will not occur that would affect the outcomes. The base interest rate scenario assumes interest rates at JuneÂ 30, 2024. The analysis presented utilizes assumptions and estimates based on managementâ€™s judgment and experience.Â Furthermore, while we generally expect to retain the majority of our assets and the associated interest rate risk to maturity, future purchases and sales of assets could materially change our interest rate risk profile. It should be specifically noted that the information set forth in the above table and all related disclosure constitute forward-looking statements within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act and Section 21E of the Exchange Act. Actual results could differ significantly from those estimated in the Shock Table above.Â The Shock Table quantifies the potential changes in net interest income and portfolio value, which includes the value of our derivative and other hedging transactions (if any) and securitized and other fixed rate debt (which are carried at fair value), should interest rates immediately change (i.e., are shocked). The Shock Table presents the estimated impact of interest rates instantaneously rising 50 and 100 basis points, and falling 50 and 100 basis points. The cash flows associated with our portfolio for each rate shock are calculated based on assumptions, including, but not limited to, prepayment speeds, yield on replacement assets, the slope of the yield curve and composition of our portfolio. Assumptions made with respect to the interest rate sensitive liabilities include anticipated interest rates, collateral requirements as a percent of repurchase agreement financings, and the amounts and terms of borrowing. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, we applied a floor of 0% for all anticipated interest rates included in our assumptions. Because the presence of this floor could limit the potential impact of an interest rate decrease in certain rate environments, hypothetical interest rate shock decreases below the assumed floor could cause changes in the fair value of our financial instruments and our net interest income in excess of the amounts assumed.Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the impact on portfolio value was approximated using estimated net effective duration (i.e., the price sensitivity to changes in interest rates), including the effect of securitized and other fixed rate debt, of 1.12 which is the weighted average of 3.48 for our Residential whole loans, 3.09 for our Securities investments, (2.60) for our derivative and other hedging transactions and securitized and other fixed rate debt, and 0.01 for our Other assets and cash and cash equivalents. Estimated convexity (i.e., the approximate change in duration relative to the change in interest rates) of the portfolio was (0.49), which is the weighted average of (0.50) for our Residential whole loans, zero for our derivative and other hedging transactions and securitized and other fixed rate debt, (0.93) for our Securities and zero for our Other assets and cash and cash equivalents. The impact on our net interest income is driven mainly by the difference between portfolio yield and cost of funding of our repurchase agreements.Â Our asset/liability structure is generally such that an increase in interest rates would be expected to result in a decrease in net interest income, as our borrowings are generally shorter in term than our interest-earning assets. When interest rates are shocked, prepayment assumptions are adjusted based on managementâ€™s expectations along with the results from the prepayment model.92Â Â Table of ContentsCredit RiskÂ We are exposed to credit risk through our credit sensitive residential mortgage investments, in particular residential whole loans and certain of our securities investments. We do not believe we are exposed to credit risk in our Agency MBS portfolio, Our exposure to credit risk from our credit sensitive investments is discussed in more detail below:Residential Whole LoansWe are exposed to credit risk from our investments in residential whole loans. Credit risk on our residential whole loans is mitigated through our process to underwrite the loan before it is acquired and/or originated and includes an assessment of the borrowerâ€™s financial condition and ability to repay the loan, nature of the collateral and relatively low LTV, including after-repair LTV for the majority of our Single-family and Multifamily transitional loans. Given the extent of home price appreciation that has occurred since the majority of our loans collateralized by single-family homes were acquired or originated, we estimate that current LTVs have decreased significantly, further mitigating the risk of material credit losses on this portfolio. As a result of higher cap rates and an increasing supply of multifamily units in certain markets, we estimate that current LTVs on certain of our Multifamily transitional loans may have increased since origination, increasing the risk of credit losses on this portfolio. Our investment process for Legacy RPL/NPL loans is focused on quantifying and pricing credit risk. Legacy RPL/NPL loans are acquired at purchase prices that are generally discounted to the contractual loan balances based on a number of factors, including the impaired credit history of the borrower and the value of the collateral securing the loan. In addition, as we generally own the mortgage-servicing rights associated with these loans, our process is also focused on selecting a sub-servicer with the appropriate expertise to mitigate losses and maximize our overall return. This involves, among other things, performing due diligence on the sub-servicer prior to their engagement as well as ongoing oversight and surveillance. To the extent that delinquencies and defaults on these loans are higher than our expectation at the time the loans were purchased, the discounted purchase price at which the asset is acquired is intended to provide a level of protection against financial loss. The following table presents certain information about our Residential whole loans at JuneÂ 30, 2024:Single-family transitional loansMultifamily transitional loansSingle-family rental loansNon-QM loansLegacy RPL/NPL loansÂ Loans with an LTV:Loans with an LTV:Loans with an LTV:Loans with an LTV:(Dollars inÂ Thousands)80% or BelowAbove 80%80% or BelowAbove 80%80% or BelowAbove 80%80% or BelowAbove 80%80% or BelowAbove 80%Amortized cost$1,169,050Â $58,901Â $1,076,912Â $108,605Â $1,691,158Â $29,035Â $4,073,457Â $219,660Â $920,221Â $130,672Â Unpaid principal balance (UPB)$1,168,044Â $58,692Â $1,076,014Â $108,599Â $1,683,887Â $28,992Â $3,968,593Â $215,324Â $1,077,230Â $207,002Â Weighted average coupon (1)10.5Â %8.7Â %9.0Â %8.1Â %6.6Â %5.3Â %6.1Â %6.7Â %5.1Â %5.0Â %Weighted average term to maturity (months)6Â 1Â 11Â 8Â 330Â 323Â 340Â 346Â 249Â 301Â Weighted average LTV (2)65Â %123Â %63Â %100Â %67Â %172Â %63Â %85Â %46Â %103Â %Loans 90+ days delinquent UPB$66,406Â $30,523Â $30,556Â $8,002Â $32,475Â $25,662Â $83,476Â $8,321Â $173,783Â $58,156Â (1)Weighted average is calculated based on the interest bearing principal balance of each loan within the related category. For loans acquired with servicing rights released by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation do not reflect loan servicing fees. For loans acquired with servicing rights retained by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation are net of servicing fees. (2)LTV represents the ratio of the total unpaid principal balance of the loan to the estimated value of the collateral securing the related loan as of the most recent date available, which may be the origination date. For Single-family and Multifamily transitional loans, the LTV presented is the ratio of the maximum unpaid principal balance of the loan, including unfunded commitments, to the estimated â€œafter repairedâ€ value of the collateral securing the related loan, where available. For certain Single-family transitional loans, totaling $467.2 million, an after repaired valuation was not obtained and the loan was underwritten based on an â€œas isâ€ valuation. The LTV of these loans based on the current unpaid principal balance and the valuation obtained during underwriting, is 74%. For certain Multifamily transitional loans, totaling $498.7 million, an after repaired valuation was not obtained and the loan was underwritten based on an â€œas isâ€ valuation. The LTV of these loans based on the current unpaid principal balance and the valuation obtained during underwriting, is 72%. Excluded from the calculation of weighted average LTV are certain low value loans secured by vacant lots for which the LTV ratio is not meaningful.93Â Â Table of ContentsThe following table presents the five largest geographic concentrations by state of certain of our residential whole loan portfolio and in total at JuneÂ 30, 2024:Business purpose loansNon-QM loansLegacy RPL/NPL loansAll LoansRankStatePercent of UPBStatePercent of UPBStatePercent of UPBStatePercent of UPB1TX11.4%CA51.3%CA21.9%CA26.7%2FL11.2%FL16.4%NY16.6%FL12.8%3GA9.2%TX4.9%FL7.3%TX7.3%4NY5.8%AZ3.0%NJ7.1%NY5.2%5OH5.5%WA2.5%MD5.1%GA4.9%CRT SecuritiesWe are exposed to potential credit losses from our investments in CRT securities issued by or sponsored by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. While CRT securities are issued by or sponsored by these GSEs, payment of principal on these securities is not guaranteed. As an investor in a CRT security, we may incur a loss if losses on the mortgage loans in the reference pool exceed the credit enhancement on the underlying CRT security owned by us or if an actual pool of loans experience losses. We assess the credit risk associated with our investments in CRT securities by assessing the current and expected future performance of the associated loan pool. Term Notes Backed by MSR CollateralWe have invested in certain term notes that are issued by SPVs that have acquired rights to receive cash flows representing the servicing fees and/or excess servicing spread associated with certain MSRs. Payment of principal and interest on these term notes is considered by us to be largely dependent on the cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs as this impacts the cash flows available to the SPV that issued the term notes. Credit risk borne by the holders of the term notes is also mitigated by structural credit support in the form of over-collateralization. In addition, credit support is also provided by a corporate guarantee from the ultimate parent or sponsor of the SPV that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes should cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs be insufficient. Credit Spread RiskCredit spreads measure the additional yield demanded by investors in financial instruments based on the credit risk associated with an instrument relative to benchmark interest rates. They are impacted by the available supply and demand for instruments with various levels of credit risk. Widening credit spreads would result in higher yields being required by investors in financial instruments. Credit spread widening generally results in lower values of the financial instruments we hold at that time, but will generally result in a higher yield on future investments with similar credit risk. It is possible that the credit spreads on our assets and liabilities, including hedges, will not always move in tandem. Consequently, changes in credit spreads can result in volatility in our financial results and reported book value.Liquidity RiskThe primary liquidity risk we face arises from financing long-maturity assets with shorter-term borrowings primarily in the form of repurchase agreement financings. We pledge residential mortgage assets and cash to secure our financing agreements. Our financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions require us to pledge additional collateral in the event the market value of the assets pledged decreases, in order to maintain the lenders contractually specified collateral cushion, which is measured as the difference between the loan amount and the market value of the asset pledged as collateral. Should the value of our residential mortgage assets pledged as collateral suddenly decrease, margin calls under our repurchase agreements would likely increase, causing an adverse change in our liquidity position. Additionally, if one or more of our financing counterparties chose not to provide ongoing funding, our ability to finance our long-maturity assets would decline or be available on possibly less advantageous terms. Further, when liquidity tightens, our repurchase agreement counterparties may increase our collateral cushion (or margin) requirements on new financings, including repurchase agreement borrowings that we roll with the same counterparty, reducing our ability to use leverage.At JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had access to various sources of liquidity, including $289.4 million of cash and cash equivalents. Our sources of liquidity do not include restricted cash. In addition, at JuneÂ 30, 2024, we had $81.7Â million of unencumbered residential whole loans. 94Â Â Table of ContentsPrepayment RiskPremiums arise when we acquire an MBS or loan at a price in excess of the aggregate principal balance of the mortgages securing the MBS (i.e., par value) or when we acquire residential whole loans at a price in excess of their aggregate principal balance.Â Conversely, discounts arise when we acquire an MBS or loan at a price below the aggregate principal balance of the mortgages securing the MBS or when we acquire residential whole loans at a price below their aggregate principal balance.Â Premiums paid are amortized against interest income and accretable purchase discounts on these investments are accreted to interest income.Â Purchase premiums, which are primarily carried on our Single-family rental and Non-QM loans, are amortized against interest income over the life of the investment using the effective yield method, adjusted for actual prepayment activity.Â An increase in the prepayment rate, as measured by the CPR, will typically accelerate the amortization of purchase premiums, thereby reducing the interest income earned on these assets. Fees payable by borrowers on the early repayment of certain of our Business purpose and Non-QM loans serve to mitigate the impact on our income of higher prepayment rates. Generally, if prepayments on residential whole loans purchased at significant discounts and not accounted for at fair value are less than anticipated, we expect that the income recognized on these assets will be reduced and impairments and/or credit loss reserves may result.In addition, increased prepayments are generally associated with decreasing market interest rates as borrowers are able to refinance their mortgages at lower rates. Therefore, increased prepayments on our investments may accelerate the redeployment of our capital to generally lower yielding investments. Similarly, decreased prepayments are generally associated with increasing market interest rates and may slow our ability to redeploy capital to generally higher-yielding investments.Item 4.Â Controls and ProceduresÂ (a)Â Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and ProceduresÂ Management, under the direction of its Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, is responsible for maintaining disclosure controls and procedures (as defined in RulesÂ 13a-15(e)Â and 15d-15(e)Â under the Exchange Act) that are designed to ensure that information required to be disclosed in reports filed or submitted under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in SEC rulesÂ and forms and that such information is accumulated and communicated to management, including the Companyâ€™s Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer, to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosures.Â In connection with the preparation of this Quarterly Report on FormÂ 10-Q, management reviewed and evaluated the Companyâ€™s disclosure controls and procedures.Â The evaluation was performed under the direction of the Companyâ€™s Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer to determine the effectiveness, as of JuneÂ 30, 2024, of the design and operation of the Companyâ€™s disclosure controls and procedures.Â Based on that review and evaluation, the Chief Executive Officer and the Chief Financial Officer have concluded that the Companyâ€™s current disclosure controls and procedures, as designed and implemented, were effective as of JuneÂ 30, 2024. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a control system, no matter how well designed, implemented and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurance that it will detect or uncover failures within the Company to disclose material information otherwise required to be set forth in the Companyâ€™s current periodic reports. (b)Â Changes in Internal Control over Financial ReportingThere have been no changes in the Companyâ€™s internal control over financial reporting that occurred during the quarter ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 that materially affected, or are reasonably likely to materially affect, its internal control over financial reporting.

The Company's prior stock repurchase program, which was adopted in March 2022, had authorized the repurchase of up to $250Â million of the Companyâ€™s common stock and expired on December 31, 2023, with approximately $202.5Â million remaining available at the date of expiration. The new stock repurchase program supersedes the prior stock repurchase program in its entirety.The stock repurchase program does not require the purchase of any minimum number of shares. The timing and extent to which the Company repurchases its shares will depend upon, among other things, market conditions, share price, liquidity, regulatory requirements and other factors, and repurchases may be commenced or suspended at any time without prior notice. Acquisitions under the stock repurchase program may be made in the open market, through privately negotiated transactions or block trades or other means, in accordance with applicable securities laws (including, in the Companyâ€™s discretion, through the use of one or more plans adopted under Rule 10b5-1 promulgated under the Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the â€œExchange Actâ€)). At JuneÂ 30, 2024, $200Â million remained available under the current authorization for the purchase of our common stock under the stock repurchase program.We engaged in no share repurchase activity during the second quarter of 2024 pursuant to the stock repurchase program nor did we withhold shares (under the terms of grants under our Equity Compensation Plan (or Equity Plan)) to satisfy tax and payroll withholding obligations resulting from the vesting and settlement of restricted stock awards and/or restricted stock units (RSUs).Item 3.Â Defaults Upon Senior SecuritiesÂ None. In addition, estimates are used in the determination of taxable income used in the assessment of REIT compliance and contingent liabilities for related taxes, penalties and interest (see Note 8).Â Actual results could differ from those estimates.The consolidated financial statements of the Company include the accounts of all subsidiaries. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated. In addition, the Company consolidates entities established to facilitate transactions related to the acquisition and securitization of residential whole loans. Certain prior period amounts have been reclassified to conform to the current period presentation.(b)Â Residential Whole Loans (including Residential Whole Loans transferred to consolidated VIEs) Residential whole loans included in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets are primarily comprised of pools of fixed- and adjustable-rate residential mortgage loans acquired through consolidated trusts in secondary market transactions or originated by our wholly owned subsidiary, Lima One Holdings, LLC, the parent company of Lima One Capital, LLC (collectively referred to as â€œLima Oneâ€). The accounting model utilized by the Company is determined at the time each loan package is initially acquired or each loan is originated. Prior to the second quarter of 2021, the Company typically elected the fair value option on loans that were 60 or more days delinquent at purchase. All other loans purchased prior to the second quarter of 2021 were typically held at carrying value. Starting in the second quarter of 2021, the Company began to elect the fair value option for all loans originated or acquired. The accounting model initially applied to loan originations and acquisitions is not permitted to be subsequently changed. Consequently, the Company is not permitted to retroactively apply fair value accounting to loans held at carrying value acquired in periods prior to the second quarter of 2021.The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans pledged as collateral against financing agreements are included in the consolidated balance sheets with amounts pledged disclosed in Note 6.Â Effective January 1, 2024, purchases and sales of residential whole loans are recorded on settlement date. As of December 31, 2023, approximately $103.7Â million of purchased residential whole loans, at fair value were recorded on the consolidated balance sheet and settled after period-end.The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans are primarily comprised of: (i) loans to finance (or refinance) one-to-four family residential properties that are not considered to meet the definition of a â€œQualified Mortgageâ€ in accordance with guidelines adopted by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (â€œNon-QM loansâ€), (ii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by residential properties made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to rehabilitate or construct residential housing and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œSingle-family transitional loansâ€), (iii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by multifamily properties, typically with a loan balance below $10Â million, made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to moderately rehabilitate or stabilize and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œMultifamily transitional loansâ€) (collectively with Single-family transitional loans, â€œTransitional loans,â€ also sometimes referred to as â€œRehabilitation loansâ€ or â€œFix and Flip loansâ€), (iv) business purpose loans to finance (or refinance) non-owner occupied one-to-four family residential properties that are rented to one or more tenants (â€œSingle-family rental loansâ€ and, collectively with Transitional loans, â€œBusiness purpose loansâ€), (v) loans primarily secured by residential real estate that were generally either non-performing or re-performing at acquisition (â€œLegacy RPL/NPL loansâ€) and (vi) loans on investor properties that conform to the standards for purchase by a federally chartered corporation, such as the Federal National Mortgage Association (â€œFannie Maeâ€) or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (â€œFreddie Macâ€) (â€œAgency eligible investor loans,â€ which are included in â€œOther loansâ€). Residential whole loans are initially recorded at their purchase price (or amount funded for originated loans). Interest income is accrued based on each loanâ€™s current interest-bearing balance and current interest rate. Interest income on loans acquired at a premium/discount to par is recorded each period based on the contractual coupon net of any amortization of premium or accretion of discount, adjusted for actual prepayment activity. For loans acquired with related servicing rights retained by the seller, interest income is reported net of related servicing costs.For loans acquired prior to the second quarter of 2021 for which the fair value option was not elected, an allowance for credit losses is recorded at acquisition, and maintained on an ongoing basis, for all credit losses expected over the life of the respective loan. Any required credit loss allowance would reduce the net carrying value of the loan with a corresponding charge to earnings, and may increase or decrease over time. Significant judgments are required in determining any allowance for credit loss, including assumptions regarding the loan cash flows expected to be collected, the value of the underlying collateral and the ability of the Company to collect on any other forms of security, such as a personal guaranty provided either by the borrower or an affiliate of the borrower. Income recognition is suspended, and interest accruals are reversed against income, for loans at the earlier of the date on which payments become 90 days past due or when, in the opinion of management, a full recovery of income and principal becomes doubtful (i.e., such loans are placed on nonaccrual status). For nonaccrual loans, interest income is recorded when interest payments are received. Interest accruals are resumed when the loan becomes contractually current. A loan is written off when it is no longer realizable and/or it is legally discharged. Charge-offs to the allowance for loan losses occur when losses are confirmed through the receipt of cash or other consideration from the completion of a sale; when a modification or restructuring takes place in which we grant a concession to a borrower or agree to a discount in full or partial satisfaction of the loan; when we take ownership and control of the underlying collateral in full satisfaction of the loan; when loans are reclassified as other investments; or when significant collection efforts have ceased and it is highly likely that a loss has been realized. The aggregate allowance for credit losses is equal to the sum of the losses expected over the life of each respective loan. Expected losses are generally calculated based on the estimated probability of default and loss severity of loans in the portfolio, which involves projecting each loanâ€™s expected cash flows based on their contractual terms, expected prepayments, and estimated default and loss severity rates. The expected losses in these projected cash flows are not discounted. The default and severity rates were estimated based on the following steps: (i) obtained the Companyâ€™s historical experience through an entire economic cycle for each loan type or, to the extent the Company did not have sufficient historical loss experience for a given loan type, publicly available data derived from the historical loss experience of certain banks, which data the Company believes is generally representative of its portfolio, (ii) obtained historical economic data (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) over the same period, and (iii) estimated default and severity rates during three distinct future periods based on historical default and severity rates during periods when economic conditions similar to those forecasted were experienced. The default and severity rates were applied to the estimated amount of loans outstanding during each future period, based on contractual terms and expected prepayments. Expected prepayments are estimated based on historical experience and current and expected future economic conditions, including market interest rates. The three periods were as follows: (i) a one-year forecast of economic conditions based on U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation, followed by (ii) a two-year â€œreversionâ€ period during which economic conditions (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) are projected to revert to historical averages on a straight line basis, followed by (iii) the remaining life of each loan, during which period economic conditions (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) are projected to equal historical averages. In addition, a liability is established (and recorded in Other Liabilities) each period using a similar methodology for committed but undrawn loan amounts. The Company forecasts future economic conditions based on forecasts provided by an external preparer of economic forecasts, as well as its own knowledge of the market and its portfolio. The Company may consider multiple scenarios and select the one that it believes results in the most reasonable estimate of expected losses. The Company may apply qualitative adjustments to these results as further described in Note 3. For certain loans where foreclosure has been deemed to be probable, loss estimates are based on whether the value of the underlying collateral is sufficient to recover the carrying value of the loan. This methodology has not changed significantly from the calculation of the allowance for credit losses in prior periods, although certain modeling factors have been refined over time and the data utilized has, in some cases, been updated to better align with actual and expected loss experiences.Certain Legacy RPL/NPL loans acquired by the Company for which the Company did not elect the fair value option are accounted for as credit deteriorated, as they have experienced a deterioration in credit quality since origination and prior to our purchase and were acquired at discounted prices that reflect, in part, the impaired credit history of the borrower. Substantially all of these loans have previously experienced payment delinquencies and the amount owed may exceed the value of the property pledged as collateral. Consequently, these loans generally have a higher likelihood of default than newly originated mortgage loans with loan-to-value ratios (â€œLTVsâ€) of 80% or less to creditworthy borrowers. The Company believes that amounts paid to acquire these loans represent fair market value at the date of acquisition. Loans considered credit deteriorated are initially recorded at their purchase price on a net basis, after establishing an initial allowance for credit losses (their initial cost basis is equal to their purchase price plus the initial allowance for credit losses). Subsequent to acquisition, the gross recorded amount for these loans reflects the initial cost basis, plus accretion/amortization of interest income, less principal and interest cash flows received. These credit deteriorated loans are presented on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets at carrying value, which reflects the recorded cost basis reduced by any allowance for credit losses. Interest income on such loans purchased is recorded each period based on the contractual coupon net of accretion/amortization of the difference between their cost basis and unpaid principal balance (â€œUPBâ€), subject to the Companyâ€™s nonaccrual policy.Loans Held-for-SaleFor loans for which the fair value option was not elected, once a decision has been made to sell loans previously classified as held for investment, such loans are considered held-for-sale and are carried at the lower of cost or fair value. Residential Whole Loans at Fair ValueCertain of the Companyâ€™s residential whole loans are presented at fair value on its consolidated balance sheets as a result of a fair value election made at the time of acquisition or origination. The Company generally considers accounting for these loans at fair value to be more reflective of the expected pattern of returns from these loans under current economic conditions. The Company determines the fair value of its residential whole loans held at fair value after considering portfolio valuations obtained from third-parties that specialize in providing valuations of residential mortgage loans and trading activity observed in the marketplace. Subsequent changes in fair value are reported in current period earnings and presented in Net (loss)/gain on residential whole loans measured at fair value through earnings on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Interest income is recorded on these loans based on their yield and is presented as part of interest income in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Cash outflows associated with loan-related advances made by the Company on behalf of the borrower are included in the basis of the loan and are reflected in unrealized gains or losses reported each period. Income and costs associated with originating loans on which the fair value option was elected are recorded in other income and expense, respectively, in the period in which they are earned or incurred.(c)Â Securities, at Fair Value Residential Mortgage SecuritiesÂ The Company has invested in residential mortgage-backed securities (â€œMBSâ€) that are issued or guaranteed as to principal and/or interest by a federally chartered corporation, such as Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac, or an agency of the U.S. Government, such as the Government National Mortgage Association (â€œGinnie Maeâ€) (collectively, â€œAgency MBSâ€), and residential MBS that are not guaranteed by any agency of the U.S. Government or any federally chartered corporation (â€œNon-Agency MBSâ€). In addition, the Company has investments in credit risk transfer (â€œCRTâ€) securities that are issued by or sponsored by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. The coupon payments on CRT securities are paid by the issuer and the principal payments received are dependent on the performance of loans in either a reference pool or an actual pool of loans. As the loans in the underlying pool are paid, the principal balance of the CRT securities is paid. As an investor in a CRT security, the Company may incur a principal loss if the performance of the actual or reference pool loans results in either an actual or calculated loss that exceeds the credit enhancement of the security owned by the Company. Term Notes Backed by Mortgage Servicing Rights (â€œMSRâ€) Collateral The Company has invested in term notes that are issued by special purpose vehicles (â€œSPVâ€) that have acquired rights to receive cash flows representing the servicing fees and/or excess servicing spread associated with certain MSRs. The Company considers payment of principal and interest on these term notes to be largely dependent on the cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs as this impacts the cash flows available to the SPV that issued the term notes. Credit risk borne by the holders of the term notes is also mitigated by structural credit support in the form of over-collateralization. Credit support is also provided by a corporate guarantee from the ultimate parent or sponsor of the SPV that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs are insufficient.DesignationÂ Securities that the Company generally intends to hold until maturity, but that it may sell from time to time as part of the overall management of its business, are designated as AFS. Such securities, which include term notes backed by MSR collateral and certain CRT securities, are carried at their fair value with unrealized gains and losses excluded from earnings (except when an allowance for loan losses is recognized, as discussed below) and reported in accumulated other comprehensive income/(loss) (â€œAOCIâ€), a component of Stockholdersâ€™ Equity.Â Upon the sale of an AFS security, any unrealized gain or loss is reclassified out of AOCI to earnings as a realized gain or loss using the specific identification method.The Company has elected the fair value option for its Agency and Non-Agency MBS and certain of its CRT securities. These securities are carried at their fair value with changes in fair value included in earnings for the period and reported in Other Income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.Revenue Recognition, Premium Amortization and Discount AccretionÂ Interest income on securities is accrued based on their outstanding principal balance and their contractual terms. Premiums and discounts associated with MBS assessed as high credit quality at the time of purchase are amortized into interest income over the life of such securities using the effective yield method. Adjustments to premium amortization are made for actual prepayment activity. Premiums and discounts associated with MBS not assessed as high credit quality at the time of purchase are amortized into interest income over the life of such securities using the effective yield method based upon current expected future cash flows. Any adjustment to yield is made on a prospective basis. Â Determination of Fair Value for SecuritiesÂ In determining the fair value of the Companyâ€™s residential mortgage securities, management considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services, brokers and repurchase agreement counterparties, dialogue with market participants, as well as managementâ€™s observations of market activity (see Note 13). For term notes backed by MSR collateral, other factors taken into consideration include estimated changes in fair value of the related underlying MSR collateral, as applicable, and the financial performance of the ultimate parent or sponsoring entity of the issuer, which has provided a guarantee that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the related underlying MSR collateral are insufficient. Â Allowance for Credit LossesWhen the fair value of an AFS security is less than its amortized cost at the balance sheet date, the security is considered impaired.Â The Company assesses its impaired securities, as well as securities for which a credit loss allowance had been previously recorded, on at least a quarterly basis and determines whether any changes to the allowance for credit losses are required.Â If the Company intends to sell an impaired security, or it is more likely than not that it will be required to sell the impaired security before its anticipated recovery, then the Company must recognize a write-down through charges to earnings equal to the entire difference between the investmentâ€™s amortized cost and its fair value at the balance sheet date.Â If the Company does not expect to sell an impaired security, only the portion of the impairment related to credit losses is recognized through a loss allowance charged to earnings with the remainder recognized through AOCI on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets.Â Impairments recognized through other comprehensive income/(loss) (â€œOCIâ€) do not impact earnings.Â Credit loss allowances are subject to reversal through earnings resulting from improvements in expected cash flows. The determination as to whether to record (or reverse) a credit loss allowance is subjective, as such determinations are based on factual information available at the time of assessment as well as the Companyâ€™s estimates of future performance and cash flow projections.Â As a result, the timing and amount of losses constitute material estimates that are susceptible to significant change (see Note 4).Balance Sheet PresentationÂ The Companyâ€™s securities pledged as collateral against financing agreements and interest rate swap agreements (â€œSwapsâ€) are included on the consolidated balance sheets with the fair value of the securities pledged disclosed in Notes 6 and 5, respectively.Â Purchases and sales of securities are recorded on the trade date.Â (d)Â Cash and Cash Equivalents Â Cash and cash equivalents include cash on deposit with financial institutions and investments in money market funds, all of which have original maturities of three months or less.Â Cash and cash equivalents may also include cash pledged as collateral to the Company by its financing counterparties as a result of reverse margin calls (i.e., margin calls made by the Company).Â The Company did not hold any cash pledged by its counterparties at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had cash and cash equivalents of $289.4 million and $318.0 million, respectively. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had $148.7 million and $151.3 million, respectively, of investments in overnight money market funds, which are not bank deposits and are not insured or guaranteed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (â€œFDICâ€) or any other government agency. In addition, deposits in FDIC insured accounts generally exceed insured limits (see Notes 6 and 13).Â (e)Â Restricted Cash Â Restricted cash primarily represents the Companyâ€™s cash collections held in connection with certain of the Companyâ€™s financing agreements, Swaps, consolidated securitization trusts and/or loan servicing activities that are not available to the Company for general corporate purposes. Restricted cash may be applied against amounts due to financing agreements, Swap counterparties and/or trust obligations or may be returned to the Company when the related collateral requirements are exceeded or at the maturity of financing agreements, Swaps and/or securitizations.Â The Company had aggregate restricted cash of $252.0 million and $170.2 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively (see Notes 5(e), 6 and 13). (f)Â Goodwill & Intangible Assets Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had goodwill of $61.1 million, which represents the excess of the fair value of consideration paid over the fair value of net assets acquired in connection with the acquisition of Lima One, and other intangible assets of $6.4 million and $8.0 million, respectively (net of amortization), primarily comprised of customer relationships, non-competition agreements (fully amortized as of June 30, 2022), trademarks and trade names, and internally developed software recognized as part of the acquisition of Lima One (see Note 5(b)). The intangible assets are amortized over their expected useful lives, which ranged from one to ten years at acquisition. Goodwill, which is not subject to amortization, and intangible assets are tested for impairment at least annually, or more frequently under certain circumstances that could reduce the fair value of the Lima One reporting unit (a component of the Lima One segment) below its carrying amount. Through JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company had not recognized any impairment against its goodwill or intangible assets. Goodwill and intangible assets are included in Other assets on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets.(g) Real Estate Owned (â€œREOâ€) Â REO represents real estate acquired by the Company, including through foreclosure, deed in lieu of foreclosure, or purchased in connection with the acquisition of residential whole loans. REO acquired through foreclosure or deed in lieu of foreclosure is initially recorded at fair value less estimated selling costs. REO acquired in connection with the acquisition of residential whole loans is initially recorded at its purchase price. Subsequent to acquisition, REO is reported, at each reporting date, at the lower of the current carrying amount or fair value less estimated selling costs and for presentation purposes is included in Other assets on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets. Changes in fair value that result in an adjustment to the reported amount of an REO property that has a fair value at or below its carrying amount are reported in Other Income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations (see Note 5).(h)Â Leases and Depreciation Â LeasesThe Company records its operating lease liabilities and operating lease right-of-use assets on its consolidated balance sheets. The operating lease liabilities are equal to the present value of the remaining fixed lease payments (excluding real estate tax and operating expense escalations) discounted at the Companyâ€™s estimated incremental borrowing rate at the date of lease commencement, and the operating lease right-of-use assets are equal to the operating lease liabilities adjusted for lease incentives and initial direct costs. As lease payments are made, the operating lease liabilities are reduced to the present value of the remaining lease payments and the operating lease right-of-use assets are reduced by the difference between the lease expense (straight-lined over the lease term) and the theoretical interest expense amount (calculated using the incremental borrowing rate at the date of lease commencement). See Notes 5 and 9 for further discussion on leases.Leasehold Improvements, Real estate and Other Depreciable AssetsÂ Depreciation is computed on the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the related assets or, in the case of leasehold improvements, over the shorter of the useful life or the lease term.Â Furniture, fixtures, computers and related hardware have estimated useful lives ranging from five to fifteen years at the time of purchase.Â (i)Â Loan Securitization and Other Debt Issuance Costs Â Loan securitization related costs are costs associated with the issuance of beneficial interests by consolidated VIEs and incurred by the Company in connection with various financing transactions completed by the Company.Â These costs may include underwriting, rating agency, legal, accounting, diligence, bank and other fees.Â Such costs, which reflect deferred charges (unless the debt is recorded at fair value, as discussed below), are included on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets as a direct deduction from the corresponding debt liability. These deferred charges are amortized as an adjustment to interest expense using the effective interest method. For certain financing agreements, such costs are amortized over the shorter of the period to the expected or stated legal maturity of the debt instruments. The Company periodically reviews the recoverability of these deferred costs and, in the event an impairment charge is required, such amount will be included in Operating and Other Expense on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. To the extent that the Company has elected the fair value option for the related debt liability, these costs are expensed at the closing of the transaction.(j)Â Financing Agreements The Company finances the majority of its residential mortgage assets with financing agreements that include securitized debt, repurchase agreements and other forms of collateralized financing.Â Under repurchase agreements, the Company sells assets to a lender and agrees to repurchase the same assets in the future for a price that is higher than the original sale price.Â The difference between the sale price that the Company receives and the repurchase price that the Company pays represents interest paid to the lender.Â Although legally structured as sale and repurchase transactions, the Company accounts for repurchase agreements as secured borrowings. Under its repurchase agreements and other forms of collateralized financing, the Company pledges its assets as collateral to secure the borrowing, in an amount which is equal to a specified percentage of the fair value of the pledged collateral, while the Company retains beneficial ownership of the pledged collateral.Â At the maturity of a repurchase financing, unless the repurchase financing is renewed with the same counterparty, the Company is required to repay the loan including any accrued interest and concurrently receives back its pledged collateral from the lender.Â With the consent of the lender, the Company may renew a repurchase financing at the then prevailing financing terms.Â Margin calls, whereby a lender requires that the Company pledge additional assets or cash as collateral to secure borrowings under its repurchase financing with such lender, are routinely experienced by the Company when the value of the assets pledged as collateral declines as a result of principal amortization and prepayments or due to changes in market interest rates, spreads or other market conditions.Â The Company also may make margin calls on counterparties when collateral values increase.Â Should a counterparty decide not to renew a financing arrangement at maturity, the Company must either refinance elsewhere or be in a position to satisfy the obligation.Â If, during the term of a financing, a lender should default on its obligation, the Company might experience difficulty recovering its pledged assets which could result in an unsecured claim against the lender for the difference between the amount loaned to the Company plus interest due to the counterparty and the fair value of the collateral pledged by the Company to such lender, including accrued interest receivable on such collateral (see Notes 6 and 13).Â The Company has elected the fair value option on certain of its financing agreements. These agreements are reported at their fair value, with changes in fair value being recorded in earnings each period (or OCI, to the extent the change results from a change in instrument specific credit risk), as further detailed in Note 6. Interest expense on such financing agreements is recorded based on the current stated interest rate and outstanding principal balance in effect for the related agreement.(k)Â Equity-Based Compensation Â Compensation expense for equity-based awards that are subject to vesting conditions, is recognized ratably over the vesting period of such awards, based upon the fair value of such awards at the grant date.Â Â The Company has made annual grants of restricted stock units (â€œRSUsâ€) under the Companyâ€™s Equity Compensation Plan (the â€œEquity Planâ€), certain of which cliff vest after a three-year period, subject only to continued employment, and others of which cliff vest after a three-year period, subject to both continued employment and the achievement of certain performance criteria based on a formula tied to the Companyâ€™s achievement of average total shareholder return (â€œTSRâ€) during that three-year period, as well as the TSR of the Company relative to the TSR of a group of peer companies (over the three-year period) selected by the Compensation Committee of the Companyâ€™s Board of Directors (the â€œCompensation Committeeâ€) at the date of grant. The features in these awards related to the attainment of TSR over a specified period constitute a â€œmarket condition,â€ which impacts the amount of compensation expense recognized for these awards.Â Specifically, the uncertainty regarding the achievement of the market condition was reflected in the grant date fair valuation of the RSUs, which is recognized as compensation expense over the relevant vesting period.Â The amount of compensation expense recognized is not dependent on whether the market condition was or will be achieved.(l)Â Earnings per Common Share (â€œEPSâ€) Â Basic EPS is computed using the two-class method, which includes the weighted-average number of shares of common stock outstanding during the period and an estimate of other securities that participate in dividends, if any, to arrive at total common equivalent shares.Â In applying the two-class method, earnings are allocated to both shares of common stock and estimated securities that participate in dividends based on their respective weighted-average shares outstanding for the period. In calculating basic EPS, no adjustment is made to income available to common stockholders for forfeitable dividends or dividend equivalents. For the diluted EPS calculation, common equivalent shares are further adjusted for the effect of RSUs outstanding that are unvested and have dividends that are subject to forfeiture, using the treasury stock method.Â Under the treasury stock method, common equivalent shares are calculated assuming that all dilutive common stock equivalents are exercised and the proceeds, along with future compensation expenses associated with such instruments (if any), are used to repurchase shares of the Companyâ€™s outstanding common stock at the average market price during the reported period.Â In addition, the Companyâ€™s 6.25% Convertible Senior Notes due 2024 (the â€œConvertible Senior Notesâ€) were included in the calculation of diluted EPS if the assumed conversion into common shares was dilutive, using the â€œif-convertedâ€ method until their maturity and repayment in full. This calculation involved adding back the periodic interest expense associated with the Convertible Senior Notes to the numerator and by adding the shares that would have been issued in an assumed conversion (regardless of whether the conversion option is in or out of the money) to the denominator for the purposes of calculating diluted EPS (see Note 11).Â (m)Â Comprehensive Income/(Loss) Â The Companyâ€™s comprehensive income/(loss) available to common stock and participating securities includes net income, the change in net unrealized gains/(losses) on its AFS securities and derivative hedging instruments (to the extent that such changes are not recorded in earnings), adjusted by realized net gains/(losses) reclassified out of AOCI for sold AFS securities and terminated hedging relationships, as well as the portion of unrealized gains/(losses) on its financing agreements held at fair value related to instrument-specific credit risk, and is reduced by dividends declared on the Companyâ€™s preferred stock and issuance costs of redeemed preferred stock.Â (n)Â Derivative Financial Instruments Â The Company may use derivative instruments to economically hedge a portion of its exposure to market risks, including interest rate risk and prepayment risk. The objective of the Companyâ€™s risk management strategy is to reduce fluctuations in net book value over a range of interest rate scenarios. SwapsÂ The Company has entered into Swaps that are not designated as hedges for accounting purposes. Changes in the fair value of the Companyâ€™s Swaps not designated in hedging transactions are recorded in Other income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.To Be Announced (â€œTBAâ€) SecuritiesDuring 2021 and 2022, the Company entered into transactions to take short positions in TBA securities in connection with the management of interest rate and other market risks associated with purchases of Agency eligible investor loans. As the Company did not intend to physically settle its transactions in TBA securities, they were required to be accounted for as derivative financial instruments. The Company did not apply hedge accounting to its TBA securities. Accordingly, TBA securities were recorded on the Companyâ€™s balance sheets at fair value, with realized and unrealized changes in fair value each period recorded in Other income/(Loss), net in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.(o)Â Fair Value Measurements and the Fair Value Option for Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities Â The Companyâ€™s presentation of fair value for its financial assets and liabilities is determined within a framework that stipulates that the fair value of a financial asset or liability is an exchange price in an orderly transaction between market participants to sell the asset or transfer the liability in the market in which the reporting entity would transact for the asset or liability, that is, the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability.Â The transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability is a hypothetical transaction at the measurement date, considered from the perspective of a market participant that holds the asset or owes the liability.Â This definition of fair value focuses on exit price and prioritizes the use of market-based inputs over entity-specific inputs when determining fair value.Â In addition, the framework for measuring fair value establishes a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements based upon the observability of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability as of the measurement date.Â In addition to the financial instruments that it is required to report at fair value, the Company has elected the fair value option for certain of its financial assets and liabilities at the time of acquisition or issuance. Subsequent changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are generally reported in Other income/(Loss), net, in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. A decision to elect the fair value option for an eligible financial instrument, which may be made on an instrument by instrument basis, is irrevocable (see Notes 2(b), 2(c), 3, 4, and 13).(p)Â Variable Interest Entities Â An entity is referred to as a VIE if it meets at least one of the following criteria:Â (i)Â the entity has equity that is insufficient to permit the entity to finance its activities without the additional subordinated financial support of other parties; or (ii)Â as a group, the holders of the equity investment at risk lack (a)Â the power to direct the activities of an entity that most significantly impact the entityâ€™s economic performance; (b)Â the obligation to absorb the expected losses; or (c)Â the right to receive the expected residual returns; or (iii)Â the holders of the equity investment at risk have disproportional voting rights and the entityâ€™s activities are conducted on behalf of the investor that has disproportionately few voting rights.Â The Company consolidates a VIE when it has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the economic performance of the VIE and a right to receive benefits or absorb losses of the entity that could be potentially significant to the VIE.Â Â The Company is required to reconsider its evaluation of whether to consolidate a VIE each reporting period, based upon changes in the facts and circumstances pertaining to the VIE.Â The Company has entered into several financing transactions which resulted in the Company forming entities to facilitate these transactions.Â In determining the accounting treatment to be applied to these transactions, the Company concluded that the entities used to facilitate these transactions are VIEs and that they should be consolidated.Â If the Company had determined that consolidation was not required, it would have then assessed whether the transfers of the underlying assets would qualify as sales or should be accounted for as secured financings under GAAP (see Note 14).The Company also includes on its consolidated balance sheets certain financial assets and liabilities that are acquired/issued by trusts and/or other special purpose entities that have been evaluated as being required to be consolidated by the Company under the applicable accounting guidance.The Company has an investment in a VIE, in which it is not considered to be the primary beneficiary and therefore is not consolidated, but is considered an equity method investment. The VIE owns a newly constructed industrial property as further described in Note 5.(q)Â Offering Costs Related to Issuance and Redemption of Preferred Stock Offering costs related to the issuance of preferred stock are recorded as a reduction in Additional paid-in capital, a component of Stockholdersâ€™ Equity, at the time such preferred stock is issued. On redemption of preferred stock, any excess of the fair value of the consideration transferred to the holders of the preferred stock over the carrying amount of the preferred stock in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets is included in the determination of Net Income Available to Common Stock and Participating Securities in the calculation of EPS. (r) ContingenciesLima One has reached agreement, or is in the process of reaching agreement, on certain state and local governmental incentives, in connection with its agreement to lease new office space for its headquarters in Greenville, SC based on certain anticipated capital expenditures and anticipated job creation. These incentives are generally recognized when there is reasonable assurance that the incentive will be received and that the Company will comply with the conditions specified in the related agreement. These incentives have commitment terms of up to ten years and may be subject to clawback if the commitments are not fulfilled. No material amounts related to any incentives have been recognized through JuneÂ 30, 2024.(s)Â New Accounting Standards and Interpretations As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, there were no new accounting standards or interpretations adopted by the Company that had a material effect on its consolidated financial statements in 2024. The Company has assessed that these entities are required to be consolidated for financial reporting purposes. Starting in the second quarter of 2021, the Company elected the fair value option for all loan acquisitions, including loans originated by Lima One subsequent to its acquisition by the Company. Prior to the second quarter of 2021, the fair value option was typically elected only for loans that were 60 or more days delinquent at purchase.The following table presents the components of the Companyâ€™s Residential whole loans, and the accounting model designated at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023: Held at Carrying ValueHeld at Fair ValueTotal(Dollars inÂ Thousands)June 30,2024December 31, 2023June 30,2024December 31, 2023June 30,2024December 31, 2023Business purpose loans:Single-family transitional loans (1)$27,857Â $35,467Â $1,190,699Â $1,157,732Â $1,218,556Â $1,193,199Â Multifamily transitional loansâ€”Â â€”Â 1,155,198Â 1,168,297Â 1,155,198Â 1,168,297Â Single-family rental loans (2)129,471Â 172,213Â 1,514,219Â 1,462,583Â 1,643,690Â 1,634,796Â Total Business purpose loans$157,328Â $207,680Â $3,860,116Â $3,788,612Â $4,017,444Â $3,996,292Â Non-QM loans791,746Â 843,884Â 3,203,845Â 2,961,693Â 3,995,591Â 3,805,577Â Legacy RPL/NPL loans477,826Â 498,671Â 655,230Â 705,424Â 1,133,056Â 1,204,095Â Other loansâ€”Â â€”Â 53,416Â 55,779Â 53,416Â 55,779Â Allowance for Credit Losses(13,271)(20,451)â€”Â â€”Â (13,271)(20,451)Total Residential whole loans$1,413,629Â $1,529,784Â $7,772,607Â $7,511,508Â $9,186,236Â $9,041,292Â Number of loans5,973Â 6,326Â 19,848Â 19,075Â 25,821Â 25,401Â (1)Includes $476.9Â million and $471.1Â million of loans collateralized by new construction projects at origination as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively.(2) As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, no loans were held-for-sale and as of December 31, 2023, $13.6Â million of held-for sale loans were included in the carrying value. For loans acquired with servicing rights released by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation do not reflect loan servicing fees. For loans acquired with servicing rights retained by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation are net of servicing fees. (2)LTV represents the ratio of the total unpaid principal balance of the loan to the estimated value of the collateral securing the related loan as of the most recent date available, which may be the origination date. Excluded from the calculation of weighted average LTV are certain low value loans secured by vacant lots, for which the LTV ratio is not meaningful. 60+ LTV has been calculated on a consistent basis. (3)Excludes loans for which no Fair Isaac Corporation (â€œFICOâ€) score is available. (4)For Single-family and Multifamily transitional loans, the LTV presented is the ratio of the maximum unpaid principal balance of the loan, including unfunded commitments, to the estimated â€œafter repairedâ€ value of the collateral securing the related loan, where available. For certain Single-family transitional loans, totaling $467.2 million and $332.5 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively, and certain Multifamily transitional loans, totaling $498.7 million and $218.8 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively, an after repaired valuation was not available. For these loans, the weighted average LTV is calculated based on the current unpaid principal balance and the as-is value of the collateral securing the related loan.(5)Excluded from the table above are approximately $103.7 million of Residential whole loans, at fair value for which the closing of the purchase transaction had not occurred as of DecemberÂ 31, 2023. During the three months ended March 31, 2024, Non-QM and Single-family rental loans with an unpaid principal balance of $171.0Â million were sold, realizing losses, before the impact of economic hedging gains and the reversal of previously recognized unrealized losses, of $21.7Â million. Upon sale, the Company reversed $23.7Â million of previously recognized unrealized losses, resulting in a net gain of $2.0Â million during the first quarter of 2024. During the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, Residential whole loans with an unpaid principal balance of $12.4Â million were sold, realizing gains, before the impact of economic hedging and the reversal of previously recognized unrealized gains, of $0.4Â million. Upon sale, the Company reversed $0.2Â million of previously recognized unrealized gains, resulting in a net gain of $0.2Â million during the second quarter of 2024. No Residential whole loans were sold during the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023. Such allowance is included in â€œOther liabilitiesâ€ in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets (see Note 7).(2)Includes $20.4 million and $35.2Â million of loans that were assessed for credit losses based on a collateral dependent methodology as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.(3)Includes $44.4 million and $55.5Â million of loans that were assessed for credit losses based on a collateral dependent methodology as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively.Prior to December 31, 2023, the Companyâ€™s estimates of expected losses that form the basis of the Allowance for Credit Losses included certain qualitative adjustments which had the effect of increasing expected loss estimates. These qualitative adjustments were determined based on a variety of factors, including differences between the Companyâ€™s loan portfolio and the loan portfolios represented by data available in regulatory filings of certain banks that are considered to have similar loan portfolios (available proxy data), and differences between current (and expected future) market conditions in comparison to market conditions that occurred in historical periods. Such differences included uncertainty with respect to any residual impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, anticipated inflation and increasing market interest rates, and heightened political uncertainty. The Companyâ€™s estimates of credit losses reflect the Companyâ€™s expectation that the performance of its portfolio may experience higher delinquencies and defaults compared to the performance in historical periods of portfolios included in the available proxy data. During 2023, the Company eliminated its qualitative adjustment and made updates to certain of its modeling assumptions which, in addition to a reduction in loan balances subject to allowances, caused a reduction in the overall allowance. Estimates of credit losses under credit losses on financial instruments (â€œCECLâ€) are highly sensitive to changes in assumptions and current economic conditions have increased the difficulty of accurately forecasting future conditions.The carrying value of Residential whole loans on nonaccrual status as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 was $602.0 million and $624.1 million, respectively. During the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company recognized $3.0Â million and $6.3Â million of interest income on loans on nonaccrual status, including $2.0Â million on its portfolio of loans which were non-performing at acquisition. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, there were approximately $46.7 million and $51.6Â million, respectively, of loans held at carrying value on nonaccrual status that did not have an associated allowance for credit losses because they were determined to be collateral dependent and the estimated fair value of the related collateral exceeded the carrying value of each loan, respectively. During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company did not grant any loan modification in its carrying value loan portfolio which gave a borrower a term extension. During the past 12 months, the Company has granted three loan modifications in its carrying value loan portfolio which gave borrowers term extensions. The average increase in weighted average life was twenty-eight months. As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, the carrying value of these loans was approximately $0.5Â million, and three of these modifications were delinquent for 90 or more days. Payment of principal and interest on these term notes is considered to be largely dependent on cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs, as this impacts the cash flows available to the SPV that issued the term notes. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, these term notes had an amortized cost of $49.5 million, gross unrealized gains of approximately $4.8 million, a weighted average yield of 14.5% and a weighted average term to maturity of 1.34 years. At DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the term notes had an amortized cost of $74.2 million, gross unrealized gains of approximately $5.7 million, a weighted average yield of 17.0% and a weighted average term to maturity of 1.84 years. The issuer of the notes had a one-time option to extend the maturity of the notes for an additional two years, subject to satisfaction of certain conditions, which was exercised in October 2023. The coupon stepped up by 0.75% at the time of the extension.CRT SecuritiesCRT securities are debt obligations issued by or sponsored by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. The coupon payments on CRT securities are paid by the issuer and the principal payments received are dependent on the performance of loans in either a reference pool or an actual pool of loans. At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had $84.6 million and $83.2 million, respectively, of CRT securities. As an investor in a CRT security, the Company may incur a principal loss if the performance of the actual or reference pool loans results in either an actual or calculated loss that exceeds the credit enhancement of the security owned by the Company. The Company assesses the credit risk associated with its investments in CRT securities by assessing the current and expected future performance of the associated loan pool. The Company pledges a portion of its CRT securities as collateral against its borrowings under repurchase agreements (see Note 6).Non-Agency MBSNon-Agency MBS are primarily secured by pools of residential mortgages, which are not guaranteed by an agency of the U.S. Government or any federally chartered corporation. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had $23.1Â million and $23.8Â million, respectively, of Non-Agency MBS. These securities were acquired on the de-consolidation of certain trusts that held previously securitized Agency Eligible investor loans.The following tables present certain information about the Companyâ€™s Agency MBS and other Securities, at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023:Â JuneÂ 30, 2024(InÂ Thousands)Principal/ CurrentFacePurchasePremiumsAccretablePurchaseDiscountsDiscountDesignated as Credit Reserve (1)Gross AmortizedCostGrossUnrealizedGainsGrossUnrealizedLossesNetUnrealizedGain/(Loss)FairÂ ValueAgency MBS$703,955Â $2,403Â (480)â€”Â $705,878Â $2,060Â $(6,625)$(4,565)$701,313Â Other Securities (2)(3)(4)161,988Â 16,041Â (5,587) (31,514)140,928Â 21,476Â (428)21,048Â 161,976Â Total residential mortgage securities (2)(3) (4)$865,943Â $18,444Â $(6,067)$(31,514)$846,806Â $23,536Â $(7,053)$16,483Â $863,289Â DecemberÂ 31, 2023(InÂ Thousands)Principal/ CurrentFacePurchasePremiumsAccretablePurchaseDiscountsDiscountDesignated as Credit Reserve (1)Gross AmortizedCostGrossUnrealizedGainsGrossUnrealizedLossesNetUnrealizedGain/(Loss)FairÂ ValueAgency MBS$554,300Â $1,824Â (500)â€”Â $555,624Â $4,355Â (835)3,520Â $559,144Â Other Securities (2)(3)(4)193,102Â 19,686Â (5,637) (40,514)166,637Â 20,437Â (128)20,309Â 186,946Â Total residential mortgage securities (2)(3) (4)$747,402Â $21,510Â $(6,137)$(40,514)$722,261Â $24,792Â (963)23,829Â $746,090Â (1)Discount designated as Credit Reserve is generally not expected to be accreted into interest income.(2)Based on managementâ€™s current estimates of future principal cash flows expected to be received. During the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, the Company sold 95 and 194 REO properties for consideration of $31.7 million and $65.5 million, realizing net gains of approximately $4.0 million and $9.0 million, respectively. These amounts are included in Other Income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Commercial REOIn December 2023, the Company received a 75% interest in an entity which owns a newly constructed industrial property as part of the negotiated settlement of a delinquent commercial mortgage loan. The entity was determined to be a VIE but the Company was not determined to be the primary beneficiary; as a result, the investment in the entity is considered an equity method investment. During the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company recorded a $0.2Â million and $0.7Â million loss, respectively, based on updated valuations of the property, which the Company entered into an agreement to sell in May 2024. The entity accounts for this commercial REO similarly to the manner in which the Company accounts for its residential REO. The entity does not own any other significant assets or carry any significant liabilities and the property is currently vacant and considered held-for-sale.(b) Goodwill and Intangible Assets On July 1, 2021, the Company completed the acquisition of Lima One. In connection with the acquisition of Lima One, the Company identified and recorded goodwill of $61.1Â million and finite-lived intangible assets totaling $28.0Â million.The amortization period for each of the finite lived intangible assets and the activity for the six months ended June 30, 2024 is summarized in the table below:(Dollars inÂ Thousands)Carrying Value at December 31, 2023Amortization Six Months Ended June 30, 2024Carrying Value at June 30, 2024Amortization Period (Years) (1)Trademarks / Trade Names$3,000Â (200)2,800Â 10Customer Relationships3,000Â (1,000)2,000Â 4Internally Developed Software2,000Â (400)1,600Â 5Total Identified Intangibles$8,000Â $(1,600)$6,400Â (1) Amortization is calculated on a straight-line basis over the amortization period, except for Customer Relationships, where amortization is calculated based on expected levels of customer attrition. (c) Capital Contributions Made to Loan Origination Partners The Company has made investments in several loan originators as part of its strategy to be a reliable source of capital to select partners from whom the Company sources residential mortgage loans through both flow arrangements and bulk purchases. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the carrying value of these investments (including adjustments for impairments or mark-to-market changes) was $18.3 million, including $3.2 million of common equity (including partnership interests) and $15.1 million of preferred equity.During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, there were no impairment charges recorded by the Company on its investments in loan origination partners. For certain of the Companyâ€™s investments, the interests acquired to date by the Company generally do not have a readily determinable fair value. Consequently, the Company accounts for these interests (including any acquired options and warrants) in loan originators initially at cost. The carrying value of these investments will be adjusted if it is determined that an impairment has occurred or if there has been a subsequent observable transaction in either the investee companyâ€™s equity securities or a similar security that provides evidence to support an adjustment to the carrying value. In addition, for certain partners, options or warrants have also been acquired that provide the Company the ability to increase the level of its investment if certain conditions are met. At the end of each reporting period, or earlier if circumstances warrant, the Company evaluates whether the nature of its interests and other involvement with the investee entity requires the Company to apply equity method accounting or consolidate the results of the investee entity with the Companyâ€™s financial results. (d) Commercial Mortgage LoansThe Company owns a portfolio of participations in commercial mortgage bridge loans, which are accounted for at fair value under the fair value option, and are classified as Level 3 fair value measurements in the fair value hierarchy. The participations range from 49% to 75% of the total UPB of the related loans; the remaining interest in each loan was retained by the originator of such loan. The commercial mortgage loans are predominantly collateralized by multifamily properties; the collateral also includes one senior living property and one office property. The commercial mortgage loans are generally first liens and bear variable interest rates. The Company received an interest in one of the underlying properties in the fourth quarter of 2023, as further described above under â€œCommercial REO.â€The following table presents certain additional information about the Companyâ€™s commercial mortgage loans as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023:(Dollars InÂ Thousands)Fair Value / Carrying ValueUPBWeighted Average CouponWeighted Average Term to Maturity (Months)UPB 60+ Days DelinquentWeighted Average LTV RatioCommercial Loans - June 30, 2024$44,954Â $46,633Â 13.29Â %1$39,227Â 65Â %Commercial Loans - December 31, 2023$51,426Â $51,602Â 13.18Â %2$3,521Â 66Â %(e) Derivative Instruments Â SwapsThe Companyâ€™s derivative instruments include Swaps, which are used to economically hedge the interest rate risk associated with certain borrowings. Pursuant to these arrangements, the Company agreed to pay a fixed rate of interest and receive a variable interest rate, generally based on the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (â€œSOFRâ€), on the notional amount of the Swap. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, none of the Companyâ€™s Swaps were designated as hedges for accounting purposes.Variation margin payments on the Companyâ€™s Swaps are treated as a legal settlement of the exposure under the related Swap contract, the effect of which reduces what would have otherwise been reported as the fair value of the Swap, generally to zero. Financing agreements held at fair value are reported at estimated fair value each period as a result of the Companyâ€™s fair value option election. The fair value option was not elected for financing agreements held at carrying value. Consequently, total financing agreements as presented reflects a summation of balances reported at fair and carrying value. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company had $290.2Â million of agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, $377.3Â million of agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, and $4.4Â billion of securitized debt held at fair value, with amortized cost bases of $290.2Â million, $377.3Â million, and $4.5Â billion, respectively. At DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had $178.9Â million of agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, $469.4Â million of agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, and $4.0Â billion of securitized debt held at fair value, with amortized cost bases of $178.9Â million, $469.4Â million, and $4.1Â billion, respectively. (2)Weighted average cost of funding reflects annualized quarter-to-date interest expense (inclusive of the amortization of deferred financing costs) divided by average balance for the financing agreements. The cost of funding for the total financing agreements includes the impact of the net carry (the difference between swap interest income received and swap interest expense paid) on the Companyâ€™s Swaps. For the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, this decreased the overall funding cost by 127 basis points, and for the three months ended DecemberÂ 31, 2023, this decreased the overall funding cost by 140 basis points. The Company does not allocate the impact of the net carry by type of financing agreement. The Company expects to operate in a manner that will enable it to satisfy the various requirements to maintain its status as a REIT for federal income tax purposes. In order to maintain its status as a REIT, the Company must, among other things, distribute at least 90% of its REIT taxable income (excluding net long-term capital gains) to stockholders in the timeframe permitted by the Code. As long as the Company maintains its status as a REIT, the Company will not be subject to regular federal income tax at the REIT level to the extent that it distributes 100% of its REIT taxable income (including net long-term capital gains) to its stockholders within the permitted timeframe. Should this not occur, the Company would be subject to federal taxes at prevailing corporate tax rates on the difference between its REIT taxable income and the amounts deemed to be distributed for that tax year. The Companyâ€™s objective is to distribute 100% of its REIT taxable income to its stockholders within the permitted timeframe. If the Company fails to distribute during each calendar year, or by the end of January following the calendar year in the case of distributions with declaration and record dates falling in the last three months of the calendar year, at least the sum of (i) 85% of its REIT ordinary income for such year, (ii) 95% of its REIT capital gain income for such year, and (iii) any undistributed taxable income from prior periods, the Company would be subject to a 4% nondeductible excise tax on the excess of the required distribution over the amounts actually distributed. To the extent that the Company incurs interest, penalties or related excise taxes in connection with its tax obligations, including as a result of its assessment of uncertain tax positions, such amounts will be included in Operating and Other Expense on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.In addition, the Company has elected to treat certain of its subsidiaries as TRS. In general, a TRS may hold assets and engage in activities that the Company cannot hold or engage in directly and generally may engage in any real estate or non-real estate-related business. Generally, a domestic TRS is subject to U.S. federal, state and local corporate income taxes. Given that a portion of the Companyâ€™s business is conducted through one or more TRS, the net taxable income earned by its domestic TRS, if any, is subject to corporate income taxation. To maintain the Companyâ€™s REIT election, no more than 20% of the value of the Companyâ€™s assets at the end of each calendar quarter may consist of stock or securities in TRS. For purposes of the determination of U.S. federal and state income taxes, the Companyâ€™s subsidiaries that elected to be treated as TRS record current or deferred income taxes based on differences (both permanent and timing) between the determination of their taxable income and net income under GAAP.Based on its analysis of any potentially uncertain tax positions, the Company concluded that it does not have any material uncertain tax positions that meet the relevant recognition or measurement criteria as of JuneÂ 30, 2024, DecemberÂ 31, 2023 or JuneÂ 30, 2023. As of the date of this filing, the Companyâ€™s tax returns for tax years 2020 through 2022 are open to examination.The tax effects of temporary differences that give rise to significant portions of net deferred tax assets (â€œDTAsâ€) recorded at the Companyâ€™s domestic TRS entities at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 are presented in the following table:(In Thousands)June 30, 2024December 31, 2023Deferred tax assets (DTAs):Net operating loss and tax credit carryforwards$86,277Â $91,113Â Unrealized mark-to-market, impairments and loss provisions17,449Â 16,170Â Other realized / unrealized treatment differences(33,617) (34,923)Total deferred tax assets70,109Â 72,360Â Less: valuation allowance(70,109)(72,360)Net deferred tax assets$â€”Â $â€”Â Realization of the Companyâ€™s DTAs at JuneÂ 30, 2024 is dependent on several factors, including generating sufficient taxable income to utilize net operating loss (â€œNOLâ€) carryforwards and generating sufficient capital gains in future periods prior to the expiration of capital loss carryforwards. The Company determines the extent to which realization of the deferred assets is not expected to be more likely than not and establishes a valuation allowance accordingly.No net deferred tax benefit was recorded by the Company for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, related to the net taxable losses in TRS entities, since a valuation allowance for the full amount of the associated deferred tax asset at the ends of those periods was recognized as its recovery was not considered more likely than not. The related NOL carryforwards can be carried forward indefinitely, until fully utilized. The Companyâ€™s estimate of net DTAs could change in future periods to the extent that actual or revised estimates of future taxable income change from current expectations.At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Companyâ€™s federal NOL carryforward from prior years was $356.6 million, which may be carried forward indefinitely. If certain substantial changes in the Companyâ€™s ownership occur, there could be an annual limitation on the amount of the carryforwards that can be utilized. outstanding that were excluded from the calculation of diluted EPS for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, respectively as they were determined to be anti-dilutive.Â These equity instruments reflect RSUs (based on current estimate of expected share settlement amount) with a weighted average grant date fair value of $11.20. These equity instruments may have a dilutive impact on future EPS. Â During the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Convertible Senior Notes were determined to be anti-dilutive and were excluded from the calculation of diluted EPS under the â€œif-convertedâ€ method. Under this method, the periodic interest expense for dilutive notes is added back to the numerator and the weighted average number of shares that the notes are entitled to (if converted, regardless of whether the conversion option is in or out of the money) are included in the denominator for the purpose of calculating diluted EPS. There were 11,985 and 267,875 RSUs forfeited during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, respectively, and 27,413 and 204,574 RSUs forfeited during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, respectively. There were 129,949 and 58,505 RSUs surrendered to satisfy tax obligations during the six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023, respectively. All holders of RSUs outstanding at JuneÂ 30, 2024 may be entitled to receive dividend equivalent payments depending on the terms and conditions of the award either in cash at the time dividends are paid by the Company or at the time of settlement of the RSU award, or for performance-based RSU awards, as a grant of stock at the time such awards are settled.Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had unrecognized compensation expense of $12.7 million and $9.2 million, respectively, related to RSUs.Â The unrecognized compensation expense at JuneÂ 30, 2024, is expected to be recognized over a weighted average period of 2.0 years.Restricted StockÂ The Company did not grant any shares of restricted common stock during the six months ended June 30, 2024 and 2023. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company did not have any shares of restricted common stock outstanding.Dividend EquivalentsÂ A dividend equivalent is a right to receive a distribution equal to the dividend distributions that would be paid on a share of the Companyâ€™s common stock.Â Dividend equivalents may be granted as a separate instrument or may be a right associated with the grant of another award (e.g., an RSU) under the Equity Plan, and they are paid typically in cash or other consideration at such times and in accordance with such rules as the Compensation Committee of the Board shall determine in its discretion.Â Dividend equivalent payments are generally charged to Stockholdersâ€™ Equity when common stock dividends are declared to the extent that such equivalents are expected to vest.Â The Company made dividend equivalent payments associated with RSU awards of approximately $0.3 million and $1.7 million during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, respectively, and approximately $0.1Â million and $0.2Â million during the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2023, respectively. In addition, no dividend equivalents rights awarded as separate instruments were granted during the six months ended June 30, 2024 and 2023.Â Â Expense Recognized for Equity-Based Compensation InstrumentsÂ The following table presents the Companyâ€™s expenses related to its equity-based compensation instruments for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023:Three Months EndedJune 30,Six Months EndedJune 30,(InÂ Thousands)20242023202420232023RSUs$3,899Â $3,932Â $10,142Â $6,952Â Total$3,899Â $3,932Â $10,142Â $6,952Â (b)Â Deferred Compensation Plans Â The Company administers deferred compensation plans for its senior officers and non-employee directors (collectively, the â€œDeferred Plansâ€), pursuant to which participants may elect to defer up to 100% of certain cash compensation.Â The Deferred Plans are designed to align participantsâ€™ interests with those of the Companyâ€™s stockholders.Â Amounts deferred under the Deferred Plans are considered to be converted into â€œstock unitsâ€ of the Company.Â Stock units do not represent stock of the Company, but rather are a liability of the Company that changes in value as would equivalent shares of the Companyâ€™s common stock.Â Deferred compensation liabilities are settled in cash at the termination of the deferral period, based on the value of the stock units at that time.Â The Deferred Plans are non-qualified plans under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 and, as such, are not funded.Â Prior to the time that the deferred accounts are settled, participants are unsecured creditors of the Company.Â The Companyâ€™s liability for stock units in the Deferred Plans is based on the market price of the Companyâ€™s common stock at the measurement date.Â The following table presents the Companyâ€™s expenses (reversal) related to its Deferred Plans for the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 and 2023:Â Three Months EndedJune 30,Six Months EndedJune 30,(InÂ Thousands)20242023202420232023Non-employee directors(92)305Â $14Â $414Â Total$(92)$305Â $14Â $414Â Â The following table presents the aggregate amount of income deferred by participants of the Deferred Plans through JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 that had not been distributed and the Companyâ€™s associated liability for such deferrals at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023:Â June 30, 2024December 31, 2023(InÂ Thousands)Undistributed Income Deferred (1)Â Liability Under Deferred PlansUndistributed Income Deferred (1)Â Liability Under Deferred PlansNon-employee directors$2,644Â $2,446Â $2,611Â $2,404Â Total$2,644Â $2,446Â $2,611Â $2,404Â (1)Â Represents the cumulative amounts that were deferred by participants through JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, which had not been distributed through such respective date. A financial instrumentâ€™s categorization within the valuation hierarchy is based upon the lowest level of input that is significant to the fair value measurement.Â The three levels of valuation hierarchy are defined as follows:Â Level 1 â€” Inputs to the valuation methodology are quoted prices (unadjusted) for identical assets or liabilities in active markets.Â Level 2 â€” Inputs to the valuation methodology include quoted prices for similar assets and liabilities in active markets, and inputs that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly, for substantially the full term of the financial instrument.Â Level 3 â€” Inputs to the valuation methodology are unobservable and significant to the fair value measurement.Â The following describes the valuation methodologies used for the Companyâ€™s financial instruments measured at fair value on a recurring basis, as well as the general classification of such instruments pursuant to the valuation hierarchy.Â Residential Whole Loans, at Fair ValueÂ The Company determines the fair value of its residential whole loans held at fair value after considering valuations obtained from third parties that specialize in providing valuations of residential mortgage loans. The valuation approach applied generally depends on whether the loan is considered performing or non-performing at the date the valuation is performed. For performing loans, estimates of fair value are derived using a discounted cash flow approach, where estimates of cash flows are determined from the scheduled payments, adjusted using forecasted prepayment, default and loss given default rates. For non-performing loans, asset liquidation cash flows are derived based on the estimated time to liquidate the loan, the estimated value of the collateral, expected costs and estimated home price levels. Estimated cash flows for both performing and non-performing loans are discounted at yields considered appropriate to arrive at a reasonable exit price for the asset. Indications of loan value such as actual trades, bids, offers and generic market color may be used in determining the appropriate discount yield. The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans held at fair value are classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy; however, the Company determined that the market inputs used in valuing its Agency eligible investor loans were sufficiently observable to be classified as Level 2.Securities, at Fair ValueResidential Mortgage SecuritiesIn determining the fair value of the Companyâ€™s other residential mortgage securities, management considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services and brokers as well as dialogue with market participants.Â Valuations of TBA securities positions are based on executed levels for positions entered into and subsequently rolled forward, as well as prices obtained from pricing services for outstanding positions at each reporting date. These valuations are assessed for reasonableness by considering market TBA levels observed via Bloomberg for the same coupon and term to maturity. In valuing Non-Agency MBS, the Company understands that pricing services use observable inputs that include, in addition to trading activity observed in the marketplace, loan delinquency data, credit enhancement levels and vintage, which are taken into account to assign pricing factors such as spread and prepayment assumptions.Â The Company collects and considers current market intelligence on all major markets, including benchmark security evaluations and bid-lists from various sources, when available.Â The Companyâ€™s residential mortgage securities are valued using various market data points as described above, which management considers directly or indirectly observable parameters.Â Accordingly, these securities are classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. Term Notes Backed by MSR CollateralThe Companyâ€™s valuation process for term notes backed by MSR collateral is similar to that used for residential mortgage securities and considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services, brokers and repurchase agreement counterparties, dialogue with market participants, as well as managementâ€™s observations of market activity. Other factors taken into consideration include estimated changes in fair value of the related underlying MSR collateral and, as applicable, the financial performance of the ultimate parent or sponsoring entity of the issuer, which has provided a guarantee that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the related underlying MSR collateral are insufficient. Based on its evaluation of the observability of the data used in its fair value estimation process, these assets are classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy.Financing Agreements, at Fair ValueAgreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions These agreements are secured and subject to margin calls and their base interest rates reset frequently to market based rates. As a result, no credit valuation adjustment is required, and the primary factor in determining their fair value is the credit spread paid over the base rate, which is a non-observable input as it is determined based on negotiations with the counterparty. The Companyâ€™s financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value are classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy if the credit spreads used to price the instrument reset frequently, which is typically the case with shorter term repurchase agreement contracts collateralized by securities. Financing agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions that are typically longer term and are collateralized by residential whole loans where the credit spread paid over the base rate on the instrument is not reset frequently are classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy.Agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisionsThese agreements are secured, but not subject to margin calls based on changes in the fair value of the financed residential whole loans. Such agreements may experience changes in advance rates or collateral eligibility as a result of factors such as changes in the delinquency status of the financed residential whole loans. As a result, a credit valuation adjustment would only be required if there were a significant decrease in collateral value, and the primary factor in determining their fair value is the credit spread paid over the base rate, which is a non-observable input as it is determined based on negotiations with the counterparty. The Companyâ€™s financing agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value are classified as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy.Securitized DebtIn determining the fair value of securitized debt, management considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services and brokers as well as dialogue with market participants, consistent with the valuation methodology for residential mortgage securities. Accordingly, the Companyâ€™s securitized debt is classified as Level 2 in the fair value hierarchy. SwapsVariation margin payments on the Companyâ€™s Swaps are treated as a legal settlement of the exposure under the related Swap contract, the effect of which reduces what would have otherwise been reported as the fair value of the Swap, generally to zero. The Company receives prices from pricing services to validate the fair value of the Swaps. Changes to the valuation methodologies used with respect to the Companyâ€™s financial instruments are reviewed by management to ensure any such changes result in appropriate exit price valuations.Â The Company will refine its valuation methodologies as markets and products develop and pricing methodologies evolve.Â The methods described above may produce fair value estimates that may not be indicative of net realizable value or reflective of future fair values.Â Furthermore, while the Company believes its valuation methods are appropriate and consistent with those used by market participants, the use of different methodologies, or assumptions, to determine the fair value of certain financial instruments could result in a different estimate of fair value at the reporting date.Â The Company uses inputs that are current as of the measurement date, which may include periods of market dislocation, during which price transparency may be reduced.Â The Company reviews the classification of its financial instruments within the fair value hierarchy on a quarterly basis, and management may conclude that its financial instruments should be reclassified to a different level in the future.The following tables present the Companyâ€™s financial instruments carried at fair value on a recurring basis as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, on the consolidated balance Loans valued using a discounted cash flow model are most sensitive to changes in the discount rate assumption, while loans valued using the liquidation model technique are most sensitive to changes in the current value of the underlying properties and the liquidation timeline. Increases in discount rates, default rates, loss severities, or liquidation timelines, either in isolation or collectively, would generally result in a lower fair value measurement, whereas increases in the current or expected value of the underlying properties, in isolation, would result in a higher fair value measurement. In practice, changes in valuation assumptions may not occur in isolation and the changes in any particular assumption may result in changes in other assumptions, which could offset or amplify the impact on the overall valuation. In addition, at JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company held one property which is considered Commercial REO (see Note 5) which is accounted for similarly and had an estimated fair value, less estimated cost to sell, of $33.1Â million, of which the Companyâ€™s 75% interest was $24.8Â million. The Company classifies fair value measurements of REO as Level 3 in the fair value hierarchy. objective of such transactions may include obtaining non-recourse financing, obtaining liquidity or refinancing the underlying financial assets on improved terms.Â Securitization involves transferring assets to a SPE to convert all or a portion of those assets into cash before they would have been realized in the normal course of business, through the SPEâ€™s issuance of debt or equity instruments.Â Investors in a SPE usually have recourse only to the assets in the SPE and, depending on the overall structure of the transaction, may benefit from various forms of credit enhancement such as over-collateralization in the form of excess assets in the SPE, priority with respect to receipt of cash flows relative to holders of other debt or equity instruments issued by the SPE, or a line of credit or other form of liquidity agreement that is designed with the objective of ensuring that investors receive principal and/or interest cash flow on the investment in accordance with the terms of their investment agreement.Â The Company has entered into several financing transactions that resulted in the Company consolidating as VIEs the SPEs that were created to facilitate these transactions. See Note 2(p)Â for a discussion of the accounting policies applied to the consolidation of VIEs and transfers of financial assets in connection with financing transactions.Â The Company has engaged in loan securitizations primarily for the purpose of obtaining improved overall financing terms as well as non-recourse financing on a portion of its residential whole loan portfolio. Notwithstanding the Companyâ€™s participation in these transactions, the risks facing the Company are largely unchanged as the Company remains economically exposed to the first loss position on the underlying assets transferred to the VIEs.Â Loan Securitization TransactionsThe following table summarizes the key details of the Companyâ€™s consolidated loan securitization transactions currently outstanding as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023: (Dollars in Thousands)June 30, 2024December 31, 2023Aggregate unpaid principal balance of residential whole loans sold$8,664,831Â $8,241,053Â Face amount of Senior Bonds issued by the VIE and purchased by third-party investors$7,567,271Â $7,152,213Â Outstanding amount of Senior Bonds, at carrying value$632,912Â (1)$765,433Â (1)Outstanding amount of Senior Bonds, at fair value$4,414,701Â $3,985,372Â Outstanding amount of Senior Bonds, total$5,047,613Â $4,750,805Â Weighted average fixed rate for Senior Bonds issued4.88Â %(2)4.51Â %(2)Weighted average contractual maturity of Senior Bonds34 years(2)36 years(2)Face amount of Senior Support Certificates received by the Company (3)$1,083,414Â $1,047,297Â Cash received$7,504,463Â $7,089,575Â (1)Net of $1.3 million and $1.5 million of deferred financing costs at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively.(2)At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, $3.7 billion and $3.4 billion, respectively, of Senior Bonds sold in securitization transactions contained a contractual coupon step-up feature whereby the coupon increases by either 100, 150, or 200 basis points or more at defined dates ranging from 24 months, up to 48 months from issuance if the bond is not redeemed before such date.(3)Provides credit support to the Senior Bonds sold to third-party investors in the securitization transactions.During the three and six months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company issued Senior Bonds with a current face of $160.0Â million and $655.1Â million to third-party investors for proceeds of $160.0Â million and $654.9Â million before offering costs and accrued interest. The Senior Bonds issued by the Company during the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024 are included in â€œFinancing agreements, at fair valueâ€ (at carrying value) on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets (see Note 6). During the three months ended June 30, 2024, the Company liquidated one SPE (which had been formed in 2021) and repaid the remaining $68.1Â million of outstanding Senior Bonds issued by such SPE.As of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, as a result of the transactions described above, securitized loans of approximately $6.0 billion and $5.7 billion are included in â€œResidential whole loansâ€ and REO with a carrying value of approximately $10.2 million and $33.3 million are included in â€œOther assetsâ€ on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets, respectively. As of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the aggregate carrying value of Senior Bonds issued by consolidated VIEs was $5.0 billion and $4.8 billion, respectively.Â These Senior Bonds are disclosed as â€œSecuritized debtâ€ and are included in Financing agreements on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets.Â The holders of the securitized debt have no recourse to the general credit of the Company, but the Company does have the obligation, under certain circumstances, to repurchase assets from the VIE upon the breach of certain representations and warranties with respect to the residential whole loans sold to the VIE.Â In the absence of such a breach, the Company has no obligation to provide any other explicit or implicit support to any VIE.The Company concluded that the entities created to facilitate the loan securitization transactions are VIEs.Â The Company completed an analysis of whether each VIE created to facilitate the securitization transactions should be consolidated by the Company, based on consideration of its involvement in each VIE, including the design and purpose of the SPE, and whether its involvement reflected a controlling financial interest that resulted in the Company being deemed the primary beneficiary of each VIE.Â In determining whether the Company would be considered the primary beneficiary, the following factors were assessed:â€¢whether the Company has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the economic performance of the VIE;Â andâ€¢whether the Company has a right to receive benefits or absorb losses of the entity that could be potentially significant to the VIE.Â Based on its evaluation of the factors discussed above, including maintaining certain rights in each entity including rights to direct loss mitigation activities and its involvement in the purpose and design of the entity, the Company determined that it was required to consolidate each VIE created to facilitate the loan securitization transactions.The Company also invests in securities issued by SPEs that may be VIEs. The Company is not the primary beneficiary of these SPEs, because it does not have the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact their economic performance, and therefore does not consolidate them. For these entities, the Companyâ€™s maximum exposure to loss is the amortized cost basis of the securities it owns, and it does not provide any liquidity arrangements, guarantees or other commitments to these entities. For more information on the Companyâ€™s investments in securities, see Note 4.Residential Whole Loans and REO (including Residential Whole Loans and REO transferred to consolidated VIEs)Included on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets as of JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023 are a total of $9.2 billion and $9.0 billion, respectively, of residential whole loans. These assets, excluding certain loans originated and held by Lima One, and certain of the Companyâ€™s REO assets, are directly owned by certain trusts established by the Company to acquire the loans and entities established in connection with the Companyâ€™s loan securitization transactions. The Company has assessed that these entities are required to be consolidated (see Notes 3 and 5(a)). In addition, estimates are used in the determination of taxable income used in the assessment of REIT compliance and contingent liabilities for related taxes, penalties and interest (see Note 8).Â Actual results could differ from those estimates.The consolidated financial statements of the Company include the accounts of all subsidiaries. All intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated. In addition, the Company consolidates entities established to facilitate transactions related to the acquisition and securitization of residential whole loans. Certain prior period amounts have been reclassified to conform to the current period presentation. Residential Whole Loans (including Residential Whole Loans transferred to consolidated VIEs) Residential Whole Loans (including Residential Whole Loans transferred to consolidated VIEs) Residential whole loans included in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets are primarily comprised of pools of fixed- and adjustable-rate residential mortgage loans acquired through consolidated trusts in secondary market transactions or originated by our wholly owned subsidiary, Lima One Holdings, LLC, the parent company of Lima One Capital, LLC (collectively referred to as â€œLima Oneâ€). The accounting model utilized by the Company is determined at the time each loan package is initially acquired or each loan is originated. Prior to the second quarter of 2021, the Company typically elected the fair value option on loans that were 60 or more days delinquent at purchase. All other loans purchased prior to the second quarter of 2021 were typically held at carrying value. Starting in the second quarter of 2021, the Company began to elect the fair value option for all loans originated or acquired. The accounting model initially applied to loan originations and acquisitions is not permitted to be subsequently changed. Consequently, the Company is not permitted to retroactively apply fair value accounting to loans held at carrying value acquired in periods prior to the second quarter of 2021.The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans pledged as collateral against financing agreements are included in the consolidated balance sheets with amounts pledged disclosed in Note 6.Â Effective January 1, 2024, purchases and sales of residential whole loans are recorded on settlement date. As of December 31, 2023, approximately $103.7Â million of purchased residential whole loans, at fair value were recorded on the consolidated balance sheet and settled after period-end.The Companyâ€™s residential whole loans are primarily comprised of: (i) loans to finance (or refinance) one-to-four family residential properties that are not considered to meet the definition of a â€œQualified Mortgageâ€ in accordance with guidelines adopted by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (â€œNon-QM loansâ€), (ii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by residential properties made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to rehabilitate or construct residential housing and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œSingle-family transitional loansâ€), (iii) short-term business purpose loans collateralized by multifamily properties, typically with a loan balance below $10Â million, made to non-occupant borrowers that generally intend to moderately rehabilitate or stabilize and then refinance or sell the properties (â€œMultifamily transitional loansâ€) (collectively with Single-family transitional loans, â€œTransitional loans,â€ also sometimes referred to as â€œRehabilitation loansâ€ or â€œFix and Flip loansâ€), (iv) business purpose loans to finance (or refinance) non-owner occupied one-to-four family residential properties that are rented to one or more tenants (â€œSingle-family rental loansâ€ and, collectively with Transitional loans, â€œBusiness purpose loansâ€), (v) loans primarily secured by residential real estate that were generally either non-performing or re-performing at acquisition (â€œLegacy RPL/NPL loansâ€) and (vi) loans on investor properties that conform to the standards for purchase by a federally chartered corporation, such as the Federal National Mortgage Association (â€œFannie Maeâ€) or the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (â€œFreddie Macâ€) (â€œAgency eligible investor loans,â€ which are included in â€œOther loansâ€). Residential whole loans are initially recorded at their purchase price (or amount funded for originated loans). Interest income is accrued based on each loanâ€™s current interest-bearing balance and current interest rate. Interest income on loans acquired at a premium/discount to par is recorded each period based on the contractual coupon net of any amortization of premium or accretion of discount, adjusted for actual prepayment activity. For loans acquired with related servicing rights retained by the seller, interest income is reported net of related servicing costs.For loans acquired prior to the second quarter of 2021 for which the fair value option was not elected, an allowance for credit losses is recorded at acquisition, and maintained on an ongoing basis, for all credit losses expected over the life of the respective loan. Any required credit loss allowance would reduce the net carrying value of the loan with a corresponding charge to earnings, and may increase or decrease over time. Significant judgments are required in determining any allowance for credit loss, including assumptions regarding the loan cash flows expected to be collected, the value of the underlying collateral and the ability of the Company to collect on any other forms of security, such as a personal guaranty provided either by the borrower or an affiliate of the borrower. Income recognition is suspended, and interest accruals are reversed against income, for loans at the earlier of the date on which payments become 90 days past due or when, in the opinion of management, a full recovery of income and principal becomes doubtful (i.e., such loans are placed on nonaccrual status). For nonaccrual loans, interest income is recorded when interest payments are received. Interest accruals are resumed when the loan becomes contractually current. A loan is written off when it is no longer realizable and/or it is legally discharged. Charge-offs to the allowance for loan losses occur when losses are confirmed through the receipt of cash or other consideration from the completion of a sale; when a modification or restructuring takes place in which we grant a concession to a borrower or agree to a discount in full or partial satisfaction of the loan; when we take ownership and control of the underlying collateral in full satisfaction of the loan; when loans are reclassified as other investments; or when significant collection efforts have ceased and it is highly likely that a loss has been realized. The aggregate allowance for credit losses is equal to the sum of the losses expected over the life of each respective loan. Expected losses are generally calculated based on the estimated probability of default and loss severity of loans in the portfolio, which involves projecting each loanâ€™s expected cash flows based on their contractual terms, expected prepayments, and estimated default and loss severity rates. The expected losses in these projected cash flows are not discounted. The default and severity rates were estimated based on the following steps: (i) obtained the Companyâ€™s historical experience through an entire economic cycle for each loan type or, to the extent the Company did not have sufficient historical loss experience for a given loan type, publicly available data derived from the historical loss experience of certain banks, which data the Company believes is generally representative of its portfolio, (ii) obtained historical economic data (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) over the same period, and (iii) estimated default and severity rates during three distinct future periods based on historical default and severity rates during periods when economic conditions similar to those forecasted were experienced. The default and severity rates were applied to the estimated amount of loans outstanding during each future period, based on contractual terms and expected prepayments. Expected prepayments are estimated based on historical experience and current and expected future economic conditions, including market interest rates. The three periods were as follows: (i) a one-year forecast of economic conditions based on U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation, followed by (ii) a two-year â€œreversionâ€ period during which economic conditions (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) are projected to revert to historical averages on a straight line basis, followed by (iii) the remaining life of each loan, during which period economic conditions (U.S. unemployment rates and home price appreciation) are projected to equal historical averages. In addition, a liability is established (and recorded in Other Liabilities) each period using a similar methodology for committed but undrawn loan amounts. The Company forecasts future economic conditions based on forecasts provided by an external preparer of economic forecasts, as well as its own knowledge of the market and its portfolio. The Company may consider multiple scenarios and select the one that it believes results in the most reasonable estimate of expected losses. The Company may apply qualitative adjustments to these results as further described in Note 3. For certain loans where foreclosure has been deemed to be probable, loss estimates are based on whether the value of the underlying collateral is sufficient to recover the carrying value of the loan. This methodology has not changed significantly from the calculation of the allowance for credit losses in prior periods, although certain modeling factors have been refined over time and the data utilized has, in some cases, been updated to better align with actual and expected loss experiences.Certain Legacy RPL/NPL loans acquired by the Company for which the Company did not elect the fair value option are accounted for as credit deteriorated, as they have experienced a deterioration in credit quality since origination and prior to our purchase and were acquired at discounted prices that reflect, in part, the impaired credit history of the borrower. Substantially all of these loans have previously experienced payment delinquencies and the amount owed may exceed the value of the property pledged as collateral. Consequently, these loans generally have a higher likelihood of default than newly originated mortgage loans with loan-to-value ratios (â€œLTVsâ€) of 80% or less to creditworthy borrowers. The Company believes that amounts paid to acquire these loans represent fair market value at the date of acquisition. Loans considered credit deteriorated are initially recorded at their purchase price on a net basis, after establishing an initial allowance for credit losses (their initial cost basis is equal to their purchase price plus the initial allowance for credit losses). Subsequent to acquisition, the gross recorded amount for these loans reflects the initial cost basis, plus accretion/amortization of interest income, less principal and interest cash flows received. These credit deteriorated loans are presented on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets at carrying value, which reflects the recorded cost basis reduced by any allowance for credit losses. Interest income on such loans purchased is recorded each period based on the contractual coupon net of accretion/amortization of the difference between their cost basis and unpaid principal balance (â€œUPBâ€), subject to the Companyâ€™s nonaccrual policy.Loans Held-for-SaleFor loans for which the fair value option was not elected, once a decision has been made to sell loans previously classified as held for investment, such loans are considered held-for-sale and are carried at the lower of cost or fair value. Residential Whole Loans at Fair ValueCertain of the Companyâ€™s residential whole loans are presented at fair value on its consolidated balance sheets as a result of a fair value election made at the time of acquisition or origination. The Company generally considers accounting for these loans at fair value to be more reflective of the expected pattern of returns from these loans under current economic conditions. The Company determines the fair value of its residential whole loans held at fair value after considering portfolio valuations obtained from third-parties that specialize in providing valuations of residential mortgage loans and trading activity observed in the marketplace. Subsequent changes in fair value are reported in current period earnings and presented in Net (loss)/gain on residential whole loans measured at fair value through earnings on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Interest income is recorded on these loans based on their yield and is presented as part of interest income in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Cash outflows associated with loan-related advances made by the Company on behalf of the borrower are included in the basis of the loan and are reflected in unrealized gains or losses reported each period. Income and costs associated with originating loans on which the fair value option was elected are recorded in other income and expense, respectively, in the period in which they are earned or incurred. Securities, at Fair Value Securities, at Fair Value Residential Mortgage SecuritiesÂ The Company has invested in residential mortgage-backed securities (â€œMBSâ€) that are issued or guaranteed as to principal and/or interest by a federally chartered corporation, such as Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac, or an agency of the U.S. Government, such as the Government National Mortgage Association (â€œGinnie Maeâ€) (collectively, â€œAgency MBSâ€), and residential MBS that are not guaranteed by any agency of the U.S. Government or any federally chartered corporation (â€œNon-Agency MBSâ€). In addition, the Company has investments in credit risk transfer (â€œCRTâ€) securities that are issued by or sponsored by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. The coupon payments on CRT securities are paid by the issuer and the principal payments received are dependent on the performance of loans in either a reference pool or an actual pool of loans. As the loans in the underlying pool are paid, the principal balance of the CRT securities is paid. As an investor in a CRT security, the Company may incur a principal loss if the performance of the actual or reference pool loans results in either an actual or calculated loss that exceeds the credit enhancement of the security owned by the Company. Term Notes Backed by Mortgage Servicing Rights (â€œMSRâ€) Collateral The Company has invested in term notes that are issued by special purpose vehicles (â€œSPVâ€) that have acquired rights to receive cash flows representing the servicing fees and/or excess servicing spread associated with certain MSRs. The Company considers payment of principal and interest on these term notes to be largely dependent on the cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs as this impacts the cash flows available to the SPV that issued the term notes. Credit risk borne by the holders of the term notes is also mitigated by structural credit support in the form of over-collateralization. Credit support is also provided by a corporate guarantee from the ultimate parent or sponsor of the SPV that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the underlying MSRs are insufficient.DesignationÂ Securities that the Company generally intends to hold until maturity, but that it may sell from time to time as part of the overall management of its business, are designated as AFS. Such securities, which include term notes backed by MSR collateral and certain CRT securities, are carried at their fair value with unrealized gains and losses excluded from earnings (except when an allowance for loan losses is recognized, as discussed below) and reported in accumulated other comprehensive income/(loss) (â€œAOCIâ€), a component of Stockholdersâ€™ Equity.Â Upon the sale of an AFS security, any unrealized gain or loss is reclassified out of AOCI to earnings as a realized gain or loss using the specific identification method.The Company has elected the fair value option for its Agency and Non-Agency MBS and certain of its CRT securities. These securities are carried at their fair value with changes in fair value included in earnings for the period and reported in Other Income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.Revenue Recognition, Premium Amortization and Discount AccretionÂ Interest income on securities is accrued based on their outstanding principal balance and their contractual terms. Premiums and discounts associated with MBS assessed as high credit quality at the time of purchase are amortized into interest income over the life of such securities using the effective yield method. Adjustments to premium amortization are made for actual prepayment activity. Premiums and discounts associated with MBS not assessed as high credit quality at the time of purchase are amortized into interest income over the life of such securities using the effective yield method based upon current expected future cash flows. Any adjustment to yield is made on a prospective basis. Â Determination of Fair Value for SecuritiesÂ In determining the fair value of the Companyâ€™s residential mortgage securities, management considers a number of observable market data points, including prices obtained from pricing services, brokers and repurchase agreement counterparties, dialogue with market participants, as well as managementâ€™s observations of market activity (see Note 13). For term notes backed by MSR collateral, other factors taken into consideration include estimated changes in fair value of the related underlying MSR collateral, as applicable, and the financial performance of the ultimate parent or sponsoring entity of the issuer, which has provided a guarantee that is intended to provide for payment of interest and principal to the holders of the term notes if cash flows generated by the related underlying MSR collateral are insufficient. Â Allowance for Credit LossesWhen the fair value of an AFS security is less than its amortized cost at the balance sheet date, the security is considered impaired.Â The Company assesses its impaired securities, as well as securities for which a credit loss allowance had been previously recorded, on at least a quarterly basis and determines whether any changes to the allowance for credit losses are required.Â If the Company intends to sell an impaired security, or it is more likely than not that it will be required to sell the impaired security before its anticipated recovery, then the Company must recognize a write-down through charges to earnings equal to the entire difference between the investmentâ€™s amortized cost and its fair value at the balance sheet date.Â If the Company does not expect to sell an impaired security, only the portion of the impairment related to credit losses is recognized through a loss allowance charged to earnings with the remainder recognized through AOCI on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets.Â Impairments recognized through other comprehensive income/(loss) (â€œOCIâ€) do not impact earnings.Â Credit loss allowances are subject to reversal through earnings resulting from improvements in expected cash flows. The determination as to whether to record (or reverse) a credit loss allowance is subjective, as such determinations are based on factual information available at the time of assessment as well as the Companyâ€™s estimates of future performance and cash flow projections.Â As a result, the timing and amount of losses constitute material estimates that are susceptible to significant change (see Note 4).Balance Sheet PresentationÂ The Companyâ€™s securities pledged as collateral against financing agreements and interest rate swap agreements (â€œSwapsâ€) are included on the consolidated balance sheets with the fair value of the securities pledged disclosed in Notes 6 and 5, respectively.Â Purchases and sales of securities are recorded on the trade date. Cash and Cash Equivalents Cash and Cash Equivalents Â Cash and cash equivalents include cash on deposit with financial institutions and investments in money market funds, all of which have original maturities of three months or less.Â Cash and cash equivalents may also include cash pledged as collateral to the Company by its financing counterparties as a result of reverse margin calls (i.e., margin calls made by the Company).Â The Company did not hold any cash pledged by its counterparties at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023. Restricted Cash Restricted Cash Â Restricted cash primarily represents the Companyâ€™s cash collections held in connection with certain of the Companyâ€™s financing agreements, Swaps, consolidated securitization trusts and/or loan servicing activities that are not available to the Company for general corporate purposes. Restricted cash may be applied against amounts due to financing agreements, Swap counterparties and/or trust obligations or may be returned to the Company when the related collateral requirements are exceeded or at the maturity of financing agreements, Swaps and/or securitizations. Goodwill & Intangible Assets Goodwill & Intangible Assets Â At JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had goodwill of $61.1 million, which represents the excess of the fair value of consideration paid over the fair value of net assets acquired in connection with the acquisition of Lima One, and other intangible assets of $6.4 million and $8.0 million, respectively (net of amortization), primarily comprised of customer relationships, non-competition agreements (fully amortized as of June 30, 2022), trademarks and trade names, and internally developed software recognized as part of the acquisition of Lima One (see Note 5(b)). The intangible assets are amortized over their expected useful lives, which ranged from one to ten years at acquisition. Goodwill, which is not subject to amortization, and intangible assets are tested for impairment at least annually, or more frequently under certain circumstances that could reduce the fair value of the Lima One reporting unit (a component of the Lima One segment) below its carrying amount. Through JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company had not recognized any impairment against its goodwill or intangible assets. Goodwill and intangible assets are included in Other assets on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets. Real Estate Owned ("REO") Real Estate Owned (â€œREOâ€) Â REO represents real estate acquired by the Company, including through foreclosure, deed in lieu of foreclosure, or purchased in connection with the acquisition of residential whole loans. REO acquired through foreclosure or deed in lieu of foreclosure is initially recorded at fair value less estimated selling costs. REO acquired in connection with the acquisition of residential whole loans is initially recorded at its purchase price. Subsequent to acquisition, REO is reported, at each reporting date, at the lower of the current carrying amount or fair value less estimated selling costs and for presentation purposes is included in Other assets on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets. Changes in fair value that result in an adjustment to the reported amount of an REO property that has a fair value at or below its carrying amount are reported in Other Income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations Leases LeasesThe Company records its operating lease liabilities and operating lease right-of-use assets on its consolidated balance sheets. The operating lease liabilities are equal to the present value of the remaining fixed lease payments (excluding real estate tax and operating expense escalations) discounted at the Companyâ€™s estimated incremental borrowing rate at the date of lease commencement, and the operating lease right-of-use assets are equal to the operating lease liabilities adjusted for lease incentives and initial direct costs. As lease payments are made, the operating lease liabilities are reduced to the present value of the remaining lease payments and the operating lease right-of-use assets are reduced by the difference between the lease expense (straight-lined over the lease term) and the theoretical interest expense amount (calculated using the incremental borrowing rate at the date of lease commencement). Leasehold Improvements, Real estate and Other Depreciable Assets Leasehold Improvements, Real estate and Other Depreciable AssetsÂ Depreciation is computed on the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the related assets or, in the case of leasehold improvements, over the shorter of the useful life or the lease term.Â Furniture, fixtures, computers and related hardware have estimated useful lives ranging from five to fifteen years at the time of purchase. Loan Securitization and Other Debt Issuance Costs Loan Securitization and Other Debt Issuance Costs Â Loan securitization related costs are costs associated with the issuance of beneficial interests by consolidated VIEs and incurred by the Company in connection with various financing transactions completed by the Company.Â These costs may include underwriting, rating agency, legal, accounting, diligence, bank and other fees.Â Such costs, which reflect deferred charges (unless the debt is recorded at fair value, as discussed below), are included on the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets as a direct deduction from the corresponding debt liability. These deferred charges are amortized as an adjustment to interest expense using the effective interest method. For certain financing agreements, such costs are amortized over the shorter of the period to the expected or stated legal maturity of the debt instruments. The Company periodically reviews the recoverability of these deferred costs and, in the event an impairment charge is required, such amount will be included in Operating and Other Expense on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. To the extent that the Company has elected the fair value option for the related debt liability, these costs are expensed at the closing of the transaction. Financing Arrangements Financing Agreements The Company finances the majority of its residential mortgage assets with financing agreements that include securitized debt, repurchase agreements and other forms of collateralized financing.Â Under repurchase agreements, the Company sells assets to a lender and agrees to repurchase the same assets in the future for a price that is higher than the original sale price.Â The difference between the sale price that the Company receives and the repurchase price that the Company pays represents interest paid to the lender.Â Although legally structured as sale and repurchase transactions, the Company accounts for repurchase agreements as secured borrowings. Under its repurchase agreements and other forms of collateralized financing, the Company pledges its assets as collateral to secure the borrowing, in an amount which is equal to a specified percentage of the fair value of the pledged collateral, while the Company retains beneficial ownership of the pledged collateral.Â At the maturity of a repurchase financing, unless the repurchase financing is renewed with the same counterparty, the Company is required to repay the loan including any accrued interest and concurrently receives back its pledged collateral from the lender.Â With the consent of the lender, the Company may renew a repurchase financing at the then prevailing financing terms.Â Margin calls, whereby a lender requires that the Company pledge additional assets or cash as collateral to secure borrowings under its repurchase financing with such lender, are routinely experienced by the Company when the value of the assets pledged as collateral declines as a result of principal amortization and prepayments or due to changes in market interest rates, spreads or other market conditions.Â The Company also may make margin calls on counterparties when collateral values increase.Â Should a counterparty decide not to renew a financing arrangement at maturity, the Company must either refinance elsewhere or be in a position to satisfy the obligation.Â If, during the term of a financing, a lender should default on its obligation, the Company might experience difficulty recovering its pledged assets which could result in an unsecured claim against the lender for the difference between the amount loaned to the Company plus interest due to the counterparty and the fair value of the collateral pledged by the Company to such lender, including accrued interest receivable on such collateral (see Notes 6 and 13).Â The Company has elected the fair value option on certain of its financing agreements. These agreements are reported at their fair value, with changes in fair value being recorded in earnings each period (or OCI, to the extent the change results from a change in instrument specific credit risk), as further detailed in Note 6. Interest expense on such financing agreements is recorded based on the current stated interest rate and outstanding principal balance in effect for the related agreement. Equity-Based Compensation Equity-Based Compensation Â Compensation expense for equity-based awards that are subject to vesting conditions, is recognized ratably over the vesting period of such awards, based upon the fair value of such awards at the grant date.Â Â The Company has made annual grants of restricted stock units (â€œRSUsâ€) under the Companyâ€™s Equity Compensation Plan (the â€œEquity Planâ€), certain of which cliff vest after a three-year period, subject only to continued employment, and others of which cliff vest after a three-year period, subject to both continued employment and the achievement of certain performance criteria based on a formula tied to the Companyâ€™s achievement of average total shareholder return (â€œTSRâ€) during that three-year period, as well as the TSR of the Company relative to the TSR of a group of peer companies (over the three-year period) selected by the Compensation Committee of the Companyâ€™s Board of Directors (the â€œCompensation Committeeâ€) at the date of grant. The features in these awards related to the attainment of TSR over a specified period constitute a â€œmarket condition,â€ which impacts the amount of compensation expense recognized for these awards.Â Specifically, the uncertainty regarding the achievement of the market condition was reflected in the grant date fair valuation of the RSUs, which is recognized as compensation expense over the relevant vesting period.Â The amount of compensation expense recognized is not dependent on whether the market condition was or will be achieved. Earnings per Common Share (â€œEPSâ€) Earnings per Common Share (â€œEPSâ€) Â Basic EPS is computed using the two-class method, which includes the weighted-average number of shares of common stock outstanding during the period and an estimate of other securities that participate in dividends, if any, to arrive at total common equivalent shares.Â In applying the two-class method, earnings are allocated to both shares of common stock and estimated securities that participate in dividends based on their respective weighted-average shares outstanding for the period. In calculating basic EPS, no adjustment is made to income available to common stockholders for forfeitable dividends or dividend equivalents. For the diluted EPS calculation, common equivalent shares are further adjusted for the effect of RSUs outstanding that are unvested and have dividends that are subject to forfeiture, using the treasury stock method.Â Under the treasury stock method, common equivalent shares are calculated assuming that all dilutive common stock equivalents are exercised and the proceeds, along with future compensation expenses associated with such instruments (if any), are used to repurchase shares of the Companyâ€™s outstanding common stock at the average market price during the reported period.Â In addition, the Companyâ€™s 6.25% Convertible Senior Notes due 2024 (the â€œConvertible Senior Notesâ€) were included in the calculation of diluted EPS if the assumed conversion into common shares was dilutive, using the â€œif-convertedâ€ method until their maturity and repayment in full. This calculation involved adding back the periodic interest expense associated with the Convertible Senior Notes to the numerator and by adding the shares that would have been issued in an assumed conversion (regardless of whether the conversion option is in or out of the money) to the denominator for the purposes of calculating diluted EPS Comprehensive Income/(Loss) Comprehensive Income/(Loss) Â The Companyâ€™s comprehensive income/(loss) available to common stock and participating securities includes net income, the change in net unrealized gains/(losses) on its AFS securities and derivative hedging instruments (to the extent that such changes are not recorded in earnings), adjusted by realized net gains/(losses) reclassified out of AOCI for sold AFS securities and terminated hedging relationships, as well as the portion of unrealized gains/(losses) on its financing agreements held at fair value related to instrument-specific credit risk, and is reduced by dividends declared on the Companyâ€™s preferred stock and issuance costs of redeemed preferred stock. Derivative Financial Instruments Derivative Financial Instruments Â The Company may use derivative instruments to economically hedge a portion of its exposure to market risks, including interest rate risk and prepayment risk. The objective of the Companyâ€™s risk management strategy is to reduce fluctuations in net book value over a range of interest rate scenarios. SwapsÂ The Company has entered into Swaps that are not designated as hedges for accounting purposes. Changes in the fair value of the Companyâ€™s Swaps not designated in hedging transactions are recorded in Other income/(Loss), net on the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations.To Be Announced (â€œTBAâ€) SecuritiesDuring 2021 and 2022, the Company entered into transactions to take short positions in TBA securities in connection with the management of interest rate and other market risks associated with purchases of Agency eligible investor loans. As the Company did not intend to physically settle its transactions in TBA securities, they were required to be accounted for as derivative financial instruments. The Company did not apply hedge accounting to its TBA securities. Accordingly, TBA securities were recorded on the Companyâ€™s balance sheets at fair value, with realized and unrealized changes in fair value each period recorded in Other income/(Loss), net in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. Fair Value Measurements and the Fair Value Option for Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities Fair Value Measurements and the Fair Value Option for Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities Â The Companyâ€™s presentation of fair value for its financial assets and liabilities is determined within a framework that stipulates that the fair value of a financial asset or liability is an exchange price in an orderly transaction between market participants to sell the asset or transfer the liability in the market in which the reporting entity would transact for the asset or liability, that is, the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability.Â The transaction to sell the asset or transfer the liability is a hypothetical transaction at the measurement date, considered from the perspective of a market participant that holds the asset or owes the liability.Â This definition of fair value focuses on exit price and prioritizes the use of market-based inputs over entity-specific inputs when determining fair value.Â In addition, the framework for measuring fair value establishes a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements based upon the observability of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability as of the measurement date.Â In addition to the financial instruments that it is required to report at fair value, the Company has elected the fair value option for certain of its financial assets and liabilities at the time of acquisition or issuance. Subsequent changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are generally reported in Other income/(Loss), net, in the Companyâ€™s consolidated statements of operations. A decision to elect the fair value option for an eligible financial instrument, which may be made on an instrument by instrument basis, is irrevocable Variable Interest Entities Variable Interest Entities Â An entity is referred to as a VIE if it meets at least one of the following criteria:Â (i)Â the entity has equity that is insufficient to permit the entity to finance its activities without the additional subordinated financial support of other parties; or (ii)Â as a group, the holders of the equity investment at risk lack (a)Â the power to direct the activities of an entity that most significantly impact the entityâ€™s economic performance; (b)Â the obligation to absorb the expected losses; or (c)Â the right to receive the expected residual returns; or (iii)Â the holders of the equity investment at risk have disproportional voting rights and the entityâ€™s activities are conducted on behalf of the investor that has disproportionately few voting rights.Â The Company consolidates a VIE when it has both the power to direct the activities that most significantly impact the economic performance of the VIE and a right to receive benefits or absorb losses of the entity that could be potentially significant to the VIE.Â Â The Company is required to reconsider its evaluation of whether to consolidate a VIE each reporting period, based upon changes in the facts and circumstances pertaining to the VIE.Â The Company has entered into several financing transactions which resulted in the Company forming entities to facilitate these transactions.Â In determining the accounting treatment to be applied to these transactions, the Company concluded that the entities used to facilitate these transactions are VIEs and that they should be consolidated.Â If the Company had determined that consolidation was not required, it would have then assessed whether the transfers of the underlying assets would qualify as sales or should be accounted for as secured financings under GAAP (see Note 14).The Company also includes on its consolidated balance sheets certain financial assets and liabilities that are acquired/issued by trusts and/or other special purpose entities that have been evaluated as being required to be consolidated by the Company under the applicable accounting guidance.The Company has an investment in a VIE, in which it is not considered to be the primary beneficiary and therefore is not consolidated, but is considered an equity method investment. The VIE owns a newly constructed industrial property as further described in Note 5. Offering Costs Related to Issuance and Redemption of Preferred Stock Offering Costs Related to Issuance and Redemption of Preferred Stock Offering costs related to the issuance of preferred stock are recorded as a reduction in Additional paid-in capital, a component of Stockholdersâ€™ Equity, at the time such preferred stock is issued. On redemption of preferred stock, any excess of the fair value of the consideration transferred to the holders of the preferred stock over the carrying amount of the preferred stock in the Companyâ€™s consolidated balance sheets is included in the determination of Net Income Available to Common Stock and Participating Securities in the calculation of EPS. New Accounting Standards and Interpretations New Accounting Standards and Interpretations As of JuneÂ 30, 2024, there were no new accounting standards or interpretations adopted by the Company that had a material effect on its consolidated financial statements in 2024. For loans acquired with servicing rights released by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation do not reflect loan servicing fees. For loans acquired with servicing rights retained by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation are net of servicing fees. (2)LTV represents the ratio of the total unpaid principal balance of the loan to the estimated value of the collateral securing the related loan as of the most recent date available, which may be the origination date. Excluded from the calculation of weighted average LTV are certain low value loans secured by vacant lots, for which the LTV ratio is not meaningful. 60+ LTV has been calculated on a consistent basis. (3)Excludes loans for which no Fair Isaac Corporation (â€œFICOâ€) score is available. (4)For Single-family and Multifamily transitional loans, the LTV presented is the ratio of the maximum unpaid principal balance of the loan, including unfunded commitments, to the estimated â€œafter repairedâ€ value of the collateral securing the related loan, where available. For certain Single-family transitional loans, totaling $467.2 million and $332.5 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively, and certain Multifamily transitional loans, totaling $498.7 million and $218.8 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively, an after repaired valuation was not available. For these loans, the weighted average LTV is calculated based on the current unpaid principal balance and the as-is value of the collateral securing the related loan.(5)Excluded from the table above are approximately $103.7 million of Residential whole loans, at fair value for which the closing of the purchase transaction had not occurred as of DecemberÂ 31, 2023. For loans acquired with servicing rights released by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation do not reflect loan servicing fees. For loans acquired with servicing rights retained by the seller, interest rates included in the calculation are net of servicing fees. (2)LTV represents the ratio of the total unpaid principal balance of the loan to the estimated value of the collateral securing the related loan as of the most recent date available, which may be the origination date. Excluded from the calculation of weighted average LTV are certain low value loans secured by vacant lots, for which the LTV ratio is not meaningful. 60+ LTV has been calculated on a consistent basis. (3)Excludes loans for which no Fair Isaac Corporation (â€œFICOâ€) score is available. (4)For Single-family and Multifamily transitional loans, the LTV presented is the ratio of the maximum unpaid principal balance of the loan, including unfunded commitments, to the estimated â€œafter repairedâ€ value of the collateral securing the related loan, where available. For certain Single-family transitional loans, totaling $467.2 million and $332.5 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively, and certain Multifamily transitional loans, totaling $498.7 million and $218.8 million at JuneÂ 30, 2024 and DecemberÂ 31, 2023, respectively, an after repaired valuation was not available. For these loans, the weighted average LTV is calculated based on the current unpaid principal balance and the as-is value of the collateral securing the related loan.(5)Excluded from the table above are approximately $103.7 million of Residential whole loans, at fair value for which the closing of the purchase transaction had not occurred as of DecemberÂ 31, 2023. Financing agreements held at fair value are reported at estimated fair value each period as a result of the Companyâ€™s fair value option election. The fair value option was not elected for financing agreements held at carrying value. Consequently, total financing agreements as presented reflects a summation of balances reported at fair and carrying value. At JuneÂ 30, 2024, the Company had $290.2Â million of agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, $377.3Â million of agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, and $4.4Â billion of securitized debt held at fair value, with amortized cost bases of $290.2Â million, $377.3Â million, and $4.5Â billion, respectively. At DecemberÂ 31, 2023, the Company had $178.9Â million of agreements with mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, $469.4Â million of agreements with non-mark-to-market collateral provisions held at fair value, and $4.0Â billion of securitized debt held at fair value, with amortized cost bases of $178.9Â million, $469.4Â million, and $4.1Â billion, respectively. (2)Weighted average cost of funding reflects annualized quarter-to-date interest expense (inclusive of the amortization of deferred financing costs) divided by average balance for the financing agreements. The cost of funding for the total financing agreements includes the impact of the net carry (the difference between swap interest income received and swap interest expense paid) on the Companyâ€™s Swaps. For the three months ended JuneÂ 30, 2024, this decreased the overall funding cost by 127 basis points, and for the three months ended DecemberÂ 31, 2023, this decreased the overall funding cost by 140 basis points. The Company does not allocate the impact of the net carry by type of financing agreement.
